FIVE MEN INDICTED FOR ALLEGED EFFORT TO BRIBE JUROR IN WALTER TAYLOR TRIAL

Taylor To Decide on Resigning City Clerkship Today

DECISION AWAITS ADVICE OF FRIENDS, OFFICIAL STATES

MILLICAN INSISTS CLERK LEAVE POST

Alderman Will Ask Impeachment of Convicted Official Unless He Resigns, He Says.

Resignation, when council meets Monday, of Walter C. Taylor, city clerk, under conviction of bribery, loomed Thursday.

Taylor's decision will be made definitely today after he confers with a group of friends, he stated Thursday afternoon.

Several days ago, the clerk began circulation of a petition seeking a leave of absence for 30 days, and since that time has amended the petition so that if it is granted, he will quit the post he has held for 19 years at the expiration of that time.

Several members of council were asked to sign the petition in its amended form Wednesday, it was learned Thursday, but since then Taylor has become uncertain as to just what course he will pursue and Thursday said he refrained from seeking any further signatures to the paper pending the advice his friends give him at the conference today.

"I must obtain rest under my doctor's orders," Taylor said Thursday. "Just what course I will pursue, I have not yet decided and will not know until after the conferences Friday. I did ask several members of council to approve the leave of absence and its amendment, but later was undecided as to just what action I should take. I have not asked anyone to approve the measure today and will not do so until after the conference Friday."

Alderman G. Everett Millican, of the tenth ward, has announced that unless the convicted clerk sends in his resignation at the council session Monday he will insist on appointment of a special committee to investigate Taylor and, if the committee finds cause, will ask that council go immediately into an impeachment hearing.

Mr. Millican holds that the people of Atlanta will be satisfied with nothing short of Taylor's relinquishment of his post, at least until the higher courts finally adjudicate the case in which he was convicted.

Heavy Storms Delay Flight of Zeppelin

HAVANA, May 29.—(AP)—Wireless messages from the Graf Zeppelin tonight indicated that the big airship may cancel her scheduled flight over Cuba and skip the stop at Havana. They said the Zeppelin is encountering heavy storms and has been delayed many hours.

The messages were received by Louis Classing, general manager of the Hamburg-American Line here. They added that Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the airship, would definitely decide tomorrow whether the Graf should head directly for Lakehurst and New York instead of stopping at Havana. The Cuban visit was referred to as a "detour" on the trip from Pernambuco, Brazil, to Lakehurst. The Graf Zeppelin wirelessed the navy radio station at Balboa tonight that it was passing Barbados at 9 p. m., E. S. T., heading northwest.

Body of Woman Taken From River

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—A copper wire twisted about the throat, the body of a woman was taken today from the Harlem river near the Yankee stadium.

Doctors estimated she had been dead at least six months, perhaps longer. Wire also bound her arms and legs.

A pair of red slippers, a wrist watch, a ring set with bits of glass and an imitation pearl necklace were the slender clews police had in their attempt to identify her.

She weighed about 135 pounds and was between 30 and 45 years old.

MARSHALL SPEAKS TO BAR MEMBERS

BRUNSWICK, Ga., May 29.—(AP)—Members of the Georgia Bar Association, meeting here today for their 47th annual convention, heard an address by President Rembert Marshall, of Atlanta, appointed several committees, and then adjourned the opening business session to enjoy an afternoon of sports.

The convention, which will continue through Saturday, opened this morning with a silent tribute to the late Judge Joseph E. Pottle, of Milledgeville, who was president of the association at the time of his death a few weeks ago. He was succeeded by Mr. Marshall, formerly vice president of the organization, who is presiding over the present meetings. A memorial service for Judge Pottle will be held tomorrow.

In his address Mr. Marshall gave a comprehensive review of the formation and powers of the supreme court of the United States, including the provisions for it under the original constitution and the various amendments that have affected its organization and jurisdiction.

Upon motion of Orville A. Park, of Macon, Logan E. Bleckley, clerk of the Georgia court of appeals and treasurer of the bar association, was unanimously elected to honorary life membership in appreciation of his work in the creation of the association's student aid fund. Mr. Bleckley is the third person thus honored by the body.

Nominating Committee.

Members of the nominating committee appointed today are former Governor John M. Slaton, chairman; Millard Reese, Brunswick; John M. Graham, Atlanta; Hatton Lovejoy, LaGrange, and H. H. Swift, Columbus. The committee on resolutions includes R. M. Arnold, Columbus; E. D. Smith, Atlanta, and L. W. Branch, Quitman.

An amendment to the by-laws adopted today provides for restoring to full membership in the association those in default who pay their back dues. In the annual treasurer's report, submitted today by Mr. Bleckley, it was shown that there are now approximately 1,000 members of the association in the state. About two hundred are attending the convention.

Among new members, whose election was announced by John B. Harris, of Macon, chairman of the executive committee, are C. S. Baldwin, Madison; E. T. Bradley, Atlanta; Kenneth Campbell, Atlanta; J. J. Blount, Hawkinsville; A. C. Garden, Fitzgerald; W. F. Miller, Brunswick; John W. Roberts, Monroe; Herschel E. Smith, Louisville; Walter F. Lewis, Monroe; James B. Stone, Atlanta; S. S. Bennett, Quitman, B. B. Earle, Thomasville; Hoyt H. Whelchel, Moultrie; John J. Gilbert, Brunswick, and Lamar Cox, Albany.

Entertainment Program.

The afternoon of entertainment was devoted to golf, fishing, trap shooting, bathing and automobile trips on St. Simons island and Sea Island Beach. A shore dinner on the sand dunes, given by the Sea Island Company, and a supper dance at the Yacht Club completed the day's program.

Much the same schedule of events will be followed tomorrow, the feature of the social program being a banquet in the evening at which Albert Howell, of Atlanta, and R. J. Travis, of Savannah, will speak. Others planning to make addresses during the convention are Justice Samuel C. Atkinson, of the state supreme court; Judge Nash R. Broyles, of the Georgia court of appeals; A. C. Wheeler, Gainesville; P. F. Brock, Macon, and Hatton Lovejoy, LaGrange. It was announced today that former United States Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, will be unable to speak before the association tomorrow as scheduled.

Announcement was made Friday night that Howard E. Coffin, who has extensive resort developments on the south Georgia coast including the island upon which the lawyers are meeting, would speak at 11 a. m. tomorrow in place of former Senator Reed.

Sculptor Dies.

PARIS, May 29.—(AP)—Arthur Putnam, American sculptor, died suddenly Tuesday at his home at Ville Davray, near Paris, at the age of 56. His body will be cremated and the ashes taken to America.

Johnston Falls as Atlanta Ace Enters Quarter Finals; Jones-Voigt Match Likely Today.

BY ARCH RODGERS,
United News Staff Correspondent.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 29.—Bobby Jones' triumphant march into the quarter-final round of the British amateur golf championship today left another national champion among his victims.

Winning both his matches today, Jones defeated Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, of St. Paul, United States amateur champion, 1 up in the 6th round, making the second day in succession he has conquered champions, as he put out Cyril Tolley, British amateur titleholder, in the 4th round yesterday.

After today's 5th and 6th rounds matches were over only Jones and George Voigt, of New York, remained of the invading American forces for the quarter-final and semi-final round matches tomorrow.

Numbered among the eight survivors was one other American, Douglas Grant, formerly of New York but now of London, who is in the lower bracket with three Englishmen, W. L. Hartley, H. R. Howell and Roger Wethered, 1923 British amateur champion.

Jones and Voigt are in the upper bracket and will meet in the semi-final round tomorrow afternoon if they win their quarter-final matches—Jones playing Eric Fiddian, a dark horse who has slipped into the seventh round almost unnoticed, and Voigt engaging William Sutton, the Birkenhead oil worker who defeated Cyril Tolley in a tournament last year.

Americans Out.

The last genuine American contenders in the lower bracket were put out in the fifth round today when W. L. Hartley defeated Francis Ouimet of Boston, 4 and 3, and the Honorable Michael Scott defeated George Von Elm of Detroit in a bitter struggle, 1 up, in 20 holes. Hartley won his sixth round match, but Scott fell before Douglas Grant, 3 and 1.

The elimination of Ouimet and Von Elm will prevent an all-American final from being staged among the invaders, but will not keep Americans from meeting in the 36-hole final Saturday if Jones or Voigt comes through in the upper half and Grant survives his two tests tomorrow.

After overwhelming G. O. Watt, 7 and 6, in the fifth round this morning, Jones barely staved off a sensational closing rush by Jimmy Johnston before a gallery of 10,000 to beat the American amateur champion, 1 up.

Bobby took the lead by winning the second hole with a par 4, and gradually increased his lead until he was 4 up at the end of the thirteenth. Jones won the eighth, but lost the ninth, completing the first nine, 1 up.

Jones set a furious pace after making the turn, winning the 10th, halving the 11th, winning the 12th and 13th, but Jimmy escaped a crushing defeat by staging a gallant finish which almost brought him on even terms.

Johnston Takes One.

Johnston won the 14th when it took Jones four strokes to reach the 516-yard green, Jimmy sinking his putt for a four. Johnston won the 15th, halved the 16th and won the 17th, leaving Jones only 1 up and 1 hole to play. Johnston made a desperate effort to even the match on the 18th hole when he failed by less than two yards in an attempt to sink his approach shot. Jones sank a two-yard putt for a four, halving the hole and winning the match.

Jones confessed as he entered the clubhouse that he didn't want any more matches like he had against Johnston.

Johnston, hands in pockets, smiled as he stood in the archway to the clubhouse.

"Bobby's title of 'world's greatest golfer' certainly is true," said Johnston. "His game is always sound and it was especially so today when it was my honor to play him. He is also my greatest inspiration. I hope he wins the amateur cup which he so richly deserves."

In getting back to the Grand hotel, where the Americans are quartered, Bobby had to emulate Charley Paddack and race almost 100 yards to avoid the milling throngs outside the clubhouse who wished to pay tribute to him. The police escort was 40 yards behind Bobby when he reached the hotel safely.

George Voigt played erratic but at times brilliant golf to defeat William Campbell, 3 and 2, in the fifth round, and W. L. Hope, 2 up in the sixth round. Voigt and Campbell were all square at the end of nine holes of their morning match, but George shot three straight threes coming in to

TARIFF REFORMS CUT FROM BILL BY REPUBLICANS

BY HERBERT LITTLE,
United News Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Republican leaders today showed their confidence that the tariff bill would pass by dropping proposed tariff commission reforms from the flexible clause.

Then on the senate floor they answered a democratic member who charged President Hoover inspired the changes to safeguard White House rate-changing power to use in political crises. They pointed out that it was a democratic senator, Barley, Ky., who objected and got Vice President Curtis to send the flexible clause back to conference for rewriting.

The rewritten clause, which follows closely the present flexible law with two exceptions, was completed by the house and senate conferees today and will be brought up Monday. These two exceptions are that the tariff commission can recommend a definite rate which the president must accept, reject or ignore but not modify, and that invoices and other factors may be taken into account in determining costs of production abroad. This is a "yardstick" of Mr. Hoover's own choice, to enable a speedy determination in place of the present process which sometimes takes years of investigation.

The conferees made no effort to get around the democratic objection that it is unconstitutional to give the commission power except to ascertain facts. Under the present law the president determines the rates after the commission reports; under the provision's present form, the commission will recommend a rate of duty. As under present law, the change must not exceed 50 per cent up or down, and cannot include a transfer of an item to or from the duty-free list.

Many low-tariff republicans have been expecting that with faster procedure the president will take advantage of the clause to cut down some of the industrial rates which he believes should not have been increased in according with his plan for "limited" revision. It is pointed out, however, that Mr. Hoover has acted only on a few minor rates in his 15 months so far.

The conferees also eliminated another proposal favored by the democrats, providing for annual rotation of commission chairmen. The commission is to be bi-partisan, composed of three democrats and three republicans, but under the changed provision the president probably will name only republicans to head the body.

"They gagged us and put it through," said Senator Harrison, democrat, Tennessee, as he came out of the conference. On the floor he took up the battle, but without bothering the republican leaders noticeably.

President Hoover is understood to have approved the rewritten clause as even better than it was last week, when a misunderstanding over the "yardstick" clause brought him hurrying back to Washington from the Rapidan to protect his interest.

Harrison charged Mr. Hoover was responsible for the involved back-and-forthing on the bill in recent days, and exhibited a copy of a memorandum which he said was sent by Mr. Hoover through an intermediary to the republican conferees recommending what Harrison said were even more drastic executive powers.

Harrison charged Walter Newton, White House political secretary, was present in the tariff conference room once and that the changed political provision "gives the president the power he has been craving to pluck plums of campaign contributions and corral votes just before elections."

He asserted that Vice President Curtis was acting for Mr. Hoover Tuesday in sending the bill back to conference, opening the way for today's change. "I never saw senate conferees abandon their position more gleefully than the republican leaders surrendered in the conference committee this morning," he said.

He also charged Chairman Smoot, of the senate finance committee, secured the appointment of Chairman Broussard, of the tariff commission, and termed Smoot and Broussard "the Gold Dust Twins from Utah."

Republican Leader Watson rejoined that the president merely wanted to lodge more, not less, power with the commission. He said the responsibility for the latest change lay with the democrats because Barkley made the point of order against it Tuesday.

Barkley explained his action was a personal one, because he objected to the provision and did not commit the other democrats.

Cashier Jailed.

ST. LOUIS, May 29.—(AP)—Gifford J. Herbert, cashier of the Grand National Bank, which was looted of more than $600,000 in cash, securities, jewelry and other valuables last Sunday, was arrested late today and placed under $50,000 bond to answer to any charge that may be filed against him.

Old Men Provide Brains, Youth Energy, Ford Says

:: MAGNATE AGAIN DEFENDS AGE IN INDUSTRY ::

DETROIT, May 29.—(AP)—Henry Ford believes "more than ever" that business and industry must depend upon the leadership of men of mature years. He told The Associated Press today that he had found no occasion to change his previously expressed opinion that if all the men of 55 years and older were removed from industry "there would not be brains enough left to carry on."

"This is no reflection upon the youth of today," he said, "I think that while they are different, today's youngsters are a fine lot and they decidedly are not headed for perdition. Moreover, they have greater opportunities today than the youth of 40 and 50 years ago."

Mr. Ford was asked whether he always had conceded the wisdom of age.

"You didn't think that back in 1894 when you began tinkering with your horseless carriage, did you?"

"I always had older men for friends and I always went to them for advice, I could cite them one after another, old men understood my idea better than young men did, with mature years I realized more and more the value of that advice.

"I realized that in my youth I hadn't waked up yet."

Youth and age need each other, Mr. Ford went on. "Youth must look to age for its education," he said, "and age educates youth because youth interests it."

Referring again to the need of mature minds in industry, Mr. Ford said: "Young men from 30 years on are the best executives—I mean they are well fitted to carry out the plans of an organization, but the best plans originate in older heads. The best part of a young executive's experience may be the way he is held back by the wiser plans of older heads. There can be an excess of action and an insufficiency of wisdom. Between them, youth and maturity provide both."

Asked whether 100 per cent education would not result in 100 per cent demand for "white collar jobs," with none desiring to do the less pleasant tasks, Mr. Ford said:

"It is a fortunate thing, perhaps, that we never can be 100 per cent educated—or anything else. Constantly changing conditions and the striving for better things answers that question.

"After all, quality is the objective in every line of endeavor. Mass production of quality products must be the objective if people are not to stand still. I said previously that when people become contented there's trouble ahead. This is specially true if they become contented with the product of industry and the soil. Things always can be improved upon.

"It is because people never will become 100 per cent satisfied with everything they have that we never will reach the saturation point in anything that we produce.

"Every farmer with an acre and every workman with a lot ought to plant everything they can and as much as they can this year, it is a big step back to employment."

PARDON IS ASKED FOR L. R. ADAMS

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Five members of the Georgia congressional delegation spent more than two hours at the department of justice today urging a pardon for L. R. Adams, of Atlanta, now serving a five-year sentence in the federal penitentiary in connection with the failure of the Bankers' Trust Company of Georgia, of which he was vice president.

Fortified with recommendations for executive clemency from a large number of officials from Georgia and elsewhere, the group informed the department that nothing short of a complete pardon would be appropriate in the Atlanta banker's case, explaining that a simple parole was not desired.

The hearings were conducted before James A. Finch, department of justice attorney in charge of pardons, and the Georgia members participating included Senator W. J. Harris and Senator Walter F. George, together with Representative Charles H. Brand, Representative Thomas M. Bell and Representative Charles R. Crisp.

At the conclusion of the lengthy hearings, Attorney Finch promised to review the case and present a report at an early date. While declining to say what recommendation he will make he indicated that he had been favorably impressed with the arguments presented.

Opposed by Hager.

It developed during the hearings that United States District Attorney Clint W. Hager, of Atlanta, has forwarded to the department a report opposing the agitation for a pardon.

Adams, who began his five-year sentence at the Atlanta penitentiary during April of last year, will be eligible for parole next December. Department officials told the Georgia delegation today that they would approve a parole at that time, but the offer met with the reply that only full executive clemency would be acceptable.

Although all of the Georgia members took part in the hearings in behalf of a pardon the task of presenting the main arguments fell to Representative Brand and Senator George.

Representative Brand consumed an hour or more in reviewing the case and pointed out to Attorney Finch that the two counts on which Adams was convicted under the 20-count indictment have been nullified in subsequent trials, those of W. D. Manley, head of the bank, and others. The two counts in question were described as 1 and 20.

P. J. Baker, Representative Brand said, had been acquitted on Count 20, while Count 1 had been dismissed against Mr. Manley in his trial.

In a brief laid before the department by Representative Brand, a pardon for Mr. Adams was urged on the following grounds:

Basis for Pardon.

Because he is not guilty of the crimes for which he was convicted.

Because the jury has twice requested clemency.

Because the sentence was excessive under the facts and verdict.

Because the trial judge has said: "He (petitioner) never was intentionally dishonest.

"That as a man he does not need

TAYLOR FIGURES IN MAYOR'S RACE

Key and Moore Engage in Clash Over City Clerk at Rally.

Bristling with a series of charges and counter-charges into which Walter C. Taylor, city clerk, and his recent conviction on bribery charges, was injected as the center of contention, the second major engagement of the present campaign for nomination of 22 municipal officials took place Thursday night at the Capital View school in the tenth ward.

Addresses by James L. Key, former mayor; Wiley L. Moore, councilman from the seventh ward; Ben T. Huiet, alderman from the third, and William H. Johnson, city warden, all mayoralty aspirants, were a feature of the gathering.

Another meeting at which candidates appeared was held at the Ansley roof garden under auspices of the 1930 Club.

Taylor Mentioned.

Declaring that no man in the race against him has ever lifted his voice against Walter C. Taylor or taken a definite stand against him," Key flayed his adversaries, while Moore resented any insinuation by Key that he knew of any irregularities in the clerk's office.

Moore also hit Key for saying that as mayor he caught "Taylor red-handed attempting to slip a paper through council."

"What did Mr. Key do about that? Nothing," Mr. Moore answered.

Key's speech was marked by many interruptions by hecklers from the audience, and finally the speaker invited "anyone who doesn't like my style to tune out."

"I am glad to see so many women in this auditorium," he said. "The men have run this town a long time and they have made a mess of it. That is exactly what I mean—a mess. It is up to you to do a lot of cleaning up."

Key scored what he termed efforts of opposing candidates to get me out of the race. They stated that I was an old man with one foot in the grave and the other slipping. I did have a rather serious spell of illness, but I am generally in the best physical condition I have been in a long time.

"Why I can go into the city hall on a litter and do better than has been done there. I am going to tell who attempted to get me out of the race later. I am in this race to the finish and there is not enough Woco-Pep between here and hell to get me out."

Hits Paid Workers.

He then launched a bitter attack on what he termed paid workers of the opposition, declaring that all those who are working for him are performing a labor of love and public spiritedness.

"Those who are willing to buy an office usually have something to sell," he said. "We want honest men in public office. Money, tainted money, is polluting this town. It is giving Atlanta a bad name locally and nationally. If Mr. Moore should run Atlanta as he runs his own business, the public interests would suffer."

When the speaker attacked Moore,

Violence Spreads in Rangoon and Dacca Areas; Business Men Ask Britain To Compromise.

BOMBAY, India, May 29.—(UN) Mob riots spread to the Calcutta district today as additional violence was reported in the Rangoon and Dacca areas. The week's toll of Indian and Burmese dead passed the 100 mark.

Three thousand workmen, infuriated at a change in the wage-paying system, besieged and severely injured two European officials of the East Indian railway workshop at Lilooah, near Calcutta. A European inspector and sergeant led a party of police in shooting their way through the mob and rescuing the beleaguered pair. Five members of the mob were wounded, and the inspector and sergeant were injured by bricks. The workmen set fire to three railroad coaches before dispersing.

900 on Injured List.

The dead at Rangoon, in battles between Burmese and Indian dock workers, since Monday, were established at 100 or more, with at least 900 still on the injured list.

Police of Dacca, where 14 were killed in street fights between Hindus and Mohammedans, found fresh trouble at the nearby village of Nawabganj. Heavily armed, they rushed to quell mob outbreaks at Nawabganj in which several Europeans, including Police Superintendent W. Cotton, of Dacca, were injured.

Cotton, with a party of officers, had gone to Nawabganj to arrest Moslems who recently started a riot there. He was met by a mob which separated him from his party, snatched his revolver, pushed him into a ditch and beat him. J. W. Atkins, managing agent of the Dacca Electric Company, fired his revolver at the rioters, wounding one.

Meantime merchant groups sought to end the British-Indian disputes which caused the launching of the present independence campaign and the arrest of the freedom leader, Mahatma Gandhi. The Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry sent a letter to Viceroy Lord Irwin urging the government to invite Gandhi to a round-table conference and issue a statement saying the conference is for the purpose of preparing a constitution granting India dominion status.

No Early End Seen.

The letter said no peace was possible until the goal of dominion status was reached. It re-emphasized that Gandhi's arrest failed to subdue the independence drive and said there was no likelihood of the movement collapsing.

"Two courses are open: either a rule of sheer force or conciliation," said the letter, which was signed by the representatives of 22 important commercial organizations throughout India.

H. A. Laljee, president of the Indian Merchants' Chamber, protested to Sir Frederick Sykes, governor of Bombay presidency, regarding what he said was a serious dislocation of business resulting from the disobedience movement and the boycott of British trade. He asked that Gandhi be consulted before the government's plans were decided.

The Bombay congress committee, in charge of the freedom campaign in this region, announced that a "Worli republic" had been formed by 800 prisoners at Worli, who were captured in recent raids against government salt depots. The prisoners elected Paramanad Chandan, leader of the first raiding party at Wadala, as president and asked the public to refrain from sending food and presents. All such gifts should be devoted to the active work of the congress, it was said.

A reader, writing in the "Times of India," suggested today that theater managers should close the exits to prevent such actions.

Mae Murray Loses Suit for $80,000

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—(AP)—Mae Murray, vaudeville dancer and motion picture actress, lost her suit today for $80,000 damages, brought against J. M. Ferguson and R. L. Eccles, as the result of a real estate transaction. The jury deliberated one hour. The trial had lasted ten days.

Miss Murray, occupying the witness stand for two days, said she traded a $132,000 equity in a Los Angeles apartment house for a Pasadena apartment on representations that the latter was worth $125,000. When she attempted to borrow on the Pasadena property, the actress testified, bank officials told her it was worth but $43,000.

The defendants produced several real estate experts who testified the actress had received ample return in the trade.

'POT OF GOLD' OFFERED BRAND, SAYS TRUE BILL

Five Men Indicted Are R. E. Howard, R. H. Shepherd, W. A. Adcock, F. L. Norton, S. B. Todd.

TAYLOR IS ACCUSED IN J. A. BEALL CASE

New Indictment Against City Clerk Charges Him With Offering Former Councilman $400.

Three indictments, accusing five persons, including two license inspectors working under City Clerk Walter C. Taylor, of attempting to bribe S. E. Brand, a member of the jury which last week convicted Taylor on a bribery charge, were returned by the Fulton grand jury in special session Thursday night.

The grand jury also returned a new indictment against Taylor, charging him with having attempted to bribe former Councilman J. A. Beall into voting in favor of Solomon Piha's application for a pool hall license in 1923.

Those named in the jury tampering indictments are R. E. Howard and R. H. Shepherd, city license inspectors; Wyatt A. Adcock, F. L. Norton and S. B. Todd. The true bill charges embracery, the legal terminology for approaching a juror. It is a felony and is punishable by a term of from one to four years in prison. The investigation into the alleged jury fixing is still incomplete, it was announced.

Three Men Accused.

Howard, Shepherd and Todd are accused jointly in one bill, the indictment alleging that the three "attempted to influence the vote of said Brand in making a verdict by offering him money."

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, who directed the grand jury's investigation into the alleged tampering, would not go into details regarding the evidence against the three men, saying to do so "would reveal the state's evidence." It was reported reliably, however, that the prosecution charges Shepherd and Howard with having sent young Todd to see Brand's brother with a proposal to pay him should he vote to acquit Taylor.

Brand is a street car operator in the employ of the Georgia Power Company. He lives in East Point. Todd at present is unemployed and lives at the home of Howard on East Lake drive.

The indictment against Adcock, at present also reported unemployed, charges that he approached Brand during the course of the trial and told him he "could make a pot of gold if he voted to acquit Taylor." The indictment also sets out that Adcock

Luther Still Named Arbitrator by Typos

In the election of officers for the Typographical union, held Wednesday, Luther Still, Fulton county's representative in the legislature, was named as arbitrator for that organization. ATLANTA CENSUS VIEW IS SHARED BY DALLAS

Dallas has declined to join with other southern cities in protesting the population rating given Atlanta in the present census, the local Chamber of Commerce was advised Thursday in a telegram received from Dallas.

Dallas was requested by Louisville and Houston to unite with them in a protest against the announcement of Atlanta's population on the basis of the greater city of Atlanta, as was agreed by W. M. Steuart, national census director.

The message received here from Dallas said, "We feel sure that Atlanta was handled exactly as other cities and that the total announced is on the same basis as applied elsewhere."

Atlanta's population, on the basis of the greater city created by the legislature of 1929, was 351,635 in the preliminary count. The completion of the final count is expected to place the city's population above 360,000.

Sale of ice cream in any form on the streets of Atlanta by peddlers was barred Thursday afternoon by action of the ordinance committee of council, when that body voted to adverse an ordinance which would have permitted such a practice.

The adverse report will go to council Monday for action of that body. Members of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association and the Retail Druggists' Association appeared in opposition to the paper.

Round-Up of Gem Robberies Leads Police to Chicago

Authorities Receive Permission To Open Safety Deposit Box Believed To Contain Loot.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—The big jewel round-up which began early this week went on today, with developments popping out on all sides and further sensational angles in the offing.

The status of the case tonight was this: Five men and a woman are under arrest here and in Chicago. Police have $1,300,000 worth of recovered jewels here and today they got permission to open a safe deposit box in Chicago which they believed contained $200,000 more. Additional arrests were promised and some of the men to be arrested were said to be prominent jewelers.

A touch of mystery was injected today by varying reports as to just what part was played in running down the alleged receivers of stolen jewels by Noel C. Saffa, insurance company detective who was indicted for compounding a felony once in connection with return of other stolen jewels but was acquitted.

The Buffalo Evening News printed a story quoting a lawyer who said he handled negotiations between Scaffa and burglars who stole $350,000 worth of gems from the home of John L. Carson, Jr., there.

The negotiations fell through, it was said, and then Scaffa trailed the men he wanted until they were arrested here. The New York Daily News also had a story saying that Scaffa had done much of the ground work leading to the arrests. Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooner, however, insisted that it had been entirely a "police case."

Shortly after he made this statement Scaffa appeared at police headquarters with a large portfolio and entered the commissioner's office after declining to talk to reporters.

Police considered the most important prisoner was Robert Nelson, in whose deposit boxes here $1,000,000 worth of jewels were seized. It was alleged to be a box of his, too, that was found in Chicago today. Next in importance were the four men and a woman arrested with $300,000 worth of jewels the day before Nelson was taken. They were Hilda Carter, of Rhode Island; William J. O'Connor, of Buffalo; George Cole, James Watson, of Buffalo, and Jacob Rosen, of New York.

Nelson was released in $25,000 bail yesterday and the other five were refused bail pending court hearing today. They were coldly indifferent as they heard the magistrate forbid them even temporary liberty.

"You've got yourselves in a jam now," a detective said to them on the way back to their cells.

"I was thinking of going on a diet anyway," one of thte men replied. The rest said nothing. The woman lighted a cigaret and flicked the match casually onto the floor.

The men held in Chicago were Meyer Gordon, Frank Brown and Louis Silver. A letter from Nelson was found in Brown's possession and Silver had 434 diamonds in his pockets.

While the hubbub of the case resounded all around them cipher experts continued quietly puzzling today over two memorandum books found in the hotel room where all of the New York prisoners but Nelson were arrested. Police hoped that when the entries in the book were decoded they would give evidence of the activities of an international syndicate for disposing of stolen jewels, and might lead to numerous other arrests and to seizure of further large quantities of gems.

'Cue Stand Operator Fined in Prohi Case

R. C. Ransome, 18-year-old hitchhiker, Thursday afternoon was free to resume his travels, while his erstwhile employer, J. B. Metzger, of the Cats Whiskers barbecue stand on Stewart avenue, was sentenced to pay a $250 fine on a prohibition charge.

In criminal court of Atlanta, Judge Jesse M. Wood fined Metzger that amount after a jury convicted Metzger of possessing seven pints of whisky. Testimony was given to the effect that Ransome got a job from Metzger to help pay his way, and after several days at the barbecue stand he was given the job of bringing whisky from its hiding place nearby when the potent liquid was called for. The second time Ransome made a trip to the cache for a pint, county officers arrived on a raid, it was said. Judge Wood placed Ransome on probation for six months.

Second Transfusion Planned for Harrison

With his condition continuing grave, physicians at Grady hospital Thursday night were planning a second blood transfusion in an effort to save the life of Tom Harrison, 22, of 358 Hightower street. He is suffering from injuries sustained when struck by a freight train Tuesday night, it having been necessary to amputate an arm.

First transfusion was given him Wednesday night when R. C. Alverson, young interne at Grady, offered his blood after tests of that of relatives and friends had failed to match.

Concert Is Planned By Colored Choirs

Twenty of the leading colored choirs of local churches, will render a musical program in Big Bethel A. M. E. church Monday night, sponsored by the trustees and supporters of the Holmes Institute. Rev. B. R. Holmes, president of the school, announced that half of the main auditorium will be reserved for white patrons.

Rev. Elam F. Dempsey will preside and make the opening address telling of the work and object of the institute.

NEGRO WAR MOTHERS PROTEST SEGREGATION

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today announced that 55 negro Gold Star mothers have declined to make the pilgrimage to the graves of their sons under rules they said the war department has laid down providing for segregation by color.

The mothers have appealed to President Hoover to abolish the ruling, the announcement said. Their petition terms the war department's attitude "gratuitous insult."

"Twelve years after the armistice," they continue, "the high principles of 1918 seem to have been forgotten. We who gave and who are colored are insulted by the implication that we are not fit persons to travel with other bereaved ones. Instead of making up parties of Gold Star mothers on the basis of geographical location, we are set aside as a separate group, Jim Crowed, segregated and insulted."

NO CHANGE WILL BE MADE IN SEGREGATION.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)—The policy of grouping together all negro Gold Star mothers and widows making the pilgrimage to their sons' and husbands' graves on European battlefields will be continued by the war department despite protests against race segregation.

Following announcement in New York that a petition protesting the arrangement had been sent President Hoover by a group of 55 negro mothers, Acting Secretary of War Davison said it was necessary to split into several groups the mothers making the pilgrimage and that the racial grouping, decided upon "after the most careful consideration of the interests of the pilgrims themselves," would be observed.

"No discrimination whatever," he said, "will be made as between the various groups. Each group will receive equal accommodations, care and consideration."

Separation into groups, he said, was necessary to provide suitable accommodations for all. The petition to the president was referred to the war department.

Budget of $450,000 Adopted by Baptists

Adoption of a budget calling for expenditure of about $450,000 featured the annual meeting Wednesday of the Baptist Home Mission board, it was announced Thursday. Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, pastor of the First Baptist church, was re-elected president.

Dr. A. J. Moncrief, pastor of the Decatur Baptist church, was elected to succeed Dr. Louie D. Newton as vice president and G. J. Davis, of Atlanta, was elected to succeed S. A. Cowan as recording secretary. Dr. B. J. Lawrence was re-elected executive secretary and treasurer.

Two Pay Entry Fees For State Primary

Two more candidates entered the lists Thursday, subject to the September primary.

Dorsey Davis, Athens attorney, paid his entrance fee as candidate for attorney general of Georgia, while Hill C. Tuggle, Stone Mountain, likewise qualified as a candidate for the office of prison commissioner now held by G. A. Jones. Mr. Jones announced several days ago that he would seek re-election.

Friends of Mr. Davis said his formal announcement would not be made until Sunday.

Cool Showers Are Expected For City Today

CIVIC BODY DISCUSSES CITY ELECTION REFORM

Matter Referred to Committee at Inter-Civic Association Meeting.

Reformation of the election laws for the city of Atlanta so as to simplify registration was the subject of considerable discussion at the organization meeting of the Atlanta Inter-Civic Association held in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room Thursday night.

In common with the proposal for a civil service system for city employes, the registration matter was referred to a committee with indications that action will be had on both matters at the next meeting of the association, to be held the first Thursday in July.

The first meeting since a new constitution was adopted, an amendment was offered to increase membership by allowing three members at large of the organizations composing the super-association to membership in the Inter-Civic body. Under the constitution as it stands, the president, vice president and secretary of all groups, 68 of which are federated, are members of the larger association.

Considerable interest in political matters was reflected in the discussion Thursday evening, Robert P. McLardy, chairman, said, but no definite action on any proposal or amendment was taken.

Inter-Collegiate Basketball Aim Of Emory Men

Intercollegiate basketball will be sought by Emory students at the annual meeting of the board of trustees here June 9. William Woodruff and Emmett Cartledge have been chosen by the president of the student body to appear before the board and urge that the students want a more popular sport than track as the big intercollegiate sport. Basketball, statistics compiled this year show, is the most popular sport of the campus.

In the meantime college officials are preparing for a big intramural program of athletics by the appointment of four of the six men to receive athletic scholarships for next year. Alfred E. Ross, of New Haven, Conn.; Peter A. Drohomer, Atlanta; William H. Jenkins, Waverly, Ala., and George S. Wood, Owensboro, Ky., have been announced by Registrar J. G. Stipe as appointees to the scholarships, which will carry with them a stipend of $450 each.

These men will take graduate or professional work at Emory and coach freshmen athletic teams. Since the death of the R. O. T. C. unit every freshman will be required to take part in some sport. The upper class teams will be coached by faculty members as at present.

Chapter Home Site Of Davis Memorial

Memorial exercises for Jefferson Davis, usually held at the state capitol, will be held this year at the Atlanta chapter home, Juniper and Sixth streets, of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the change being made necessary because the capitol is undergoing repairs. The exercises will be at 3 o'clock on June 3.

Committee Urges Wider Scope for Voters' League

Committee of Review Ends Study of Activities of League of Women Voters.

Recommendations that its activities be extended to include the employment of an all-time executive secretary, wider publicity of its work and aims, the creation of supporting and life memberships, and that it offer to disseminate educational information it obtains through the schools, were made by the committee of review, headed by Herbert Porter, which Thursday completed its two-week study of the activities of the Atlanta League of Women Voters.

The review committee, holding its final meeting at the Atlanta Athletic Club, after six groups had studied the various phases of the league's affairs as related to civic life, found that there is a vital place in Atlanta for the league and that in the past it had done fine work toward improvement of conditions in the city.

The fact that some of the information obtained by the league in its study of matters pertaining to government, is not always accessible to all voters is not a good reason for failing to support the organization, the committee declared, adding that the policy of giving the public valuable information should be continued.

Other recommendations included a constant use of publicity, newspapers and radio; the preparation of a list of registered voters and the furnishing of information to them; mailing copies of "Facts" to the membership and asking wider distribution among friends; the raising of more money for printing and distributing literature; increasing of membership through an active membership committee; more mass meetings and political gatherings and the appointment by every civic group in the city of a laison officer to keep the membership of that group informed of the work and activity of the league.

The committee recommended, as part of the program of extending the league's work and influence, that special league days be established by all organizations and that speakers acquaint these organizations with the League of Women Voters; that addresses be made to church business meetings, Parent-Teacher Associations and women's clubs, labor organizations and all civic groups.

It was recommended that the present membership fee of $1 be retained and that a supporting membership fee be fixed at $5 per year and life membership fees at $100. The present budget was found to be entirely satisfactory and the hope was advanced that it may be increased to meet expansion requirements.

The schools can use the league, the committee on review found, by disseminating information gathered by the league through an educational committee contacting the various Parent-Teacher Associations. The league's educational side, political history and civic betterment, the committee said, should appeal to those directing study in the public schools.

'55-50'-HOUR WEEK FOR MILLS URGED

Seventy-three per cent of the cotton mills in the United States have agreed to the "55-50" recommendation made by the Cotton Textile Institute, Secretary of Commerce Lamont was advised in Washington Thursday by Walker D. Hines, chairman of the board, and George A. Sloan, president, of the institute.

The report pointed out that "as evidence of the soundness of this recommendation, the Cotton Manufacturers' Association of Georgia, at its recent convention, unanimously passed a resolution recommending adoption of this policy to cotton mills in the state of Georgia "in order to insure greater uniformity in running time and regularity in employment.

"Likewise," the report adds, "the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, representing mills in all of the cotton textile producing states in the south, unanimously adopted a resolution at its annual meeting on May 7 approving this policy.

The "55-50" recommendation means 55 hours for the day shift and 50 hours for the night shift with no overtime beyond these hours. On March 25 northern and southern mills with 18,494,396 spindles had adopted the recommendation and with the forwarding of the report to Secretary Lamont the number of spindles agreeing to the plan has been increased to 23,623,382.

"The fact that such a large proportion of the cotton mills in the United States has indorsed the 55-50 recommendation is only one of several recent evidences of constructive action within the industry stimulated to an appreciable extent by the conference held with other government officials last January," the report concluded.

Hinman, the dean's annual report was read by Dr. Ralph R. Byrnes, executive dean of the college. He also acted as master of ceremonies.

ECKFORD ANNOUNCES FOR LEGISLATIVE POST

Miss Bessie Kempton Will Not Run for Another Term.

Formal announcement of George A. Eckford for the legislative post now held by Dr. George Brown subject to the democratic primary of September 10; entry and qualification of Don K. Johnston, attorney, for the position now held by Luther Still; formal withdrawal of Miss Bessie Kempton, the third member of the Fulton delegation in the assembly and the only woman Fulton ever sent there, and probability that several new aspirants will enter the field within the next few days were political developments Thursday.

GEORGE A. ECKFORD.

Among those prominently mentioned but who have not yet qualified are Herbert Choate, president of the Choate Investment Company and a former president of the Atlanta Association of Credit Men; Bond Almand, attorney; Edgar Watkins, attorney, and J. Turner Fitten, prominent Atlantan.

None of the quartet Thursday had reached a decision, but their friends have urged them to enter and definite announcements are expected within the next few days.

Mr. Eckford is president and general manager of the Eckford Advertising Company, located in the 101 Marietta street building. He was born and educated here. He is a grandson of Col. George W. Adair, one of the founders of the city, and son of the late Sallie Adair Eckford and Marshall Thomas Eckford.

Until his announcement to run for the house, Mr. Eckford has never before been in politics. He is a Presbyterian.

Saying that he would announce his complete platform later, Mr. Eckford said "It is my firm belief that Fulton county should be as ably represented as any other county in the state of Georgia. This has not been the case in several years.

"I belong to no clique or faction and am not identified with any political group. If nominated, I will represent the people of Fulton county in the same faithful and efficient manner that I have conducted my own business.

"Furthermore, it is my opinion that the race for seats in the legislature should be concerned principally with the issues that will confront the people of Fulton county and the state as a whole."

Mr. Eckford is a recognized authority in advertising and is well and favorably known in Georgia business circles.

Mr. Johnston announced and paid his entrance fee, issuing the following statement regarding his candidacy:

"I was born in Cartersville, Ga., Bartow county, near Atlanta. When I was eight years old my parents moved to Atlanta and I have lived in and around Atlanta since. I had the advantage of coming up under the tutelage of my father, Professor Ronald Johnston, a distinguished educator for fifty years in the Georgia schools, and studied law in the office of Judge N. L. Hutchins, at Lawrenceville, Ga.

"Shortly after my admission to the bar about the close of 1908, I came to Atlanta and went into the office with the late Charles D. Hill and soon afterwards was appointed assistant solicitor general, which position I held up until his death. I have since practiced law in Atlanta, and am now living in Morningside.

"I seek this office from a purely unselfish motive. If I am elected I shall immediately set about to enact laws providing for the election of the municipal court judges, the marshal and the clerk by the people. I shall urge the immediate passage of a bill for the consolidation of tax collector and tax receiver's office. I shall energize myself to see that legislation is put upon the statute books to assure a just compensation to the school teachers of Atlanta and Fulton county and that this adequate compensation is paid to them.

"I shall insist immediately upon the enactment of such laws as shall restore to the people of the city of Atlanta the right to select their city clerk and to restore to the plebiscite all the department heads in the city government.

"I am in favor of other important changes in the city and county affairs which I shall bring to the people in my messages which I shall carry to them in my campaign."

Miss Kempton definitely eliminated herself as a candidate in the primary this year, declaring that she will take a rest and remain out of politics actively "at least for this season."

She served on many of the major committees of the legislature during her half a dozen years in the assembly being especially prominent as a member of the committee which affected the lease and permitted construction of the new Union station, the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts and leasing of the Western & Atlantic railroad. She also was interested in many social service organizations and educational appropriations.

"Although many of my friends have urged me to make the race, I feel that I can not do so at this time," Miss Kempton said. "I plan to retire from politics, at least for this year."

Louisiana Senate Rejects Repeal Move

BATON ROUGE, La., May 29.—(AP)—After a lively debate the Louisiana state senate today voted, 19 to 16, to reject a resolution to memorialize congress to repeal the eighteenth amendment. The resolution had been unfavorably reported by committee.

Prohibition discussion was expected to come up again in the legislature on June 11 when the house takes up a bill for repeal of the Hood state enforcement act.

Anti-chain store bills were introduced simultaneously in the senate and house by supporters of Governor Huey P. Long, who has attacked chain stores from the stump. The bills, drawn along the lines of the South Carolina law, would tax chain stores on a schedule ranging upward depending upon the number of stores in the state.

TO RUN SPECIAL TRAINS TO REUNION AT BILOXI

Best Auto Route Also Given To Reach U. C. V. Gathering.

Two special trains will be operated from Atlanta to Biloxi, Miss., on June 2 in addition to the regular passenger service, on account of the fortieth reunion of the United Confederate Veterans, to be held at the latter city from June 3 to 6, inclusive, it was announced Thursday by J. P. Billups, general passenger agent of the A. & W. P., Western Railway of Alabama, and the Georgia railroad.

The first special will leave Atlanta at 7 o'clock in the morning of June 2, arriving at Biloxi at 6:15 p. m. of the same day. The second special will leave here at 8 a. m. of the same day and arrive at 7:30 a. m. Tuesday, June 3.

An unusually large number of veterans and their friends from Georgia are expected to attend the reunion and a large delegation from Atlanta, headed by John Ashley Jones, commander in chief of Sons of Confederate Veterans, and Henderson Hallman, representative of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

There will be several thousand persons at Biloxi and arrangements have been made whereby reduced rate tickets will be sold to Atlanta and return after the close of the convention as a side trip feature, stated Mr. Billups Thursday.

All veterans of Fulton county camps are instructed to report at the office of the Fulton county ordinary, at the court house, Saturday, May 31, to get tickets for the trip to Biloxi, it was announced Thursday by Confederate officials.

The Georgia State Automobile Association Thursday announced road information for the benefit of motor travelers to the United Confederate Veterans Reunion to be held in Biloxi, Miss., beginning June 2.

The recommended route follows:

"Take U. S. 29 from Atlanta to Montgomery, a distance of 192 miles, the entire distance being paved except that between Auburn and Tuskegee, Ala., which is a good gravel and sand clay road, this stretch being 22 miles.

"The state highway department of Alabama advises the Georgia State Automobile Association that the best road from Montgomery to Mobile, a distance of 213 miles is via U. S. 31, and that there is no construction or detours on either U. S. 80 from Tuskegee where U. S. 29 joins same to Montgomery nor on U. S. 31 from Montgomery to Mobile. A considerable portion of the road from Montgomery to Mobile is paved and all of the remainder is gravel or good sandclay. The paving between Evergreen and Castleberry on this road was open to traffic on the 12th of this month.

"From Mobile to Biloxi, a distance of 67 miles, follow U. S. 90, paved all the way.

Three Boys Drown In Storm Sewer

BALTIMORE, May 29.—(AP)—The bodies of three boys, believed to have been engulfed by sudden flood waters which swept through a big storm sewer in which they were playing, were recovered near the harbor today, two miles from the spot where they were last seen alive.

The dead boys were Wilbert Alban, 15; Donald Mooren, 12, and Francis Welden, 9.

They disappeared Saturday during a storm. Police and Boy Scouts searched not only in this state but as far as Pennsylvania and Washington in the hope that they had left their dangerous playground before the storm and were runaways.

The boys had obtained candles before the storm and had announced their intention of exploring the sewer.

Visiting Journalists To See Rural Georgia on Trip to Chicopee Mills.

Rural Georgia and the strides taken by the south in the manufacture of cotton today will be shown the party of 13 European journalists, here under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for World Peace.

Leaving Atlanta at 9 o'clock this morning, the itinerary arranged for the group will lead through a representative section of the Georgia countryside to Gainesville, where the visitors will be conducted through the Chicopee mills. The model village attached to the mill will also be shown.

Luncheon will be served at the mill. It is understood that it will be attended by a number of outstanding Gainesville businessmen.

The return trip has been arranged by way of Stone Mountain, where an inspection of the classic monument will be made.

The trip will afford the journalists an opportunity to view briefly, but at first hand, the small-town life of the southern states. A number of representative towns will be passed on the trip.

Thursday the visitors made a round of inspection in Atlanta which included the Ford plant, Sears, Roebuck & Co. and Emory University.

Luncheon Guests.

They were the guests of honor at a luncheon extended them by the Foreign Trade Club at the Atlanta Athletic Club. Robert Hecht presided as toastmaster.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of the Georgia Institute of Technology, briefly reviewed the history of the state, emphasizing the part played by Germans and other immigrants in the early development of Georgia.

Sketching the industrial growth of the south he said that Horace Greeley's adage had been changed to "Go south, young man, go south." Dr. Brittain paid tribute to the work being carried on by the Carnegie Endowment for World Peace.

Dr. Ernest Feber, of Germany, also made a short talk in which he expressed the appreciation of the group for the hospitality shown them. He gave a toast to America and to President Hoover.

Thursday night the party were honor guests at a dinner at the East Lake Country Club. The dinner was extended by the Atlanta Convention and Tourists Bureau.

Tonight, following the return of the group from Gainesville, a brilliant banquet will be held at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel. It is the only formal function on the Atlanta program.

Colonel F. J. Paxon presided at the banquet and in a brief talk welcomed the visitors. There were no speeches on the program.

Georges Ottlik, of Switzerland, who remained in Washington and was to have joined the party here, had not arrived Thursday. It was feared that he might not be able to come to Atlanta.

Jones Stresses Need Of Auto License Law

The recent action of a congressional committee in reporting favorably on the A. A. A. safety-responsibility bill for the District of Columbia has gone far to place the stamp of national approval on this measure designed to promote safety on the highways, it was asserted Thursday by Bolling Jones, treasurer of the Atlanta Motor Club, which is affiliated with the A. A. A. He added that as the death and accident rate continue to mount in Atlanta that a driver's license law is imperative.

The A. A. A. safety-responsibility law was formulated during the latter part of 1928, and it includes a driver's license law, the right to suspend driving privileges in the event that a person is convicted of violations of the motor vehicle law, the right to reinstate them when proven responsible, and the right to present issuance of a permit to a driver who is suspended in another state.

Thompson, prominent hotel man here 15 years ago, will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning from Spring Hill with the Rev. W. L. Duren, pastor of Saint Mark's Methodist church, officiating. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery, where she will be laid to rest beside her husband.

Mrs. Thompson, who was born in Americus, married Mr. Thompson while visiting a sister in Atlanta. She died Tuesday in Baldwin county at the home of a friend near Milledgeville. She is survived by a sister-in-law and two nephews.

DEFENDANT CHARGES ILLEGAL EXTRADITION

Deputy Sheriff Denies He "Kidnaped" Man Wanted in Fulton Tower.

The charge that Charles Heflinger, of Toledo, Ohio, was kidnaped and brought to Atlanta illegally to face a contempt of court petition, filed by Mrs. Clelia Heflinger, Thursday afternoon drew from Special Deputy Sheriff Arthur Atkinson the declaration that extradition papers for Heflinger were honored by the governor of Ohio, and that the defendant's removal to Georgia was legal.

When Heflinger's case was called before Judge John D. Humphries Thursday morning in superior court, it was set over until Tuesday because James W. Austin, attorney for Mrs. Heflinger, has been unable to prepare his case, due to illness.

Attorney Sam D. Hewlett, representing Heflinger, told Judge Humphries that his client was "kidnaped" out of Ohio, and that the removal to this state was illegal. Hewlett said Heflinger demanded a hearing and was refused.

Atkinson said Georgia extradition papers were honored by Ohio's chief executive, and the defendant was arrested by the Toledo sheriff, who turned Heflinger over to the Georgia officer. Heflinger did not demand that Atkinson allow him a hearing, Atkinson said.

Heflinger is held in Fulton Tower in default of $108,0000 bond, representing twice the amount alleged to be due Mrs. Heflinger as alimony and interest.

High School Opera.

"The Bell of Barcelona" will be the sixth annual opera to be presented by students of the Booker Washington High school in the city auditorium tonight at 8:15. Costumes which will show to advantage Spanish dances and action scenes have been designed and made by sewing classes at the school.

Advertising Agents Hit by Tax Ruling

Advertising agencies must pay the state gross revenue tax on the full value of advertising handled in a year, instead of on their commission of 15 per cent, it was ruled in a decision of the board of appeals of the state tax commission, announced Thursday by R. C. Norman, state tax commissioner.

The case was heard several weeks ago.

In another ruling of the board it has been held that salary buyers are subject to the tax on the full volume of their business. An injunction suit has since been filed in the Fulton superior court by the salary buyers, who contend that the purchase of a salary is the purchase of the evidence of an indebtedness, and as such not legally subject to the tax.

ATLANTA WOMAN WEIGHED ONLY 79 POUNDS, SHE SAYS

"I Just Can't Say Enough in Praise of Sargon." Gains Eight Pounds and Is Still Gaining.

"I'd gotten into such a miserable state of health that I actually had to give up my position. Nothing I took seemed to do me any good, until I started taking this wonderful new

MISS GRACE HAYES.

Sargon. My weight increased from 79 to 87½ pounds—an actual gain of eight and a half pounds—in just a few weeks' time. I'm still gaining and I'm so well and strong I'm able to go back to work," recently stated Miss Grace Hayes, who lives at 1354 Meridian St., S. E., Atlanta.

"Ever since I had an attack of ptomaine poisoning four years ago my system had been in a weakened, disordered condition, and it just seemed like there was something the matter all the time. A rheumatic condition developed and my muscles would ache and my joint uld swell so at times I could hardly make a move. My kidneys seemed affected, and my circulation was so poor my limbs would become numb, and my hands were right 'clammy.' I was frightfully nervous, and nobody knows how I longed to have just one night of sound, refreshing sleep again. Sometimes when I'd be 'napping' I'd wake up in terror with smothering spells, and I'd have to sit up at the window for hours before I could get to breathing right. I had severe headaches and bilious, dizzy attacks; my complexion was sallow; and it grew to be a regular thing for me to take a laxative every night on account of constipation.

"It seems almost like a miracle the way Sargon has brought me back to health! I have a marvelous appetite and nothing I eat distresses me now, and I'm so strong and energetic I never want to 'stop going.' My kidneys have righted themselves. I am entirely free of rheumatic pains, and my blood circulation seems just as it should be. I'm no longer nervous, and my sleep is restful and unbroken.

"Sargon Pills overcame my constipation, so that my sick headaches and bilious, dizzy attacks have disappeared, and I have the best color I've had in years.

"Sargon has made me feel like a new woman from head to foot and I just can't say enough in praise of this wonderful medicine!"

The Sargon Man is at Jacobs' Main Store, 48 North Broad St., Grant Bldg., where he is meeting the public daily and explaining the merits of this remarkable new medicine. Sargon may be obtained at all Jacobs' Drug Stores throughout Atlanta.—(adv.)

Perry Advocates Abolition Of Five State Departments

BAXLEY, Ga., May 29.—(AP)—James A. Perry, chairman of the public service commission and candidate for governor, in an address at the courthouse here tonight declared that "when a state becomes so tax ridden as to make the owning of one's home a burden instead of a pleasure it is high time to call a halt."

Following out his declaration of several days ago that he would "pry the lid off" the political situation existing in Georgia today, Mr. Perry attacked the ad valorem tax system, declared the alleged lobbyists who visit the capitol during legislative sessions are "a crowd of leeches," who should be "driven out with bull whips," and advocated abolishment of at least five departments and remodelling of others.

"The truth is, we have been playing politics in the affairs of the state until it is a joke from top to bottom," he said. "Bureaus, departments, commissions and what-nots have been brought into existence, chiefly to provide more political offices.

"We can abolish the office of tax commissioner, revenue commissioner, commissioner of commerce and labor, securities commission, prison commission and remodel our state board of health and state board of education and at the same time carry on the affairs of our state with more efficiency than at present and save the taxpayers approximately $500,000 per year."

Attacking alleged lobbyists for road machinery and highway construction people, and those he said represented school book concerns, Mr. Perry declared that "if the masses of this state could only realize what goes on in matters of this sort, they would come to Atlanta with bull whips and chase this crowd of leeches from the capital city of the state.

"Book Trust" Backs Candidate.

"The type of highway construction forces and road machinery people who are after something for nothing, are supporting a certain candidate in this race," he said. "The book trusts will support another candidate and it does not matter to them which one wins, the people will get it in the neck just the same. We are paying 300 per cent profit for the school books in our public schools, and just as long as the school book trust can force a continuance of this condition, just so long are we going to be at the bottom of the ladder in the point of illiteracy.

"Just as long as our highway building program is forced to fight such political influence, just so long are we going to have slow development along this line. . . .

"We are going to get rid of the influence of the book trusts and we are going to get rid of political influence of the type the highway construction forces and road machinery people who are out to get something for nothing are putting out."

"State Should Publish Own Books."

Mr. Perry said the state should publish its own schools books, at actual cost or free, and asked the people to "see that other candidates declare themselves on this question." He also said he was asking the people to have other candidates name state departments "that we can afford to get along without."

"There are too many men making politics a business in Georgia," he said.

Speaking of his own record, Mr. Perry said he had been informed that "a systematized propaganda" has been launched "in derogation of my record as a member of the public service commission." He then cited figures showing that the commission had lowered light and power rates in Baxley alone to save its residents $26,992.21 during the past year. He named several Baxley residents and made comparisons of their light and power bills before and after the commission had acted, showing substantial reductions.

He also expressed belief that the legislature "can meet and dispose of all matters within a period of fifty—maybe forty—days, if only the members will give six days' work to the week right from the beginning and not wait until two weeks before time for adjourning until they actually go to work."

Would Scrap Ad Valorem System.

The ad valorem system of taxation should be scrapped, he said, the right of counties to levy taxes limited, and local legislation left to counties and municipalities.

"The time has come to have bills perfected before they are introduced or before they are passed," declared the speaker. "Many times it takes the time of our courts to find out and enforce the meaning of a bill as long as eight or ten years after the legislature has passed it. This grows out of immature thought and lack of information in the preparation of the bill."

In closing Mr. Perry said that "if the people of Georgia are ready to quit playing politics" and he was nominated, he would submit to the next general assembly a definite plan to adjust the tax system, co-ordinate departments, improve agriculture, fight illiteracy, and bring about generally improved living conditions.

WM. LAVARRE CONFERS IN JAIL WITH LAWYER

MACON, Ga., May 29.—(AP)—A conference between William J. LaVarre, former South Carolina newspaper publisher, and a member of his counsel, W. O. Cooper, Jr., of Macon, has been held in the Richmond county jail at Augusta.

LaVarre has been in jail since midnight Tuesday, when he surrendered to United States officers at Augusta to answer contempt charges preferred against him several months ago by Federal Judge Bascom S. Deaver in Macon. Through Cooper, recently employed as counsel by LaVarre, the publisher on Tuesday appealed for an early hearing in the case, but Judge Deaver refused the request. He said the hearing would not be held before June 16, and whether it will be in Macon or Augusta has not been decided definitely.

LaVarre, in a statement after he was placed in jail, said he would not seek bond and would remain in prison until some action was taken in the case. The charges against him resulted from the extensive litigation with Harold Hall, his former associate, over control of the Columbia (S. C.) Record, the Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald and Journal, and the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.

EX-GOVERNMENT AGENT TESTIFIES FOR BROWN

F. L. Dodge, Prominent in George Remus Case, Takes Stand at Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 29.—(AP) Franklin L. Dodge, former government agent who made the cases in Savannah seven years ago against liquor conspirators known as the "big four" and who later came into prominence through his connection with the George Remus case in Cincinnati, after testifying Thursday in the trial here of Harry H. Brown in federal court, was undergoing a cross-examination by the government when court recessed early in the afternoon. Brown is being tried for conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act.

Dodge was put on the stand by the defense in an effort to prove that Brown had not conspired with W. H. Haar, as charged in the indictment, but had been "put into the liquor business" by government agents seeking evidence against Haar. The latter was a witness at the morning session, testifying that Brown had no connection with shipments of liquor.

Cross-examination of Dodge by Norman Morrison, special assistant United States attorney general, assumed the most interesting tilt yet developed in the trial of the case which began Monday morning with Judge W. H. Barrett presiding.

Dodge, on direct examination, said he had come to Savannah in May, 1923, at the instance of William J. Burns, following a conference between Burns and Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt. Posing as a liquor dealer he signed warrants for arrests of those engaged in the liquor traffic. "146, if I remember correctly," he said.

Denies Buying Liquor.

He denied he had ever bought liquor from the defendant, had never heard of his being in the liquor business, and had promised former Chief of Police James A. Woods that if they ever used the defendant to obtain evidence against the "big four" that he (Dodge) would "take care of Mr. Brown."

On cross-examination Dodge was asked if he had heard before coming to Savannah that Brown was connected with the liquor ring as "head of the spy system," that he was so listed on a chart in Washington. The witness said that he had seen this chart, that it was compiled from rumors, and that he did not attach much importance to it.

He said that the chart had contained the names of others not subsequently connected with the liquor business, of lawyers, of bankers and others.

Mr. Morrison here protested vigorously against the witness bringing in the names of any innocent persons, of any one who had not been indicted. The prosecutor said he would have nothing to do with any such procedure.

An exchange followed with defense and Judge Barrett finally ruled that the witness might mention names if he took full responsibility. He did not, however, name any one.

Asked specifically if he had any information that Brown was engaged in the liquor business, Dodge answered in the negative and the government then produced notes and asked if they were in the handwriting of the witness. Dodge admitted they were. In these were statements of conversations between Woods and Brown about liquor activities. These notes, Dodge said, were written by him but had been compiled by three government agents.

BLOODWORTH IS FREED IN COLUMBUS BOMBING

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 29.—(AP)—After deliberating an hour and 25 minutes, a jury here Thursday night acquitted W. S. Bloodworth, barber, of charges of bombing the Metcalf department store in Columbus on April 8.

Trial of Bloodworth began Friday morning.

In his charge to the jury, Judge C. F. McLaughlin said that under Georgia law dynamiting a public building was a capital offense unless the jury recommended mercy.

Bloodworth took the stand to deny the circumstantial evidence brought against him by the state, a part of which was that he was seen running down an alley near the Metcalf store a few minutes before the blast was heard. Bloodworth explained that he was running at that time to get to the Black Cat pool room, where he kept advertising sample cases, before the establishment closed. He said he was in the pool room when he heard the blast and went to the scene shortly thereafter to find out what had happened.

Bloodworth was arrested soon after the blast, which occurred about midnight on April 8 and not only wrecked the front of the Metcalf store, but shattered glass in several buildings in the same block.

THOMSON, Ga., May 29.—Preston Brooks Johnson, the oldest lawyer of the Thomson bar, died at his home here late Wednesday, after a short illness.

He had recently returned from a visit to White Springs, Fla.

He was born in Columbia county, Georgia, in 1856, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Johnson. He was a classmate of the late Thomas E. Watson at Mercer but left college while an undergraduate.

Later, after Mr. Watson had been admitted to the bar and commenced practice he took Johnson into his office as a student, supervised his law studies and after his admission to practice made him his law partner.

The partnership existed for about a year after which they practiced separately.

Besides attending to a large law practice Mr. Johnson served as mayor of Thomson for several terms, codified the laws of the city and served a term as judge of the city court. He was a member of the State Bar Association and of the Methodist church. He had traveled extensively both in this country and Europe.

He is survived by two daughters, Miss Buford Johnson, of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore; Miss Stella Johnson, who is one of the staff of a college in Pennsylvania, and a son, Shelton Johnson, of Atlanta. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

1908 BERRY GRADUATE VISITOR AT SCHOOLS

MT. BERRY, Ga., May 29.—John H. Garmany, graduate of the Berry Schools in the class of 1908, with Mrs. Garmany and niece, May Lou Jones, were visitors at the school this week. Mr. Garmany now is manager of the activities of an oil company in Walker county, with headquarters at Lafayette. He related that one morning at four o'clock he drove old Roanis, the school's horse, to the train to meet Miss Martha Berry, founder and director of the schools, when she was returning from Washington, where she had been received by President Roosevelt.

It was this visit that interested President Roosevelt in the school and later he came down to inspect the institution and gave it all possible help.

Hi-School Seniors to Enter Southern Business College During Weeks June 2-9-16

The Efficient School Grows Daily in Popularity.

Congratulations, high school seniors! Your diplomas, which you have so faithfully earned, will mean much to you throughout your lives, no matter in what pursuits you may engage.

Many of you, perhaps, aspire to professional careers, hence will go on through college, and to such the Southern Shorthand and Business University wishes the greatest abundance of success.

Business Education Popular

There are many others, however, who will prepare for that most popular and remunerative of all occupations—Business, and it is to them, therefore, that the Southern extends a cordial invitation to visit and examine the class-rooms, equipment, courses of study, teaching facilities, and employment advantages, of this long-established business training institution.

You are entitled to the very best business training to be obtained, and Eighty out of every hundred businessmen in Atlanta would refer you to the Southern, if you should call on them and ask for advice concerning the merits of the business colleges of this section.

That's the way to ascertain which is the outstanding business school of Atlanta—ask those who employ stenographers and bookkeepers.

Southern's Stenographers Everywhere.

Another great point to consider:

A thorough canvass of Atlanta disclosed the fact that fifty-five out of every hundred stenographers and secretaries employed were from the Southern; eleven out of every hundred were from several other business schools in Atlanta, and thirty-four out of every hundred came from other cities.

In yesterday's mail an applicant for enrollment, who lives in Virginia, wrote, among other things:

"There is no doubt about the Southern being the finest business school in the South, for I've always heard it recommended as such as long as I can remember."

The Southern is the mecca for high school and college graduates, because its training is par excellence.

An Accredited School.

And, here's another advantage that you cannot afford to miss: It will give you prestige when you go out into the business world to be able to say that you had attended an accredited school. The Southern has been accredited by the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools, which association is composed of 250 of the outstanding business colleges of the United States and Canada.

Write, call or phone for catalog. Enter the week of June 2nd, 9th or 16th. Don't waste valuable time.

Address, L. W. Arnold, President, 86 Whitehall Street, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

W. R. BRIDGES, Field Representative, who will call on those interested and give detailed information about Business Courses.

RESERVE BANK REVIEW SHOWS BETTER TREND

Retail Trade, Savings Deposits, Cotton Consumption Gain in District.

An increased consumption of cotton for April over March and increases in retail trade and savings deposits are reflected in the monthy review of business conditions issued Thursday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta.

Atlanta showed a gain of 4.8 per cent in retail trade, though the district showed a gain of 11.2 per cent. for April over March.

Statistics compiled by the United States census bureau and contained in the review show the increase in cotton consumption throughout the United States to have been more than half a million bales during April, or 4.7 per cent more than May.

Better outlook for peaches in Georgia, more adequate supply of farm labor in six southern states, and a decrease in business failures for April over March are also shown. Naval stores receipts increased materially at Savannah, Jacksonville and Pensacola.

Dry weather, the report commented, had permitted farm work to advance preparation over the preceding year, although cool nights held back the germination of seed and delayed growth of crops. Early May temperatures and some rain aided crops greatly, however.

The savings deposit gain was from $42,047,000 in March to $42,380,000 reported in April. Atlanta building permits for the month amounted to $876,241, almost twice as large as any other city in the sixth district.

MASKED BANDIT RAIDS CRACK PULLMAN TRAIN

PASADENA, Cal., May 29.—(AP)—Marion Nixon, film star; her husband, Edward Hillman, and Robert G. Lehman, of Detroit, were robbed of jewelry valued at $7,500 and $575 in cash by a masked man who last night battered his way into a Pullman car of the crack Sante Fe Los Angeles-Chicago passenger train, the Chief.

Ruby Keeler, actress, wife of Al Jolson, the singer, also was in the car. She saw the robber in the hallway, locked herself in her compartment and was not molested.

The holdup man, described as tall and blond, escaped after being in the car for seven minutes. Police in Pasadena and Los Angeles began an immediate search.

A porter was threatened by the robber with a pistol within a few moments after the train began to move from the Los Angeles station. He was locked in the vestibule and the robber turned and broke down a door into the compartment car.

The film actress and her husband, who live in Beverly Hills, were in the first compartment. Hillman was robbed of $400 and two rings were taken from Miss Nixon, one a four and a half-carat diamond solitaire valued at $6,500. Hillman and Miss Nixon were going to Chicago.

Lehman was forced to give up $175 in cash.

The robbery was not reported to police until the train reached Pasadena.

The bandit returned Miss Nixon's wedding ring when she pleaded with him not to take it. The actress left the train at Pasadena while her husband proceeded on to Chicago.

Mr. Lehman, a banker, was counting his money when the robber, gun in hand, stepped into his compartment.

"I was an easy victim," Lehman said. "I had my money, about $175 in my hands, and when I saw that gun and a determined masked face I willingly paid the price."

Grading Is Started On New Hotel Site

Grading on the Ivy street frontage of the lot under lease to the Dinkler hotel interests and to be utilized for the new Louis Dinkler hotel development, was seen Thursday as the latest step in the preliminary undertakings necessary for the important construction project.

While officials reported that plans had not yet progressed to the stage of awarding the construction contract, this was seen as a development of the near future. The grading work now in progress is in the rear, where the garage, that is planned in conjunction with the hotel, is to be located.

BIRTHDAY GUILTY

Courthouse Attache "Arrested" and "Sentenced" To Receive Gift.

For 12 long years William Monroe Watkins has run the elevator on which prisoners are carried up to the Fulton county courtrooms. On Thursday, Mr. Watkins had his first experience as a "prisoner."

Sheriff James I. Lowery swooped down upon the venerable ex-fireman Thursday morning, armed with an accusation from the criminal court of Atlanta.

Sheriff Lowery haled his "prisoner" before Judge Jesse M. Wood, who found the veteran elevator operator guilty of being a fine fellow and sentenced him to receive an excellent walking stick as a present on the occasion of his seventy-second birthday.

Mr. Watkins was defended by Attorney John Thomas and the "case" was "prosecuted" by Solicitor John S. McClelland.

SPANISH WAR PENSIONS.

President Hoover has surprised and grieved the veterans of the Spanish-American War by vetoing a long-delayed measure of deserved justice to them. The reasons he assigns for his negative action may appeal to his meticulous mind, but they did not appeal to the convinced judgment of the proper committees and the majorities of the congress.

Thirty-two years ago the remaining veterans of the war with Spain sprang to the colors at the call of President McKinley. They constituted the first big volunteer army of modern times. They went out of their own country, in army and navy, and speedily ended a three-century long brutal dominion on this hemisphere by heartless Spain. They rescued a dying people, revived their spirits and strength, and presented them to the world dressed in the robes of freedom and practicing self-government.

If any soldiers of the republic ever deserved grateful generosity from their government they are the Spanish War veterans. But up to date they have been denied equal justice even with older and later veterans of the nation's wars.

The president objects to the elimination of the "vicious habits" disqualification to receive a pension. In an earlier day that would appeal as a valid objection, but not now. Most of those veterans who so disabled themselves are dead already and the small number that may remain in life are truly negligible and should not be made the cause of continuing a generation long denial of just rights to approved veterans.

The president also objects to reducing the service term for pension eligibility from 90 days to 70 days. He was not alive enough in 1898 to understand that 70 days of service in the army camps of that day, both on the mainland and in Cuba, was more certain of serious health decimations than six months of service in the splendid camps established here and abroad for the drafted men in the World War army. The number of possible pensioners under the reduced term would scarcely be noticeable on the pension roll.

No motive inimical to Spanish War veterans as such can be attributed to President Hoover. But all those veterans and their grateful fellow-citizens will feel that he has an engineering economic rule in their case rather than a heart-gauge of justice and generosity.

The congress will not be blamed by any red blooded American if it will repass the bill promptly over this querulous veto.

A FLEXIBLE CONSTITUTION.

It will be a most unfortunate day for the American system of government when the theorem is popularly accepted that the constitution is "as clay in the potters' hands" of the federal supreme court.

Over a century ago Justice Iredell said it was so in the hands "of the people"—not in the hands of the court. Even Chief Justice Marshall, who was sedulous and expert in finding hidden meanings in the constitution, nevertheless emphatically declared that it was the office of the court to pronounce "what the law is" rather than what a majority of the court might think the law ought to be.

But there is growing in this country a school of public agitators who contend that the constitution is a rubber instrument that should be expanded by the congress and the supreme court to accommodate every popular demand for something different from what is in politics, economics and social reconstruction. They are the persons who are demanding that appointments to the supreme court shall be made from men in sympathy with their ideas of the expansibility of the constitution.

When and if such views prevail there will cease to be any need for a written constitution. We should then revert to mob democracy and put all questions of policy to a plebiscite of the electorate. The system of Washington, Madison, Jefferson and their contemporaries will then disappear in a chaos of conflicts akin to anarchy.

OUR EUROPEAN GUESTS.

The tour of the United States now being made by some 14 leading journalists of northern and central Europe, under the auspices of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, is another of those prophetic enterprises by the foundation in the interest of better understanding and good will among nationalized people around the earth.

The visiting journalists are now the guests of Atlanta and are receiving from our officials and leaders those hospitable and informing attentions deserved by the eminent visitors and characteristic of our citizens.

In the present conditions of the world there is more need than ever before for the establishment among the nations of that psychology of peace, prophetic of a hoped-for era.

"When hate's last note of discord
In all God's world shall cease
In the conquest that means service
And the victory that spells peace!"

The people of the United States have ever desired to cultivate "amity and peaceful commerce with all nations," without political entanglements with any. Certainly, in a country populated as is the United States with the sons and daughters of all civilized people, especially those who inhabit the European countries, there can be found no strong consensus of unfriendliness toward any European people.

It was with profound regret rather than alacrity that we accepted the challenge and the duty of associating our nation with the allies in the World War. And since that war ended, leaving appalling losses and crosses to Europe, we have sought to withdraw our interventions from their affairs as wholly as possible, but retaining acute sympathy with their difficulties of reconstruction and economic rehabilitations. We have met their appeals to keep our markets open to their need for loans and credits, and have invested our billions in their tendered securities.

The people of the United States are playing no favorites in Europe. They are well disposed toward all nations over there and wish for them peace and abundant prosperity. Naturally we do as they do—seek first to safeguard and advance the vital interests of our own people. But we realize that much of our own prosperity and economic welfare cannot be profitably dissociated entirely from the peace and prosperity of the nations of Europe. That is now a self-evident fact.

Hence the value of cultivating that tremendous imponderable—an understanding equity between nations. To help forward a great spiritual fruitage from that cultivation is the objective of these international visitations by potential leaders of national thought and action. And to that cultivation Atlanta is happy in this instance to add the fertilization of our friendship and perfect good will.

FORESTRY IN GEORGIA.

The meeting of forestry promoters in Savannah this week will have large importance to the people of Georgia if they will give heed to the expert and wise recommendations of the meeting.

The Constitution has not only strongly supported the efforts thus far put forth by the state and national governments to encourage the reforestation of our denuded and our waste lands so as to make them immensely profitable instead of more than total losses as now because of their taxation.

Timber is becoming scarcer every year. It will become more valuable every year. The diminishing stock must be replenished or the people will suffer large trouble and cost to get their essential supplies from abroad. That calamity can best be avoided by scientific forestry, clothing available lands with trees, and prudently gathering from them fresh crops of timber annually for a long future ahead of us. The subject should appeal strongly to practically all large land owners.

Henry Ford strongly advises that more men take to farming. We believe he builds and sells farm tractors.

The British authorities, true to the national lingo, are prepared to put a "bleeding finish" to the revolt in India.

City governments are not usually designed to be gold-digging camps, and ours in Atlanta should not remain of that character.

If President Hoover wants to "tag along with the crowd" he will promptly veto that tariff bill.

In spite of having his tariff nose put out of joint so often Senator Smoot is still sticking it in.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

A GOLD STAR LETTER.

I am taking this opportunity to thank you for what you have done for me in the last five or six years, writes an Idaho reader. About five years ago I had a white spot on my lip which looked just like a splash of white paint. It wasn't sore at all, so it didn't worry me until it had been there for six months or more and seemed to be spreading. I work for a corporation. I showed the company doctor my lip and he said it was only a little irritation and didn't amount to anything. I thought a doctor ought to know, so I paid no more attention for a month or so. Then I saw an article of yours in the paper warning people to beware of white spots about the mouth. I became alarmed . . .

Which reminds the conductor of another instance in which something in this column alarmed a reader so much that he went straight to a doctor for examination. The doctor found that the trouble was not malignant, and the reader was so mad that he took certain steps which eventually made me feel the lash of his wrath. But I don't care. Let our Idaho friend continue his story . . .

I became alarmed and went to see another doctor, who examined the lip and pronounced it cancer. I wasn't satisfied even then, and visited two more doctors, who both agreed with the first. Then I had a doctor treat it with radium, and it sloughed away and has never returned. I saw a surgeon about it only yesterday and he tells me he believes it is gone for good.

So I have only you to thank for the fact that I am still living . . .

Here's one time when God and I do not share the credit. As a rule they thank God, and if there is anything left after that, I may get it. But let that pass. The Idaho reader will now conclude with a mighty pleasant remark . . .

I truly believe that your daily column in the paper is doing more to educate people against their most formidable enemy, ignorance, than you can possibly realize.

Believe me when I say that I feel very grateful for the advice which saved my life.

Your friend,

This is a very precious letter, one of the class I call Gold Star Letters. I published another Gold Star Letter here two years ago, from a mother who told how the description of Schafer's prone-pressure resuscitation she had found in this column had enabled her to resuscitate her little son when she found him in a pond near the home. A Gold Star Letter is one that tells how knowledge obtained in this column has proved life-saving in its application.

Of course the Idaho man might have recovered just the same had he never seen my column. Something else might have brought him into the hands of a good doctor before the cancer became too far advanced for a cure. Be that as it may, I am proud of the letter, which shall occupy a special place in my scrapbook.

If any other readers are fooling with obstinate spots or sores on the lip that refuse to heal in a few weeks at longest, I hope they'll be alarmed enough to go to a good doctor at once.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

What's a Diagnosis Between Friends?

Evidently you did not read all of my letter. I do not ask you to diagnose my case, but just to advise me . . . MRS. A. H.

Answer.—But that's beyond the power of a mere physician, madam. In order to give you the advice you request I should have to understand what ails you, and I can't even form an opinion about that without having examined you. It would not be fair to you.

The Cure of Rupture (Hernia).

Is there any sure cure for a small rupture besides the knife? If so, what do you recommend?

B. R. J.

Answer.—So-called rupture, Hernia or breach is a protrusion or bulging at some point, due to poor development, or a weakness in the muscle wall from injury. As a rule the protrusion occurs at some point that is congenitally weak. Small and recent ruptures may be cured spontaneously within a few months if propetly supported, but such cure is not to be expected when the rupture has been present a year or longer. In recent or slight hernia, especially when it is "reducible," that is, readily replaced, simple exercises faithfully carried out while the weak place is supported by your hand may bring permanent cure. Any one with hernia or rupture of more than a year's standing should undergo surgical treatment as a matter of safety, comfort and efficiency.

THE BIBLE VIEW OF PEACE.

Text: 1. "Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God."—Matthew 5:9.

2. "Be careful for nothing; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your request be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus."—Phil. 4:6, 7.

3. "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good-will toward men."—Luke 2:14.

If we can find the Bible doctrine on any subject, we are always fortunate, for then we have the sense of planting our feet upon the rock of everlasting truth.

Our triple text gives a three-fold enforcement of the Bible view of peace.

There is such a doctrine, evidently, as that of "peace" in the Bible or we would not find thees texts in its pages.

The manner in which the subject is handled in our three-fold text indicates that the Spirit of inspiration regards this as a very important subject.

The attention of the world, with comparative slowness, has been gradually concentrating itself upon this vital theme, as we can see any morning in reading press dispatches concerning The Hague, the League of Nations, proposed World's Court, and allusions to the more than one hundred peace agencies in the United States which deal with this great question.

Should any individual, therefore, feel that he is doing his duty to himself, to his nation, to the truth, and to the God of truth, unless he gives serious and earnest study to this question of peace among men?

A problem begins at once to approach solution when honest minds concentrate themselves in study upon it; this is no less true of the problem of "Peace on earth, good-will among men," than it is of any other problem.

Our Bible doctrine teaches that spiritual peace in the individual heart must precede worldwide peace among nations.

This is just another instance of the truth, "That the soul of all improvement is improvement of the soul."

A community, made up of men and women in whose hearts dwells the peace of God, will be a community in which all citizens are at peace one with another.

You cannot make the brotherhood of man out of a group of unbrotherly men.

When men live the "Golden Rule," the golden age of peace will come.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL

Puzzled Whether I Ought To Offer as a Legislature Candidate.

What ails me right now is that I am in a peck of trouble! A number of much-esteemed friends and fellow-citizens—particularly, some of our most cultured and progressive women—have been urging me to announce myself as a candidate for representative from Fulton county in the next general assembly.

Now, what do you think of that?

They insist that I could perform good service, because of my intimate knowledge of the state's general affairs and the methods of state and national legislation. Somehow they have acquired the idea that I could help the members of the legislature to fashion measures that would aid the state out of our present muddle.

* * * *

An Honor Highly Appreciated.

Of course the honor of being chosen to represent the people of this one great first rank county of Georgia would be profoundly appreciated by me. It would be the crowning distinction of my waning lifetime. Many of the ablest men who have served and graced the grand old commonwealth of Georgia have sat in her general assembly and helped to write her laws and increase her power and glory.

Rightly viewed and rightly used the legislative privilege is one of the highest that can be conferred upon a loyal citizen among a free self-governing people.

But no man should ask such a supreme privilege without a large preparation for its duties and an honest feeling that he can render intelligent, impartial and unselfish service to his fellow-citizens.

* * * *

Present Need for High Service.

Not in any time in Georgia, except in the aftermath of the "reconstruction" deviltry, has the state seemed needful of the most careful and intelligent service than now.

It is of no use to cry over spilt milk. By whatever ignorance or interest caused the fact stands out that the affairs of the state are in confused conditions. They need straightening out by men who have an eye single to the public good, no private axes to grind, and no personal politics to play, looking to the future.

The good old state's ox is in the ditch and the paramount duty of the period is to get it out, put it in sound condition and able to go ahead without hampers and drags.

If I thought I could lend a real helping hand in that urgent work I would cheerfully ask the people of Fulton county to let me do it.

* * * *

My Personal Feeling About It.

Aside from that consideration of desire to aid the good work of restoring the state's affairs to competent normalcy, public office does not attract me strongly.

Certainly not strongly enough to induce me to get out in the highway with my coat off to make a strenuous personal campaign for a seat in the legislature. The work in that body is going to be next time unusually exacting upon a conscientious man who seeks only the honor of capable and faithful service to all the people.

I neither could or would spend money to get the job. I am dead opposed to having public offices bought by anybody. And when I find a man spending more money to get an office than the office pays, I am strongly inclined to suspect why he wants the office.

* * * *

Public Office Is a Public Trust.

That is my honest belief, and the people should be allowed to do the trusting of whom they will without the expenditure of much money to sway and pervert their judgment.

Certainly I do not want a 60 days of hard work in that sweat-box at the capitol, in which the house of representatives sits, badly enough to go out and gallop up and down the streets and county roads begging for votes, treating political bums who probably are not registered voters, and making promises of legislative favors that I have no reason to hope I can deliver.

Much as I would like to represent the people of Fulton, who are going to have vital interests at stake in the next session, I am not disposed to annoy the voters or worry my own gizzard with a hot and expensive campaign.

* * * *

Friends Say I Could Win.

My many urgent friends insist that I could win one of the seats from Fulton without doing any of those things I have mentioned as repulsive to me.

Maybe so. And, then, maybe not. But in either event I would be content with the people's verdict.

Besides, if I should make up my mind to offer as a candidate I would be bothered to pick out that present member to be my victim. All three of them are friends for whom I have both respect and affectionate fellow-citizenship regard.

I would, under our present unwise and unjust plan, have to designate one of them to oppose—and that would embarrass me, perhaps, more than any one of them.

Well, we'll see about this matter later.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

Special Dispatch to The Atlanta Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 29.—The most distinguished audience which Hollywood has yet assembled saw last night the premiere of the most widely-discussed picture which has ever come out of its studios.

"Hell's Angels," a gelatine record estimated to have cost four millions of dollars and to have taken three years to make, proved to the famous that there were new and magnificent things to be done with air photography. It convinced the directors of the village that the aerial dog-fight had never been really presented to the public before. That Zeppelin photography had some angles as yet unpresented and that war is still very good and showy movie material.

Directed by young Howard Hughes, oil millionaire, and James Hale, the English director who is responsible for both stage and movie version of journey's end, the picture has some truly remarkable moments.

As a story it shows its age and reveals the fact that years of making and remaking, substitutions and heavy conferences, do not turn out distinguished gelatine.

Courageous as the stories of movieland have been of late, the tale is one of sheer tragedy from begining to end. But tragedy with such a tinge of glory to it that the sordid is completely wiped out.

But since this story's inception the same theme—or similar themes—have been done in the studios of Hollywood. And so far as story goes in a manner far superior to this one. Subtitles, that elucidating angle of movies which we have practically outgrown with talkies, come back into this one with disillusioning effect.

In most cases they are redundant. The pictures which are marvels of direction—and we turn them out of here these days, popular chatter to the contrary—manage to clarify the story without the aid of the subtitle.

English subtitles flashing on the screen during the German dialogue in the Zeppelin sequences robbed the scene of reality and brought to mind the marvelous work of Director Jack Blystone in another Zeppelin slic "Skyhawk" in which the German dialogue, uninterpreted, still left the action clear to the audience. This, because of the excellence of the handling and the perfection of the players.

But nothing approximating the beauty and perfection of the Zeppelin interior sets has been shown to the public before. The bombs slipping exquisitely from their shining stays. The complex beauty of intricate steelwork. And the vastness of the field covered by the technicians of this picture.

Jean Harlowe ,a girl who did little save for occasional bit parts, prior to this engagement, was given an unsympathetic role to handle. She did not bring exceptional quality to it. But the work of Ben Lyon and James Hall was satisfactory in the extreme. They had a death scene which was attenuated beyond the limits of nervous endurance and yet managed to carry it off without making the audience restless.

Charles Chaplin, who is rarely seen at premiers, was one of the notables who expressed himself as thrilled by the air-sequences of "Hell's Angeles." Gloria Swanson was there in unlike gray evening ensemble. Jack Gilbert and Ina Claire, the latter in billowy white with royal purple orchids almost caused a riot amongst the fans who had lined up for blocks to watch the famous walk up the scarlet carpet to the theater's door.

There was a party in every Hollywood cafe afterwards. The premiere took on the quality of a genuine gala night. The radio announcer sighed as the last car had rolled up to the theater's entrance.

"Two thousand persons and they came in four thousand cars, I believe," he said ruefully. "Say, is there anybody left in New York?"

Timely Views of Noted Americans

BY MAJOR GENERAL GEORGE S. GIBBS.
Chief Signal Officer, U. S. Army.

(George Sabin Gibbs was born at Harlin, Iowa, December 14, 1875. He is a graduate of the State University of Iowa and the Army Signal School. Rising through the ranks from a private to major general, he has been associated with the signal corps since 1899. He served in the Philippines in the Spanish-American War, in Cuba, Hawaii, and in France during the World War. He is now chief signal officer of the United States army. A member of numerous foreign orders, he also holds the Distinguished Service Medal.)

A phase of signal corps duty that is not generally appreciated by the public is that the corps operates practically the same in peace and war except, of course, that the load increases tremendously during war.

Communication between humans is necessary at all times, with the military machine no exception to the rule. Hence the signal corps is busy 24 hours a day and 365 days a year, at its principal job of providing and operating communications.

One of its most useful of peace-time activities is the maintenance and operation of a nation-wide war department day and night communication system, which includes radio, telephone, telegraph and submarine cable, and reaches to our far outlying possessions—Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands.

This system is of great use to our government in two ways. It facilitates tremendously the dispatch of important public business and it saves Uncle Sam annually a large amount of money.

At the same time it provides the government with ideal insurance against interference with control of its distant agencies, both civil and military.

The research and development activities of the signal corps, while dealing strictly with military needs, sometimes serve most usefully the needs of all humanity. It is of interest to know that the signal corps established in 1899 the first ship-to-shore radio communication and the first long distance commercial radio system in Alaska in 1903.

Continuing this work, it developed and successfully used the first portable radio set—the forerunner of aircraft radio of today—while recently it produced and gave to the world the radio-beacon. In addition to these important additions to the general needs of labor and science, it has conceived and perfected a combined radio telegraph and telephone set for military airplanes which has been found admirable for planes flying the civil airways.

The pressure on the signal corps for intricate and satisfactory means of communication increases in direct ratio to the complexity of modern life.

'The Ninety and Nine and the One That Was Lost'

there was heckling from all parts of the house, and Key then mentioned Taylor.

"I learned years ago that Taylor had to be watched," he told the audience. "I caught him red-handed trying to slip a paper through council. He went secretly to the Georgia legislature and obtained passage of a paper providing that he should be elected by council instead of the people of Atlanta."

"Because he was elected by the people at the time," Key countered.

Another member of the audience yelled that Taylor was subject to impeachment even then as the mayor can be recalled.

Defeat Predicted.

"This registration list is being prepared by a man who has been discredited, and when I went to one of the cleanest and best men in council and asked him to introduce a paper providing for a council committee to supervise its preparation, Charlie Murphy, the man to whom I appealed, told me it didn't stand a chance as the Woco-Pep-Taylor-Price gang would defeat it. We should remove those gangs.

"Another thing, I don't charge William P. Price, purchasing agent, with being a criminal because he was exonerated by a jury, but I do say he is a fool. I'll get his resignation, impeach him or abolish his office as I will Taylor's if I am elected.

"I am going to win this race, and on the first ballot. The people of Atlanta want a change. Those who knew of the shakedown system in the government, are going to be defeated as a penalty, and those who didn't know about it are going to be beaten because of stupidity."

Moore Scores Key.

Councilman Moore scored Key for being inconsistent.

"He says he caught Walter Taylor slipping something through," Moore said. "Did he do anything about it? Not that any of us know. And when he learned that Taylor had slipped a bill through the Georgia legislature affecting the method of the clerk's election, what did the then Mayor Key do? Nothing. He won't do anything next time either.

"It took the Fulton county grand jury five months with all the power of subpoena it has and with many repeated promises of immunity to get what it got in the graft probe. How could an individual who is not a detective find out all these things of which Key complains?

"I am not a detective. Key says Taylor slipped a bill through the legislature. That was a matter of public record. It was regularly recorded. If it hadn't been, it would not have stood. He should have known about any matter which was a public record if he expects members of council to know matters which were handled with the utmost secrecy.

"There is only one platform before the people of Atlanta from any candidate in this race. I am the only man who has published or even offered any kind of a platform. I will stand on that platform. It will mean that Atlanta will be 100 per cent in better financial condition at the end of my four-year term.

"If any member of council had charged graft to any person, that member would have been subject to a suit and would have been unable to substantiate the charge.

Business Administration.

"We have had a political administration of Atlanta's affairs long enough. I am asking you to substitute a business administration.

"If Atlantans ever try a business administration once, they will never again submit to a political administration. Election of any other candidate but me will not provide a business administration.

"My record in council and in business is clean. I will go under the microscope with Key or any other candidate in this race and not fear the comparison. In fact, I believe it will help me.

"Show me a man who doesn't make mistakes and I'll show you a man who does nothing. I know I have made mistakes, but I have administered the affairs of Atlanta—those with which I was entrusted—honestly and fairly. I have done my best, and I believe I can serve you acceptably as mayor."

Graft Probe Figures.

Alderman Huiet claimed credit for beginning the graft probe, speaking on it for the first time.

"It was my remark on the council floor which caused the probe," Mr. Huiet said.

"When I made that statement, they wanted to crucify me. Go to the city hall and see if Ben T. Huiet ever voted to retain any one of those convicted. I will demand the impeachment of every one of those who are convicted as soon as they are found guilty.

"I am a friend of labor and came off my vacation several months ago to introduce a measure in council giving employes of the sanitary and construction departments better working conditions. I am one of the laboring men, and have made my own way."

Huiet then reviewed his record as a public official and as a service man during the World War.

Johnson Asks Votes.

"I have lived in Atlanta 64 years and have served in many capacities," Johnson, the fourth contender for the mayor's post stated.

"I am a laboring man and carry a union card. I have always dealt fairly and honestly and am asking for a promotion."

John L. Cone, John Chambers, Homer Denton and Frank Fling, all candidates for recorder of the second division of the recorder's court, spoke.

Alderman J. Allen couch, of the fifth ward, and his opponent for nomination for that post, James E. Bowden, spoke briefly.

Alderman G. Everett Millican, of the tenth, and his opponent, John O. Mackey, delivered short addresses asking for votes and declaring they will give honest and faithful service.

1930 Club Meeting.

Candidates in city-wide races spoke Thursday night at a meeting of the 1930 Club in the Ansley Roof garden. In five-minute addresses, the candidates introduced themselves to the club members and asked for support.

Those who made talks included Ben T. Huiet and W. H. Johnson, candidates for mayor; Homer C. Denton, Frank R. Fling, John E. Chambers and John L. Cone, for recorder of the second division of police court; Alderman R. E. Pennington and Guy Coleman, candidates for alderman from the first ward; J. Allen Couch, for alderman from the fifth ward, and G. Everett Millican, for alderman from the tenth ward.

A resolution adopted by the 1930 Club calls for appointment of a committee of three to investigate the nature and functions of the democratic executive committee for the purpose of educating the club members. Another resolution adopted provides that members entering politics shall be granted leaves of absence from the club.

Permanent Organization.

Another resolution adopted by the club on the recommendation of the committee on constitution and by-laws provides that the club is to continue to operate. A nominating committee of five members is to nominate a president, vice president, second vice president, secretary, treasurer and an executive committee of one member from each ward to be permanent officers and governing body of the club. An amendment to the resolution allows nominations from the floor. Rules of organization and a constitution are to be referred to the executive committee to be formulated for later adoption by the members.

The club will meet again at 8 o'clock next Thursday night in the Ansley roof garden. In the absence of Julian Boehm, president, who was unavoidably detained, Dr. Witherspoon Dodge, pastor of the Central Congregational church, presided at Thursday night's meeting.

Two Meetings Tonight.

Two meetings are slated for tonight, one at the J. Allen Couch school in the fifth ward, to which all candidates have been invited, and another at the home of W. M. Hairston, 1751 New York avenue, N. E. Both meetings are slated to begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Hairston, who will preside and introduce the speakers, stated Thursday night that a large crowd of citizens was expected. All candidates for posts as aldermen are invited to attend and those who are present will be given a chance to speak, as will any citizen who wishes to be heard.

All candidates for mayor have signified their intention to attend the rally tonight and have accepted the invitation to speak, stated Mr. Hairston. These will be James L. Key, William Johnson, Ben T. Huiet and Wiley Moore. Others who will speak are Allen Couch, James E. Bowden, W. Paul Carpenter and Homer C. Foster.

A Trap in the Swamp Doesn't Injure Creatures That Keep Out of Slime

By Robert Quillen

Men seldom think rationally when they discuss censorship.

To one man any form of censorship is an unwarranted infringement on human rights; to another it is a necessary moral safeguard.

Thus a discussion of censorship becomes a conflict between one man's definition of liberty and another man's definition of morality—a continuation that is, of the conflict that has spilled the blood of men since the dawn of history.

It is a conflict in which moderation and tolerance and reason give way to passion and prejudice.

Yet men of good will and sound sense, eager to establish what is right, can easily and quickly find the happy medium that is reasonable and just.

It is a means by which society protects itself from enemies.

If there are no enemies, there is no need of censorship.

And if censorship attempts to do more than protect society from enemies, it becomes a nuisance and a tyrant.

The question to decide is not whether censorship is right, but whether it is needed.

If it is needed, it right; if it is needed, it is wrong.

The answer is easily found.

The things that a normal man has a natural desire to do, and can do without injury to his neighbors, these he has a right to do, and to deny him the right is to steal his liberty.

But liberty does not include the right to steal, for theft does injury to others.

Nor does it include the right to marry a girl five years of age, for the desire to make such a union is abnormal and offensive to the moral sense of decent men.

Prohibitive laws have two purposes—to protect normal and decent men and to restrain abnormal and indecent men.

If you are a normal and decent man, you have no desire either to publish or to read filthy and lascivious literature.

Censorship of such literature in no way affects your liberties.

Chicago Jurist Dies After Long Illness

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—Judge Hugo Pam, Chicago jurist, died here today. He had been in ill health for some time.

Judge Pam was on the bench of the Illinois supreme court. He was 60 years old.

He came here 12 weeks ago from Palm Beach, where he had spent the winter. He became ill and was forced to remain in the city.

WOMAN IS QUIET ON MATE'S KILLING

Alabama Grand Jury To Probe Alleged "Bandit" Death.

TALLADEGA, Ala., May 29.—(AP) Holding the silence that has marked her demeanor since her arrest charged with slaying her husband, Mrs. W. C. Gunn tonight was in the Talladega county jail here, pending grand jury action.

Mrs. Gunn was arrested this morning on a charge of murder by Sheriff S. O. Wesley at the filling station she and her 51-year-old husband operated in Sylacauga.

On being told of the warrant, Mrs. Gunn said, "Well, I'll do what you want me to do," and began making preparations for her trip to the jail. Sheriff Wesley said she showed no emotion and did not discuss the charge en route to jail here.

The charges and evidence gathered by Sheriff Wesley and Coroner Richard Heine probably will be submitted to the grand jury which convenes on June 9. It was considered unlikely that a preliminary hearing would be held.

The warrant for Mrs. Gunn's arrest was issued this morning after Coroner Heine opened the sealed verdict of the coroner's jury which investigated the slaying Tuesday.

The verdict held Mrs. Gunn responsible for her husband's death, although in testifying at the hearing she told the jury one of a trio of bandits that held her and her husband up at the bridge over Choccolocco creek, two miles from Oxford, Monday night, had fired a bullet through his heart.

Officers searching the scene after she had driven to Oxford with the body of her husband found a blood-smeared .32 caliber pistol and a blood-stained and rifled purse.

The bullet, officers contend, killed Gunn was dug from the upholstering of the Gunn car and fitted the pistol which contained one discharged cartridge. This weapon, Mrs. Gunn told officers, she had borrowed from Jack Persons, Sylacauga policeman, after robbers had broken into their filling station.

FIVE MEN INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

sought of Brand his place of address and said he would call at his home and see him about it.

Adcock is said to be a former employe of the power company, where he is said to have met and become friendly with Brand.

Norton, the fifth man placed under indictment, operates a grocery store on Decatur street and is a son-in-law of Councilman Charles L. Chosewood, who is under indictment for alleged simple larceny, the charge growing out of the grand jury's long probe into municipal corruption and graft.

Charge Against Norton.

The true bill against Norton alleges that he approached Brand during the trial and told him he "could get a lot of money" if he voted to acquit Taylor.

"The state cannot go further into the details of these cases," Mr. Boykin said after the indictments had been returned. "To do so would be greatly harmful. The investigation into the jury fixing is by no means completed, though I do not know just how soon we can work up additional evidence for presentation to the grand jury."

The grand jury, which returned the Thursday night indictments after three days of special sittings, will convene again this morning, but according to Mr. Boykin will handle only routine business.

Taylor Accused.

The new bribery indictment against Taylor charges that he approached Beall, then a member of the council, and offered him $400 to vote in favor of Piha's application which already had been adversely reported by the police committee, of which Beall was a member. Taylor last week was acquitted on a count in the indictment which charged that he had accepted a bribe of $300 for "putting through council" the Piha application.

Beall appeared as a state's witness at the trial and during the course of his testimony revealed for the first time Taylor's alleged attempt to bribe him. He was before the grand jury Tuesday afternoon.

Of those accused in the alleged jury fixing plot only Todd is known to have been taken before the grand jury. He was the last witness to appear Thursday night before the bills were presented by Mr. Boykin and remained before the inquisitorial body more than an hour. He is reported to have been taken into custody by members of the solicitor general's staff Wednesday and held under surveillance since.

Bond for all those accused in the bills will be fixed today.

60 Persons Testify.

Indictment of the five men on jury tampering charges came after more than 60 persons, including 11 of the 12 members of the jury which convicted Taylor last week had testified before the grand jury. Only one juror, Robert E. Harrison, Jr., auto mechanic, who also lives at East Point and who is reported to have been the lone holdout who forced the other 11 to compromise on his agreement to vote for conviction on a single count, was not summoned.

Brand, the juror alleged to have been approached, was the first person taken before the grand jury when the investigation into the jury was begun Tuesday. He had a long conference with Mr. Boykin's assistants Tuesday morning and remained alone in a special witness room while waiting to be called by the grand jury, keeping apart from R. C. Park, who had been the foreman of the Taylor petit jury and the other nine members of that body who also were heard that day.

Taylor, informed Thursday night of the return of the indictments and asked if he had anything to say, replied:

"Why should I? I know nothing about it."

Morehouse College To Give 60 Degrees

At the sixty-third annual commencement on June 3, Morehouse College will confer sixty bachelor degrees. The sixty men have chosen to enter rather diversified fields: 23 will teach; 14 will go into business; 10 into medicine; 6 into law; 4 into the ministry; 2 into social work, and 1 into engineering.

The student body, though limited to four hundred, was composed of representatives of twenty-five states and three foreign countries, the widest geographical distribution of students on record here.

Fletcher S. Brockman, member of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A., and formerly in charge of the association's work in China, will deliver the baccalaureate address at a joint service with Spelman College, Sunday at 3 o'clock in Sisters chapel. Rev. Allan K. Chalmers, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Buffalo, New York, will deliver the commencement address at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, in Sale hall chapel.

Boy Tries Suicide Following Scolding

Leaving a note addressed to his father, in which he blamed his grandmother for his act, Carlton, 14-year-old son of J. C. Grant, of 22 Alexander street, N. E., attempted to take his own life at the home late Thursday night by drinking the contents of several bottles found in the medicine chest.

According to the statement of the boy after he was revived by physicians at Grady hospital, his father went to a nearby restaurant to buy some sandwiches and after he had gone the boy's grandmother, Mrs. Nora Grant, scolded him about something.

Taking the matter to heart he went into his father's bedroom, penned a note, and drank the contents of a number of bottles, one of which is said to have contained a lye solution. His father found him unconscious and rushed him to Grady hospital in a Blanchard Brothers ambulance.

Mellon Joins Senate In Dial Phone War

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(UN) Secretary Mellon apparently agrees with the senate that the dial telephone is a bit of a nuisance.

Although the European type telephone on Mellon's desk has a dial attachment, it was learned today the treasury chief has had the mechanism detached so he does not have to operate it when he calls a number.

"That petitioner does not need any reformation.

"That it would do no harm to society for Mr. Adams to remain at liberty.

"That I think he is a safer man to trust than he ever was.

"That I think he endeavored to give his best," which completely contradicts the previously advanced theory of criminal carelessness on which the jury admittedly acted.

Because the trial judge in his decision has refuted the existence of facts indispensable to a case of fraudulent use of the mails and upon which petitioner was indicted, tried and convicted. This applies equally to time, intent and execution.

Because the trial judge in his last decision has made it plain that sentence was being executed on petitioner for an alleged offense not covered by the indictment, for which he was not tried, against which he had no opportunity to defend; not covered by any statute, either federal or state, and not within the jurisdiction of the trial court.

Because petitioner did nothing but to follow out with commendable fidelity the policy laid down by his state through the constituted banking authority of his state.

Many Urge Pardon.

The Georgia delegation presented to the department letters from the following persons urging a pardon: Representative J. Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, republican floor leader of the house; Representative L. T. McFadden, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the house banking and currency committees; Comptroller of the Currency J. W. Pole; Ellis D. Robb, national bank examiner for the sixth district; Collector of Internal Revenue J. T. Rose, of Atlanta, and United States District Judge Sibley, of the northern district of Georgia, the trial judge.

"Both Mr. Adams and Mrs. Adams have impressed me very favorably throughout this matter," Judge Sibley wrote. "In the mail frauds for which the conviction was had, Mr. Adams was not, as I remember it, an original participant. He was brought into it at the last moment to try to save the situation and tide over the embarrassments, and acted, I think, with the belief that the matter could be worked out.

"Mr. Manley was the overshadowing influence in it all, and dominated the conduct and ideas of these younger men. Mr. Adams is a skillful banker, evidently a gentleman, and I believe sound in character. I think he can and will make a useful citizen in society and that some sort of clemency would not be misplaced in his case."

L. R. Adams was for years regarded as one of the finest young bankers in Georgia. He held executive offices in various bankers' associations and was looked upon as a leader in his profession. He was tried jointly with three other officers of the Bankers' Trust Company, efforts to sever the cases being successfully opposed by District Attorney Hager. Trial of W. D. Manley, president of the defunct bank, was deferred until later on the plea of illness of Manley.

All four of the officials tried were convicted and sentenced. P. J. Baker did not appeal and is now out on parole after serving in the penitentiary. L. A. Sasser died while an appeal was pending in his case. Adams and John Russell, the other two, fought the conviction through every available court, finally beginning service of their terms in the United States prison a year ago last April.

At the time of Adams' final appeal for judicial clemency before Judge Sibley, the judge declared that he had never heard such an impressive series of character testimony from so many prominent citizens for a defendant. Judge Sibley declined, at the time, however, to extend the clemency sought.

Contract Is Let For 52 Airplanes

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)—Contracts for 52 new airplanes to cost a total of $3,000,177 were awarded today by the navy to the Douglas Company, Santa Monica, Cal.; the Glenn L. Martin Company, Baltimore, and the Hall Aluminum Corporation, Buffalo, N. Y.

The California concern is to build 18 torpedo and bombing planes for $939,415.

The Martin Company will furnish 25 boat type patrol planes costing $1,396,451, and nine patrol boat planes costing $664,311 will be built by the aluminum corporation.

Northern Baptists Reject Unity Plan

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 29.—(AP) The Northern Baptist convention today voted down with a roar of "noes" the proposal to reunite with the Disciples of Christ denomination, leaving unhealed a schism which had split the church for 100 years.

The 5,000 delegates voted almost unanimously against the resolution. The vote upheld the stand of F. L. Anderson, gray haired professor of Newton Theological institution, of Massachusetts, and Rev. J. Whitcomb Broughton, of Tremont temple, Boston, who held the convention floor for an hour, delivering impassioned speeches against the union.

HOOVER TODAY HONORS AMERICA'S WAR DEAD

Goes to Gettysburg for Services at Civil War Shrine.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)—From among the graves that dot the hillsides about one of the most sanguinary battlegrounds of the Civil War, President Hoover tomorrow will pay tribute to America's war dead.

Like many other Americans who will lay aside their duties to place wreaths upon the graves of soldier dead, the president will leave a desk at the White House to journey to Gettysburg National cemetery.

While the president is speaking at the site of a battle in that conflict from which Memorial Day takes it origin, the army sergeant who nine years ago selected the unknown soldier will decorate at Arlington cemetery the marble tomb in which the symbolic hero now lies.

Sergeant Edward S. Young, of Chicago, made the selection in a small temporary chapel at Chalons-Sur-Marne, France. Standing before four coffins containing unidentified bodies, he dropped a bouquet of roses upon one.

Tomorrow he will see for the first time the place of honor in which the unknown rests and will drop upon the tomb a bouquet similar to the one he used in France. In the same ceremonies, veterans of two other conflicts, the Spanish and Civil Wars, will participate.

The president will motor to Gettysburg, stopping en route for lunch at the camp of Lawrence Richey, his secretary, at Catoctin Furnace, Md., 30 miles from Gettysburg.

Completing his speech upon the field where many presidents have preceded him since Abraham Lincoln dedicated the cemetery, the chief executive plans to drive nearly 200 miles farther to the estate of Jay Cooke, III, near Williamsport. There was a possibility that the status of tariff legislation might force abandonment of this phase of the trip.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.
Associated Press Market Editor.

CHICAGO, May 29.—(AP)—End-of-the-month deliveries of wheat on a big scale proved to be a decided handicap today for friends of higher prices. The market at times made strong rallies on account of bullish crop reports both domestic and foreign, but the gains failed to hold well. Today's deliveries on Chicago May wheat contracts aggregated 1,627,000 bushels, with further large deliveries looked for on Saturday.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, ranging from 7-8c a bushel setback to 1-2c gain, compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-8 to 1-4c off to 5-8c up. Oats unchanged to 5-8c higher, and provisions unchanged to 20c decline.

Despite the size of today's deliveries on May wheat contracts here and notwithstanding more or less uncertainty about the final result of May dealings, the disturbing character of much of the crop news current served to keep the market two-sided. In addition, extensive spreading operations between Chicago and Liverpool appeared to be in progress, and had a further unsettling effect. Largely as a consequence, lowest prices of the day here were reached toward the finish as well as during the early dealings, with transient upturns as an interlude.

Giving considerable momentum at times to wheat price rallies were reports that domestic wheat prospects west and southwest are becoming worse as harvest time draws near. Complaints that wheat shows a thin stand were especially mentioned as applying to sections all the way from Nebraska to Texas, inclusive. Besides root rot was reported as widely prevalent in Oklahoma and Texas, and there were advices also that winter wheat at many places in Illinois and Indiana is going backward. Talk was likewise heard about rust danger in France and of Hessian fly spreading in Nebraska. On the other hand, export demand for North American wheat was temporarily at almost a standstill.

In the corn market, irregularity resulted from liquidating sales on the part of holders of May contracts and from frost predictions for tonight over part of the corn belt. Oats were unsettled by the action of other grains, but kept within a narrow range of prices.

Provisions reflected downturns in the value of hogs.

BY DONALD C. BOLLES,
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—Quietness continued to rule the bond market today. Inquiry was dull on the eve of the holiday and few important changes appeared in the investment list. There was a slight appreciation in the demand for industrials, but the high-grade rails and utilities stagnated. Time money rates showed no change.

There was a few exceptions to the slowness of the rails, Chicago Great Western 4s advanced 1 1-4 in a substantial turnover and the St. Paul adjustment income 5s, which were in low ground earlier in the week, extended their more recent improvement by about half apoint. Missouri Pacific 5s and Wabash 5 1-2s made a similar gain. On the other hand, Long Island railroad 4s sank 2 5-8 to a new minimum for the year at 88 1-8.

Industrial issues attracting attention included Container Corporation 5s, up more than 2 points; General Steel Castings 5 1-2s, Inland Steel 4 1-2s, International Match 5s, International Paper 6s, Murray Body 6s, Walworth 6s, and Western Electric 5s. Gains, however, were mostly fractional.

American & Foreign Power 5s, traded on the New York Stock Exchange for the first time, ranged between 88 and 88 1-2. The American Telephone series was firm, but elsewhere there was little activity in the utilities. New York tractions bonds advanced on fair volume.

Convertibles shared in the dullness. Both the telephone issues in this description moved up a point. General Theaters 6s, 1944 maturity, advanced 1 3-4, while Loew's 6s were firm and Warner Brothers Pictures eased.

The foreign list held steady. Japan 5 1-2s were active at slightly lower levels. Batavian Petroleum 4 1-2s and Colombia 6s (January) improved about a point each. Finland 6 1-2s lost half a point. Obligations of the leading European governments were firm.

Liberties and treasuries scarcely appeared on the tape, and price fluctuations in the few issues traded were inconsequential.

A Nanking group headed by Halsey Stuart & Company, was awarded a $15,750,000 issue of Canadian National Railway 4 1-2 per cent equipment trust certificates.

HOLIDAYS TO AFFECT TRADERS IN COTTON

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—The cotton market here has been comparatively quiet since the final evening up of May contracts. Evidently the liquidation of May eased the tension of old crop positions, for the time being at least, and traders do not appear to have found sufficient incentive in the new crop news to promote an aggressive position on the market in advance of the three-day adjournment. The market here will be closed Friday, which is Memorial Day and remain closed until next Monday morning, while the New Orleans and Liverpool markets will be open and free to act upon any fresh development. Crop advices have been rather less encouraging owing to the recent excessive rains in western and central sections of the belts. Reports reaching the trade here during the week have indicated that considerable replanting was necessary and these rains combined with low temperatures, have led to a belief that May has been rather an unfavorable month on the average. According to some authorities, the season which was slightly further advanced than normal at the beginning of the month is now from four to five days late, while there have been complaints of grassy fields and lice in some sections. Less than usual has been heard regarding the boll weevil. It seems the general impress that initial infestation of these insects is light, but that the question of damage depends upon conditions later in the season. Reports as to acreage have shown little change but on the whole have rather favored the smaller estimates of reduction. Three private acreage reports were issued, one of them estimating the reduction at 2 per cent, another at 3 per cent, while the third made it 3.3 per cent. The latter report included figures on the condition of the crop as of May 24, making it 69.7 compared with 69.5 at the end of May last year. There was some nervousness over prospects for renewed showers toward the end of the week, and another spell of wet weather in Texas and central belt sections so soon after the recent heavy rains would be considered very unfavorable. June, however, has the reputation of being a generally favorable month for crop development and with good June weather it is felt that any delays experienced during May would be overcome. Unfavorable features in the crop news have been offset to some extent by reports of a poor demand for cotton goods and unfavorable trade advices, but some traders here feel that the market has discounted the prospect for an increase in the world's carryover.

CURTAILED CROP OF TOBACCO SEEN

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)—James C. Stone, representing tobacco on the farm board, said today a prospective increase of 15 to 20 per cent in the burley crop over last year's production had been considerably reduced by lack of rain.

Stone said sections of the burley-growing region had been hard hit by drought. Present indications, he said, are that the crop will not be as large as increased plantings forecast.

Market Holidays

Excepting those at New Orleans, all American markets will be closed today, in observance of Memorial Day.

Saturday will be an additional holiday for exchanges, with the exception of the New Orleans cotton and western grain markets.

Market Gossip

Stock Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Buying was of a more aggressive character in Thursday's session, demand for stocks spreading from utilities and food issues to groups which have been inconspicuous in recent sessions, such as chemicals and electrical equipments.

The market gave no indication of concern over resistance which might be made around the levels of May 13 and 14 when the highs of the last upswing were recorded. Its ability to break through that level in Monday's session should logically be interpreted as an indication that the pressure level was not likely to be encountered within a range of at least 5 points higher in the Dow Jones average.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, May 29.—After a quiet morning the market moved briskly higher in the afternoon despite pre-holiday influences and the brokers' loans statement due after the close. In disregarding the latter we feel that traders displayed the correct attitude as it is unlikely that any significance in loans could have occurred during the past dull and featureless week. The character of leadership was excellent and stocks closed near their highs. Strength was much more general than on previous occasions in the past week. The group of stocks which have been able to better their May 14 tops has been steadily increasing. Technical indications in fact are generally very encouraging and the character of the market now seems definitely established as an advancing one which has definitely left the trading range behind. The movement may be rather slow and specialized at first but should broaden out later to the accompaniment of active trading volume.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The steady strength of the list as a whole and the good advances in numerous individual issues confirmed the expectations of a cheerful tone over the holiday. While there was a little profit taking in some parts of the list just at the close most important stocks and the market averages showed good gains for the day.

There were wide gains in specialties. Worthington Pump running up nearly 10 points and Vanadium over 5 points from yesterday's close. The utilities were in good demand with American & Foreign Power, Electric Power & Light and Consolidated Gas among the most active.

There was strength in some of the individual oil stocks with Vacuum on the curb showing a gain of 5 points for the day. The background of oil news continues constructive, although earnings currently are probably not up to what was expected at the beginning of the year.

JACKSON BROS., BOESEL & CO.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The month of May, as far as stock market sessions are concerned, is history, Friday and and Saturday are holidays. During the month the market met two vicious bear assaults which were aided by a flood of unfavorable trade reports. Notwithstanding this it is well worth noting that the Dow-Jones industrial averages stood at about 275 at the close of the market on May 29, compared with 279 at the close of April. The railroad averages stood at about 144 at the closing on May 29, which represented a decline of only 1 point for the month.

In other words, an enormous amount of selling was quietly absorbed in the open market under adverse trade conditions without much effect in the price structure. This can mean only one thing—a growing confidence that a turn in business conditions in not far off. The extremely liquid condition of banks, investment trusts and wealthy investors is bringing a large volume of funds to the security market, and the buying that is now quietly under way must be classified as wise buying.

Cotton Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Cotton advanced about 50 cents a bale Thursday, with new crop months leading the advance.

Higher prices were due to considerable rainfall in south half of Texas and lower Mississippi, scattered rains in the northwest and forecast of rather general rains overnight.

Some of the advance was due to covering by New York traders unwilling to stay short while the market is closed three days. There was, however, increased buying from the interior which was taken to reflect unfavorable conditions from the sections from which these orders came.

The map shows scattered showers in the northwest and rather general showers in south half of Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, while the forecast indicates mostly rainy and cooler weather nearly all sections.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

NEW YORK, May 29.—There was gradual slow demand for cotton in Thursday's market. For the third successive day prices made a gain over the previous closing. Bear factors continue dominating trade reports and overshadow other considerations. On the other hand the factors involved do not bring enough selling into the market even to prevent advances much less cause declines.

The answer to it shows rather definitely an oversold market. October Liverpool due 7.93.

BEER & CO.

NEW ORLEANS, May 29.—The weather being the dominating influence in the market, so far as new crop deliveries are concerned, at present values ruled somewhat higher Thursday owing to some rain over night in sections of the central and western belts, with prospects for more moisture over much of the western two-thirds of the belt tonight or Friday, whereas warm, dry weather is needed in those parts, according to yesterday's weekly weather and crop government summary.

Liverpool cabled: "Trade calling absorbed American selling. Manchester reports: Market depressed. Cloth and yarn sales unimportant. China advices discouraging."

There was a further bad slump in the value of London silver quoted today at 17 7-16d, down 9-16d, a new low record, which is unfavorable for Manchester trade with China.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Cotton continued to creep forward today owing to absence of pressure and showery forecast for the western belt with scattered pre-holiday covering, some buying of July to fix prices or transferring of hedges to new crop months. Trading, however, was light. Weather developments continue the dominating influence with the market more responsive to unfavorable than to favorable conditions.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

NEW YORK, May 29.—With indications of a return to unfavorable weather, there was more covering by shorts in the fall months and the market, after a rather easier opening, steadied and closed 7-10 up on the day.

The immediate trend of the market depends entirely upon the weather over the week-end.

Liverpool futures are due Monday: July 8.12; October 7.93.

Wall Street Briefs.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The usual Sunday calm in the New York financial district will extend from Thursday night to Monday as most of the people associated with its activities enjoy a three-day vacation. With Memorial Day falling on Friday, and business slack, the security and commodity exchanges with the exception of certain of the commodity markets on the produce exchange will remain closed Saturday. Brokerage houses and many business concerns have followed suit, banks being the only general exception. Most stock exchanges followed the lead of the New York security mart. Chicago and Winnipeg grain boards will conduct business as usual on Saturday.

The daily average of business failures throughout the country increased this week, R. G. Dun & Co. reports. The total for the five-day business week totaled 416 as compared with 480 defaults for the six days last week, and 374 in the corresponding week of 1929.

Elias Mayer, president of the General American Tank Car Corporation, expects earnings of the company for the second quarter will be 15 per cent greater than the first. Mr. Mayer said leasing departments will show best results of year during third quarter and that manufacturing departments have advanced bookings that will assure extensive operations well into closing three-months period of 1930.

The Illinois Central railroad is expected to close bids next week on 2,300 freight cars.

Henry J. Davenport, Brooklyn bank president, in an address today, suggested that bankers henceforth consider security loans as analagous to industrial loans and handle them on a time-loan basis, with methodical amortization as a method of avoiding a repetition of the last increase in brokers' loans during the bull market last year.

J. L. Warner, vice president of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., announces the concern will spend $20,000,000 for motion picture production in 1930-31.

Directors of American Encaustic Tiling Company have reduced the dividend basis to $1 annually against the previous rate of $2 by declaring a quarterly disbursement of 25 cents. Net profits of $2,031 is reported for the first quarter against profits of $104,222 in the same period last year. In January and February of this year the company showed loss of $35,551 but in March there was a net profit of $37,582.

Rum Rests Untouched In Key West Harbor

KEY WEST, Fla., May 29.—(AP)—Nearly a million dollars' worth of bonded liquors was lying in port here today but not a drop was available for local consumption. The customs officials were seeing to that. The liquid was brought in yesterday aboard the British steamer Glenworth from a Canadian port on the Pacific ocean, the authorities explained.

The ship piled up on the rocks off Nuevitas, Cuba, several weeks ago. The tug Warbler, sent to the rescue, towed the big boat here for repairs. Its destination is St. Pere de Niquel, off the east coast of the Dominion. A survey of the hull was to be made to determine whether repairs are necessary before the ship continues.

Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Cottonseed oil closed quiet and irregular. Old contracts were 2 points higher to 5 lower and new contracts 2 to 6 points higher. Some light liquidation developed in old July, but offerings were readily absorbed by refiners and cash handlers against sales of the later positions. Covering for the triple holiday was also in evidence. Fluctuations in outside markets had little or no influence. Sales old 1,600 barrels and new 4 tanks. Prime crude 7.25; prime summer yellow old: Spot 8.70; July closed 8.72; September 8.93; October 8.93; December 8.78; new: November 8.35; December 8.38; January 8.40; March 8.56.

Sugar.

NEW YORK, May 29.—There was no change in raw sugar prices today but the undertone was steadier with refiners evincing more interest. The sales reported included 20,000 bags of Cuban to a local operator for shipment to Canada at equal to 3.14 delivered here and 14,000 bags of Philippines due early in June to a local refiner at 3.14 delivered.

Raw sugar futures were irregular but generally lower under heavy selling by houses with Cuban connections, with final prices net unchanged to 2 points lower. The market opened unchanged to 2 points lower and later showed net declines of 3 to 4 points under liquidation and selling by houses with producing connections. The decline carried several positions into new low ground for the season, but reports that refiners were showing more interest in the spot market and that Europeans had purchased several cargoes of Cuban sugar led to increased covering and during the early afternoon prices rallied to about the previous close. This buying was believed to be the taking in of hedges against sales in the spot market. After it subsided, prices reacted again with final prices several points off from the best. Approximate sales 71,800 tons. No sales occurred in the No. 2 contract with final prices unchanged to 2 points net lower. Closing prices: No. 1, July 1.40, September 1.47, December 1.57, January 1.59, March 1.65, May 1.72, No. 2 July 3.28, September 3.33, December 3.47.

The refined market was unchanged at 4.70 for fine granulated, but there appeared to be no secondhands available. The demand however, was light.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—Some selling on relatively easy Liverpool cables was absorbed on moderate early declines in cotton here today and prices later rallied on reports of showers in the southwest and covering for over the holiday and week-end. After selling off to 14.78 at the start new October contracts rallied to 14.92 and closed at 14.90, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 4 to 10 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 points to an advance of 2 points. There was some selling on the lower Liverpool cables and unfavorable Manchester trade advices, with the more active months working about 2 to 7 points net lower during the first few minutes.

Offerings were comparatively light, however, and after easing off to 16.03 for July and 15.11 for the old December contract, prices turned steadier. Reports of showers in Texas and Oklahoma with uncertainty as to weather developments over the three-day adjournment appeared to bring in considerable covering later. July was rather slow to follow the advance but firmed up to 16.20 in the late trading, on buying which was supposed to be against sales of spot cotton or covering, while the old December contract advanced to 15.26, making net gains of about 10 to 12 points on the more active positions. Closing prices were a few points off from the best under realizing.

The detailed weather reports showed no heavy rains in Texas and Oklahoma but there were showers at quite a number of points which coming so soon after recent excessive precipitation seemed to make some impression on sentiment. The forecast for unsettled or showery conditions over the belt also came in for comment, and it was pointed out that with the New York market closed until next Monday morning Liverpool would be free to act on any weather news on Friday or Saturday. A private crop report was issued pointing to a decrease of 3.3 per cent in acreage and placing the condition of the crop as of May 24 at 69.7 against 69.5 at the same time last year. Liverpool cables said that trade calling had absorbed American selling in that market but that Manchester was depressed with cloth and yarn sales unimportant.

Exports today were 3,000 bales, making 6,454,451 so far this season. Port receipts 3,298. United States port stocks 1,726,819.

SPOTS RISE AT NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 29.—(AP)—The cotton market was very quiet today, the impending double holiday in New York causing a general indisposition to trade except in covering or evening up of commitments before the northern holidays. The rains in the west and the forecast for more general rains led to some buying of new crop months and October was relatively firmer than July, showing a gain over the previous close of 10 points, whereas July gained only 5 points. A private estimate issued during the day made the decrease in acreage 3.3 per cent.

The market continued to rule quiet during the late trading and prices eased off 3 to 4 points on realizing and pre-holiday evening up. The general market closed steady at net advances of 6 to 7 points.

Liverpool came in 1 to 3 points worse than due and first trades here were 1 point down to 1 up. As New York opened easier prices soon eased off 3 to 6 points, with July at 15.75 and October at 14.79.

Prices rallied as soon as the weather map was posted showing western rains and as the forecast pointed to more general rains prices continued to improve during the morning and early afternoon until July traded up to 15.89 and October to 14.92, up 10 to 12 points from the lows. Traders reported a somewhat better spot demand which helped the better undertone.

The market continued quiet all afternoon and prices eased off on pre-holiday evening up, losing 3 to 4 points from the highs. July closed at 15.85, October at 14.88 and December at 14.96, or 6 to 7 points net higher for the day.

Port receipts 3,298; for week 33,151; for season 8,420,622; last season 9,345,301. Exports 3,000; for week 16,000; for season 6,291,913; last season 7,399,914. Port stock 1,740,337; last year 1,121,984. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 68,801; last year 80,321. Spot sales 2,405; last year 13,611.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—The stock market shut up shop for the week-end today after worrying through a typically dull pre-holiday session. Buying for the merchandising, food and specialty shares enlivened the late proceedings and brought out some of the largest net gains of the week, but the tone of the general list, with the exception of the rails, was only firm.

The price indices for 90 stocks showed an advance of slightly more than 2 points for the short trading week. Utilities fared well, making a gain of nearly 6 points, while the rails, steadily liquidated on the April earnings reports, lost more than a point and are now near their 1930 low.

News of either a constructive or an unfavorable tenor was lacking and traders declined to take much of a stand with a three-day vacation ahead of them. The move in the favorites embraced perhaps a score of stocks, which rallied 2 to 9 points under the leadership of Worthington Pump, up 9 1-8 to a new high; Air Reduction, Ingersoll Rand, Vanadium Steel, Columbian Carbon and such merchandising shares as R. H. Macy, Sears Roebuck, Safeway Stores, Real Silk Hosiery, Hahn Department Stores preferred, Gimbel Bros., preferred and United Cigar Stores preferred, the last two going to new highs for the year. National Dairy, Borden, National Biscuit and Proctor & Gamble also made fresh 1930 records.

The brokers' loan figures, showing a gain of $7,000,000 to a total of $4,022,0000,000 compared with $5,288,000,000 a year ago, showed an increase of $122,000,000 in loans for New York city member banks own account, but a contraction in the amounts for out-of-town banks and for the account of others, indicating a withdrawal of funds by the interior banks presumably because of the low interest rates prevailing here. The average rate on call money during May was 3.11 per cent, the smallest since November, 1924. Minus the brokerage charge, 3 per cent money means a net return to lenders of only 2 1-2 per cent, which is 2 per cent less than can be obtained at present from prime bonds. Interest rates elsewhere are still generally higher than in New York, where funds now constitute the proverbial drug on the market.

An expansion in outstanding federal reserve credit, contrasting with the recent declines, was noted in the weekly statements of the banks. Total bill and security holdings of the system rose about $27,000,000, virtually all of which was at the local bank. Discounts for the system increased nearly $37,000,000 and for the New York bank $23,000,000. Holdings of United States government securities rose nominally. There was a gain of $13,000,000 in federal reserve note circulation for the 12 banks.

The weekly business reviews called attention to the unfavorable effect of unseasonable weather over a large area on trade during the holiday week and found that repression of business activities has been the rule.

"The state of inertia and of indecision," said Dun, "although less pronounced in some instance, extends to many branches of enterprise, while financial movements reflect similar characteristics." Bradstreet's said that the weather had been a drawback to trade and to some crops.

Grain prices were slightly irregular, but little changed on the day. Wheat was an eighth of a cent higher to 1 1-4 lower on large contract deliveries and beneficial rains in Canada. Corn closed in almost the same range, influenced by various Iowa state reports and by liquidation of May.

Bar silver again went to a new record low, carrying far eastern exchanges down. Other exchanges showed slight changes.

COTTON GOODS PRICES IRREGULAR IN WEEK

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—Trade has continued very quiet in the primary division of the cotton goods market. In finished goods lines the movement is of moderate volume but not up to expectations for this period of the season. Prices are somewhat irregular due to the desire to liquidate small lots of styled goods that cannot be carried over well and to sales pressure on the part of some small factors who are under the necessity of meeting payments. Domestics are being bought in quantities usually sufficient to last a few weeks ahead, this applying to sheets and pillow cases, bleached cottons and most of the staple colored cottons. Curtailment of production has increased steadily this month. The output of fine and fancy goods mills has been cut down to an average of 63 per cent capacity; print cloth and narrow sheetings mills to about 60 per cent capacity; cotton duck mills between 50 and 60 per cent, and mills making goods for industrial and mechanical purposes to about 75 per cent capacity. Finishing plants are not averaging much above half capacity output. Buyers are holding back from making future commitments in consequence of the uncertainty of cotton values and because of the quieter demand for their finished lines. Yarn mill production does not exceed an average of 60 per cent in the combed division and slightly higher in the carded yarn sections. Prices have continued rather weak owing to the light demand and are quoted as follows in primary markets: Print cloths, 28-inch 64x60s, 4 1-2c; 27-inch 64x60s, 4 3-8c; 38 1-2-inch 64x60s, 6c (spots) 5 7-8c (bids for contracts); brown sheetings, southern standards, 10 3-4c; tickings, 8-ounce staples 18c and 19 1-2c; denims 2.20; indigo 15c; prints 8c; staple ginghams, eastern 10c; dress ginghams 12 1-2c and 15c.

Business Unchanged As May Fades Out

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—Dun's review this week will say:

With the added restraints of holiday interruption and of unseasonable weather over a considerable area, repression of business activities has continued the rule. Another month is ending much as it had begun, with a few changes of special significance and more than the usual repetition is necessary in reviewing the general situation. The state of inertia and of indecision, although less pronounced in some instances, extends to many branches of enterprise, while financial movements reflect similar characteristics. The securities markets are favored by conspicuous monetary ease, but are more sensitive now to trade trends, there being an increase disposition to take cognizance of actual existing conditions. Appraisals made on the basis of future prospects bear a confident tone and the latent economic reserve power is considered reassuring, but the absence of a broad and decisive revival is the controlling factor at present. Cautious policies are being closely adhered to in most quarters, with a strong disinclination to operate beyond immediate or early needs, and the lack of vigorous demands serves to accentuate the recession in commodity prices.

Weekly bank clearings $7,599,961,000, a decrease of 22.5 per cent from a year ago.

Geographic Survey May Change Maps

MIAMI, Fla., May 29.—(AP)—Possibility of extensive changes in the map of the eastern coast of South America were seen as an aerial expedition of magazine writers and photographers left here this morning on a trip through the West Indies to Buenos Aires.

The party included Frederick Simpich, associate editor of the National Geographic Magazine; Jacob Gayer, staff photographer, and Captain A. W. Stevens, United States army photographer, and officers of the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires Air Line.

The party will spend several days in Havana and go thence to Port Au Prince, Haiti. The trip to Buenos Aires is expected to occupy one month with stops for the collection of data and materials in the principal cities along the east coast of South America.

Good Gains Reported By Kentucky Cities

PADUCAH, Ky., May 29.—(AP)—A growth of approximately 35 per cent since 1920 was shown today in the preliminary figures of Paducah's population, giving it 33,541 inhabitants as compared to 24,735 in 1920.

The increase of 8,806 puts Paducah in fourth place among Kentucky cities, in place of Newport which was fourth ten years ago but which gained only 423 in ten years and now has a population of 29,740.

Louisville, the largest city, has not yet learned its 1930 population, but after it comes Covington with 65,249, a gain of 8,128; then Lexington with 45,723, a gain of 4,189—next Paducah and Newport. Other cities of more than 20,000 population in 1930 are Ashland 29,050, a gain of 14,321, and Owensboro, 22,785, a gain of 1,730.

Ashland had the greatest gain of any of the Kentucky cities of 20,000 or more, registering 99 per cent. Paducah came next with its 35 per cent, Covington had a 14 per cent increase, Lexington 10 per cent, Owensboro 8,21 and Newport .003 per cent. The figures are preliminary and several cities have asked for a recheck.

Broker Is Arrested For Stock Swindles

BOSTON, May 29.—(AP)—Nathaniel H. Wheeler, 45, alias E. Randolph Atkinson, alleged swindler of women in stock operations, was arrested here today by postoffice inspectors as a fugitive from justice. An indictment charging use of the mails to defraud was returned against him in Baltimore recently.

Wheeler was arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin C. Jenney and was held in $25,000 bail for a hearing June 10. He pleaded not guilty.

The postal authorities said that among the victims of Wheeler's activities were Miss Maude Brickell, of Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Hattie Thompson, of Baltimore. He is alleged to have fraudulently induced Miss Brickell to give him $400,000 for investment in a gold mine stock listed on the San Francisco exchange.

The amount involved in Mrs. Thompson's case was $14,600.

Wheeler's operations centered in San Francisco, and Hollywood, Cal., inspectors said. According to them, his method was to advertise in a Chicago matrimonial magazine for a wife whose tastes were similar to his. He represented himself, they said, as a minister and a lover of music. It was after he had gained the confidence of the women through his lover overtures that Wheeler preyed on their finances, the postal authorities said.

Alabama Loses Extradition Fight

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 29.—(AP)—The Alabama supreme court today denied Barney Wiggins, former Baldwin county deputy sheriff, a writ of certiorari which he sought to prevent his extradition to Escambia county, Florida (Pensacola) to face a charge of second degree murder.

Wiggins appealed to the high court for a review from an appellate court's decision which reversed decision of probate court that had granted the former officer a writ of habeas corpus.

Wiggins was indicted in Escambia county in connection with the slaying of Monroe Foster, who was killed during a raid on a still. The state charged he accompanied federal officers across the line in capacity of an Alabama officer and raided the still. Foster was killed when he fled.

Oil Lists Are Featured By Vacuum's 5-Point Rise

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER,
Associated Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—The spotty and creeping bull market in curb stocks went forward without notable interruption in today's pre-holiday session. Trading slackened somewhat, with total sales of 756,100 shares, compared to nearly 1,000,000 yesterday. Utilities and industrial specialties dominated the day's activity, joined by a few of the oils.

In the industrial and specialty group Dresser B, Carnation Co., Cuneo Press, Ulen & Co., and U. S. Foil B rose 1 1-2 to 3 points to new high levels for 1930. Deere, under heavy pressure early in the week, rallied more than 2 points.

Some of the aviation issues were firm, including Aviation Corporation of the Americas and Fokker. Detroit Aircraft, recently stimulated by merger rumors, rose a fraction to a new high, but closed unchanged. Technicolor slipped back a point, and Dow Chemical, Driver Harris and Pepperell, 2 to 3.

Electric Bond and Share was again an active feature, moving up about a point to a new high for the movement. Electric Power and Light warrants, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, American Light and Traction, American and Foreign Power warrants, and Cleveland Electric rose a point or two. Associated Gas and European Electric each lost more than a point, the latter reaching a new low at 17 3-4.

Vacuum was a feature of the oils, rising about 5 points. Cities Service sold up a fraction in heavy trading. Gulf sold off, although acquisition of Paragon Refining by Mellon interests is expected to provide a new unit for Gulf.

Investment trusts generally moved in narrow ranges, but transAmerica ran into considerable selling, losing about 2 points, and closing off 1 3-8.

Live Pig Souvenirs For Erlanger Fans

It has been necessary already this week, to replenish the supply of luive pigs at the Erlanger theater. The Erlanger Theater Players are presenting, this week, perhaps the most amusing and delightful of the many clever comedies they have given, in "Pigs," famous John Golden production.

A litter of live pigs are seen on the stage in one act and the management, at every performance, has given away the live pigs as souvenirs to members of the audience. Now comes a hurry call for more pigs, with the assurance, however, that they will surly be ready for tonight's performance at 8:30.

Next week, which concludes the spring season of the popular players, the vehicle will be "Broken Dishes," another comedy of middle-class American life. There has been a big demand for reservations, which may be secured for any of the nine performances of the week, at the box office now. Or at Phillips & Crew Piano Company.

Bill To Limit Funds For House Seat Urged

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)—The campaign expenditures of a candidate for the house would be limited to 3 cents per vote cast in the preceding general election for representative under a resolution introduced today by Representative Cable, republican, Ohio.

If the laws of the state in which the candidate is running prescribe a lesser amount as the maximum of campaign expenditures, however, the state law would govern.

Assessments or fees levied on the candidate, his traveling or subsistence expenses, postage, stationery and printing expenses would not be included in the limit fixed.

Youth of 16 Dies Of Strange Malady

Eudock Graham, 16, of 442 Patterson street, who left Tech High school a week ago in order to earn money for the education of his 13-year-old brother and the support of his widowed mother and his grandmother, died shortly after midnight at Grady hospital, the victim of a strange malady that has baffled doctors.

He was stricken Monday as he was leaving his home to report for work and never recovered consciousness.

The body will be taken to the funeral parlors of Blanchard Brothers, who will announce arrangements later.

ONE SEAMAN INJURED AS SHIPS COLLIDE

NEW ORLEANS, May 29.—(AP)—One seaman, Karl Hansen, was injured and a number had narrow escapes in a collision last night between the Norwegian freighter Nidareid and the Redwood line freighter Delight, at Poverty Point, in the Mississippi river below New Orleans.

The Nidareid was towed into port here last night with a six-foot hole in the starboard side, and 20 feet of water in the hold. The Delight suffered a bent prow.

Radio Commission Bars Profane Station

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)—For the first time since its creation the federal radio commission today ordered a station off the air for broadcasting obscene language.

KVEP, of Portland, Ore., was the station silenced, upon charges brought by the Better Business Bureau and other organizations of the Oregon city. The commission in its decision found that the station, owned by W. B. Schaeffer, had permitted "consistent use of indecent, profane and objectional language" by Robert G. Duncan, who unsuccessfully campaigned for the republican nomination to congress in the recent primary.

The commission said Schaeffer "admitted himself that Duncan had attacked many citizens of Portland and had called them by such epithets as 'half skunk,' 'yellow cur' and 'reprobate.'"

Bible Now Published In 886 Languages

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—The American Bible Society announced today that the Bible now is printed in whole or part in 886 languages and translations are being made into the dialect of the Cheyenne Indians and into Mam, Quiche and Valiente, the languages of three Indian tribes of Central America.

Bibles were printed in the dialect of the Kushokwim Eskimos, who dwell in the frigid regions of southwestern Alaska, for the first time last year, along with first editions in Cakchiquel, a language spoken by an Indian tribe in Guatemala, and a dialect spoken by Hopi Indians in the southwestern United States.

Collector Reappointed.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)—Joseph L. Crupper was nominated today by President Hoover for reappointment as collector of customs at Norfolk, Va.

One of the arrivals at Candler Field Thursday afternoon was Earl Zweifil, a pilot of Madison, Wis. He came to Atlanta from Augusta where he had been visiting for the winter. He was flying a Hisso-Eagle Rock and stopped at the Curtiss-Wright hangar for the night. He will leave some time this morning for his home.

Much interest Thursday afternoon was manifested at Candler field in the initial parachute jump of Lewis Brewer, airplane mechanic employed by the Atlanta Aircraft Corporation. Brewer, who has a limited commercial license himself, was carried aloft in a Waco "9" piloted by "Red" Condurant, a S. A. T. pilot. Brewer obtained his own flying instruction at Brooks field in 1926.

When the ship had reached about 3,000 feet, Brewer "bailed" out for his first parachute jump. He fell about 300 feet before the silk opened with a bang and he was snapped upright in his harness. He came down gracefully and made an excellent landing squarely in the middle of Candler field. Oldtimers who saw the jump stated that it was practically perfect and was carried out by Brewer in a manner that would suggest that he was a veteran chute man.

Just prior to Brewer's jump, Bonnie Rowe, well-known chute artist and wing walker, gave an exhibition jump that was perfect in its timing.

Carl H. Dolan, operations manager of Eastern Air Transport line here, will leave today for New York it was learned Thursday. He stated that one of the company's giant trimotored transport planes has been ordered from Washington and is expected to arrive this week. His trip to New York is understood by many to forecast early developments in the establishment of the proposed air passenger lines between Atlanta and New York and Miami and Dallas.

After returning from Washington on Wednesday, Leo C. Wilson, department of commerce inspector for aeronautics in the Atlanta area, Thursday launched a series of surveys designed to locate emergency landing fields every 25 miles along passenger lines in this area. At a conference in Washington it was announced that landing fields located by the surveys will be established and maintained by the government to lessen air-travel hazards, to improve weather reporting, and to reduce the danger in forced landings.

Strict regulations that will be effective when new laws go into effect July 1 will govern parachute packers and jumpers, gliding pilots and gliders, Mr. Wilson stated.

Bathing Girl Revue Of Local Beauties

Beautiful Atlanta bathing girls, attired in all the glory of the latest and snappiest swimming suits made by the Bradley Company, will compete with chewing gum as added attractions for the favor of the patrons of Keith's Georgia theater all next week.

The feature talking and singing picture, you see, is Maurice Chevalier's latest and best starring vehicle, "The Big Pond." Bathing girls are utterly desirable adjuncts of a pond—hence the parade of bathing beauties which will be seen on the Georgia stage, with 12 of Atlanta's loveliest young ladies acting as models.

Also in the picture, Chevalier becomes head of a great American chewing gum factory. Hence the chewing gum, which will be given away to all comers by one of the lovely bathing girls who will be stationed, in modern swimming costume, in the lobby. In addition these will be, in the lobby, a miniature pond with wooden fish and fishpoles. Anyone who catches a fish will receive a prize from the bathing beauty in charge, the management of the Georgia announces.

Comedy Team Wins Fame in 'Cuckoos'

To the average theatergoer the names of Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey mean very little, but when they are identified as the two nuts who carried the hilarious comedy in "Rio Rita," then they become well identified. Their first co-starring picture, "The Cuckoos," now playing at the Fox theater, will do a tremendous lot more to establish them as the premier funmakers of the screen. If there is such a thing as "polite" slapstick comedy, Wheeler and Woolsey are its brightest exponents.

These two nuts in "The Cuckoos" are fortune tellers, and they offer to locate a missing heiress for relatives. Their wise-cracking and hilarious actions make up the thread on which all the fun hangs. The crowded Fox theater all this week attests their success as laugh-makers of extreme ability.

Forest and Stream Loses Its Identity

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—With its July issue, Forest and Stream, the oldest outdoor magazine and the ninth oldest of all American magazines, passes out of existence. Announcement was made today of its absorption by Field and Stream.

Founded 62 years ago, Forest and Stream was active in obtaining state and federal legislation for the protection, propagation and preservation of forests, fish and game.

It was the founder and for many years the official organ of the Audubon Society. Among its editors were Charles Hallock and George Bird Grinnell.

Thrills of Jungle Pictured in 'Ingagi'

Patrons who attend the Fox theater next week will find something entirely different in the motion picture world in "Ingagi," one of the most startling pictures ever made.

The story told by the picture portrays the experiences of a hunting and exploring expedition during a trip into the wilds of Africa. Many, if not all, of the scenes reveal a thrill and will keep your interest at the highest throughout the showing.

You will hear the noise of all the mighty jungle beasts in their natural habitat. The photographers risked their lives in many instances and caught some of the best closeups of real animal life ever shown on the screen. One of the photographers, taking a closeup of a lion, is attacked from the rear by another, inflicting such serious wounds that the man dies in a few days.

Not only the lion adventure, but encounters with leopards, rhinoceri, elephants, pythons, and other wild creatures are included in "Ingagi." The picture is supplied with sound effects, giving the jungle a voice at last upon the screen.

HER HAIR WAS FALLING OUT
QUITE BAD AND TURNING GRAY
Began Using Lea's Hair Tonic and Delighted With It. Hair Back Again to Former Color
FEW WEEKS' USE DID WONDERS, SHE SAYS

Minnie Hersch
It is amazing and wonderful the way Lea's Hair Tonic will stop falling hair and give it back its exact former shade before turning gray," writes Minnie Hersch, who like hundreds of women here, praise it to the sky.
"Nothing I ever heard of equals Lea's and I used a great many different preparations because my hair was falling out bad and turning gray too. After massaging a few drops into my scalp each night for several weeks I looked years younger and my hair was all as even colored and nice as when I was a girl. I certainly recommend it," continues the girl whose photo is shown above and who lives at 1516 Ninth avenue, Scottsbluff, Neb.
Hundreds of thousands of men and women of all ages and color of hair are today beautifying and improving their appearance and looking years younger and better groomed with Lea's Hair Tonic. Anyone may obtain the same results at little expense in their own home and defy even an expert to detect its use. Note the abundance of hair and its pretty wave in picture above. Gray hair and dandruff are a detriment socially or in business. It certainly is such a simple matter now to have beautiful even colored youthful appearing hair no one should appear old and gray.
Druggists here are authorized to sell Lea's Hair Tonic on a positive guarantee of complete satisfaction in six weeks or less or money back without quibble or question. If preferred send dollar bill, check or money order to Lea Tonic Co., Brentwood, Md., for bottle return mail.—(adv.)

Judges Announce Prizes in Georgia Health Play Contest

Mrs. P. H. Jeter, chairman of the judges' committee of the Georgia health play contest, announces the winning schools. The play, "He Wouldn't But He Would," written by the eighth grade of Dixie Consolidated school, Dixie, Ga., won the first prize of $50, given by the Georgia Tuberculosis Association. The play, "Melba Toast," written by Waycross High school, won the second prize of $25, given by the junior and senior high schools of Atlanta. The play, "Girls of Sunshine Alley," written by the home economics class at Martin Institute, Jefferson, won the third prize of $10, given by the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association. Honorable mention was given to Dalton High school for its play, "He Is Sentenced."

Mrs. Jeter, who has just been elected a member of the national board of drama and pageantry, states that she and the other two judges, Mss Leila Bunce, home economics supervisor of Fulton county, and Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, state commissioner of health, consider this a most successful contest. All plays submitted were of a high order, showing the keen interest of high school boys and girls in personal and community health matters.

The plot of the first prize play, "He Wouldn't But He Would," is woven around the amusing but effective efforts of a school club to rid their community of malaria mosquitoes.

The second prize play, "Melba Toast," shows how a high school girl almost loses the friendship of her special boy friend. This is the second statewide high school health play contest sponsored by the Georgia home economics and Georgia Tuberculosis Associations.

Do Women Suffer More Than Men?
Physicians tell us that the nervous system of woman is more highly organized, more delicately poised, and therefore, more sensitive to disturbances and susceptible to pain than that of men.
Women especially appreciate and profit by the use of Capudine, because it quickly relieves high nerve tension and pain by soothing the nerves—not by deadening them. For nervous headache, periodic pains, pains in the back and sides, neuralgia and rheumatic pains, nothing is so quickly effective and satisfactory as Capudine. Being liquid it acts much quicker than tablets and powders. Contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach, therefore, is the ideal remedy.
Every home should be supplied with Capudine. It brings grateful relief from nerve strain and pain, and affords peaceful relaxation in just a few minutes. At drug stores in 30c and 60c sizes. (Adv.)

Twenty-Third Installment.

"You know very well that we can't."

"Why not?"

"Oh well—the kids—everything—"

"It might be better than letting things go on as they are," Cassy observed, with deadly significance. "People are talking."

He looked up, scowling. "In the village?"

"But what did you expect, Dan? You're up there all day; you're never at home any more. Every one sees it, of course."

"Maybe I expected them to mind their own business."

"People never do. You know that they can't understand a man's treating his wife as you're treating me."

"Lovely, charitable, church-going lot, that's what they are!"

"Women don't, maybe. Men do."

"Why, they do not!" Cassy protested, with sudden spirit. "And it isn't religious scruples that keep people from separating, anyway," she went on, warming. "You have no religion, you never go to church—"

"No, but I live in a community that looks down on a divorced woman!" Dan interrupted in a bitterly contemptuous tone. "Oh, she got So-and-so's husband away from her!'—that what the women say."

"Ah, Dan, how can you talk so foolishly!"

"It's not foolish," he muttered sullenly.

"Danny, this doesn't sound like you!" she said, trembling.

Leaving her place, she drew a chair close beside him, and laid her hand over his on the table. Her brown, thin, eager young face, with tears misting her long eyelashes, was close to his own.

"Don't you like your old wife any more, Dan?"

Suddenly he put his elbows on the table, and covered his face with his hands. "I don't know what's the matter with me, Cassy!" he said in despair.

"Dan," she said presently, "you don't really want a divorce, do you?"

"I don't want to hurt you and the kids," he said, stubbornly, in a hard tone.

Her color flamed up, and there was an edge to her voice. "What makes you think it would hurt me and the kids?" she asked.

"She says it would, and she says that a lot of these old grannies here in Napa wouldn't bow to her in the street. As if they and their nasty little spying ideals of morality mattered!" Dan growled.

Cassy felt fury, like a flame, within her.

"You go back to Dulce," she said levelly, unemotionally, "and tell her that I sent you, and that I'm perfectly happy about it. You can get a divorce any day you like, Dan—today, if you like!"

He dropped his hands, and stared at her.

"Cassy," he said after a while, a little hoarsely, "have you thought about it? Is—is that the thing for us to do?"

"Do you think I want you if you're tired of me?" she demanded. "Do you think I like to be alone here, night after night, while you're up with her, at La Lomita, making love to her?"

"But you—you would be miserably unhappy, divorced," he said, after a pause.

"I'm not very happy now," she reminded him, quickly.

"She"—he was avoiding Dulce's name—"she is always talking about you, Cassy. It just breaks her heart to think of you being sad over this."

"I shouldn't be sad at all over a divorce," Cassy assured him, in a light, hard tone.

"But you've always talked—you've always said—"

"Why," she said, her voice shaking, her eyes resolutely smiling, "I'd have the children, and mama—"

"So that your life wouldn't be ruined?" he asked, doubtfully, anxiously, with the blindness of the man who loves another woman.

"Not at all."

"Cass," he said presently, "if something like this hadn't happened, it would have killed her. Or she would have killed herself!"

"Dulce?"

"Yes. She blames herself, terribly."

"Oh, why should she?" Cassy asked, politely. He saw nothing.

"Well, she does. She never has cared for any one before."

"So she told me." Cassy rose. "Just one thing," she said steadily, in a quietly conversational voice. "Spare me the details. Go now, Dan, today, and let me know where you want your things sent.

"I'll talk to your lawyer, I'll agree to anything you think best. But don't—don't think you have to see me, apologize to me. I never want to see you again, after you walk out of the door! Perhaps I'll change some time, and want to see you—I don't know. But unless I do, spare me scenes. Spare me—Dulce.

"Goodbye, Dan."

She walked to the door. Dan did not speak. Cassy glanced back at him dispassionately, opened the door, and went into the hall. She went up the cold stairs, quickly, evenly, and into her bedroom. The window was open, and the fire in the little stove had gone out.

Cassy went to a window, and looked down at the yard. It was filled with softly undulating fog; the willows and peppers were mere shadows, rounded and mysterious.

Tommy was playing with his red wheelbarrow near the kitchen door, Margaret had wandered to the kennel, and was strangling an uneasy puppy in her fat, loving little hands. While Cassy watched the screen door of the kitchen banged, and Dan came out. Her heart rose in her breast, and plunged like a frightened thing.

Dan stopped and picked Margaret up, and kissed her. When he set her down among the puppies again, she instantly resumed her play. Tommy came up to his father, and Cassy saw him jump Tommy to the running board of his car, and put some questions to him, to which Tommy responded eagerly.

Then Tommy went back to his play, too, and Dan stood by the car for a full minute—for another minute—pondering.

Afterr that he got in, and started the engine, and the car wheeled on the old dirt roadway, turned out the side gate, and swept away under the two great bare maple trees into the all enveloping fog.

"It can't be as simple as that," she said aloud, after a while, in a frightened tone. "Oh, Danny. Oh, my God." Margaret, below, argued and struggled with the puppies. Tommy continued to push his little red wheelbarrow busily to and fro. A solitary chicken, parading about the yard, gave vent to a desolate caw.

"This can't be the end for you and me, Dan," Cassy said.

She did not cry all that long, lonely day, nor in the wakeful night. But a day or two later, cleaning the big kitchen closet with that frenzy of feverish energy that possesses women who dare not think, she stretched an exploring hand into the darkness of the top shelf, and found something there, and brought it to the light, wondering what it was.

The instant she saw it she remembered. It was an egg poacher, a silly, cumbersome thing that she had used experimentally once or twice. She had long ago abandoned it.

She stood on the chair, in the dim pantry, looking at it. And again she saw Mission street, and the bright evening lights shining into the eyes of a boy and girl who loved each other, again she felt the enchantment and exhilaration of that bewildering night before their marriage, when she and Dan had sallied forth from the old Dresden hotel to taste the first intoxicating draught of their love and youth and independence.

Cassy got down from the chair, and staggered rather than walked to the kitchen table, and laid the little piece of rusted tinware there. In the back of her mind pulses beat, like the steadyy, roaring, rising pulses of the drowning.

Barron and Appling See Action as Crackers Lose to Barons, 9-6

JONES-VOIGT SEMI-FINAL DUEL LIKELY

BARONS DEFEAT CRACKERS, 9-6, IN FINAL GAME

'Red' Barron Thrills Fans With His Base-Running in Debut Here.

By Ralph McGill.

What was that sudden flash of red along about dusk, you ask? What was that sudden, screaming yell, you want to know?

Well, sir, it was David Irenus (the original Red) Barron who made the flash, a daring bit of base-running in a ball game the Crackers lost to the Barons Thursday afternoon 9 to 6. And the scream was one of unbelief and great joy as the spectators screamed their appreciation of the first bit of color shown by the Crackers this year.

In one flash of action David Irenus (the original Red) Barron made incarnadine the entire Cracker outlook. He went into the game in the seventh inning, taking Roy Carlyle's place in left field.

FIRST UP.

He was first at bat as the Crackers opened their half of that inning. They thought that maybe his batting eye was a bit off but he slapped a ball hard to left. And lit off for first.

He might have been running with a football under his arm as he shot down the path. One had but to close his eyes and see Red Barron straightening out for that dash down a football field after cutting back through the secondary and getting loose.

There was that same high knee action, that same symphonic flow of his body, that same rush of power as he swept down the line.

DARING PLAY.

And then he turned the bag. In left field Art Weis was mechanically fielding the ball. They have grown use to the safe and sane play of the Crackers. Red Barron hesitated a bare fraction of a second and sized up the defense. The defensive halfback was out of line, the safety man was coming in slow.

So out for second he shot, knees driving, legs flying and into the bag he shot, safe at second.

And what a yell went up. The Cracker ball club had shown not one sign of "color" in previous games this year. Their play has been mechanical, obvious and safe. There hasn't been such a yell at Spiller field since the Texas series games years ago.

APPLING PLAYS.

Red Barron's hitting may not get going for a time because he hasn't "seen" any pitching to speak of. But he will be interesting to watch, not dull. He will always be apparent on the field. The public senses a presence such as his.

Luke Appling, who just a few days ago was on the Oglethorpe baseball team, was at third, making his first regular appearance in a game.

Appling was plainly nervous and new at his position, he was a shortstop at Oglethorpe, yet he looked good in the field. He got one hit and scored a man with a sacrifice fly.

LOOKED VERY GOOD.

"He looked very good," said Johnny Dobbs." I think he will come along all right as soon as the newness wears off.

The Crackers might have won the game had it not been for a sour start. Nick Dumovich, who is usually poison to the Barons, wasn't right Thursday. He was wild and failed to last out the first inning, Joe Kiefer coming to the rescue when three runs were in.

Kiefer was given a rather uncouth time of it while he was in there. When the seventh inning came around the Barons had scored five more runs for a total of eight and were out in front of the Crackers by three runs, the Crackers having hammered Dick Ludolph for four runs in the sixth to add to their one made off a double and two singles in the fourth.

"RED" KAYOES LUDOLPH.

Red Barron's double to open the seventh knocked Ludolph out. Joe Pate, the fat old gentleman from Texas, who is still pretty foxy on the slab, took his place. The Crackers got Barron in home, but that was the last.

And in the ninth Joe Pate struck

Only 72 holes more to play—the length of an entire national open championship—confronted Bobby Jones this morning at St. Andrews as he squinted down the long course at the twinkling title of British amateur champion.

Bobby has just played a mere matter of 80 holes; it might have been more had he not shot phenomenal golf in two of the matches. He has beaten the British amateur champion, the American amateur champion and three ambitious young Englishmen—and still is 72 holes away from the end.

The British amateur championship is the most brutal event in the world of sport. Beside it, bullfighting is as tame as flinch and football is positively sissy.

Bobby already has shot more than enough golf to win an open championship and has that much more just ahead.

But if he wins—few of us but would be willing to make them a present of the other three major titles and let Bobby come on home and rest a long time.

A LAD OF IRON.

Appling was assigned to hit for Stock in the ninth inning of the third game with the Barons. Ray Caldwell was pitching. Caldwell had a wide curve ball that day that was obedient to his every whim. He could break it over the center of the plate or shoot it six inches outside. It had plenty of smoke! Old Ray was taking a hopping jump after every pitch as he threw his whole body into it.

With that sizzling curve ball, Caldwell was using a fast ball and occasionally a change of pace. All in all, Appling was facing major league pitching for the day and date.

FACING THE GUNS.

Caldwell wisely chose his big curve as the ball most likely to baffle the inexperienced youngster. He broke the first one over for a strike; Appling was plainly surprised at the speed and the scope of the "break."

Then Caldwell whipped one wide; Appling stood firm. Another to the same spot and Appling looked at that one, too.

Then Caldwell tried a change of pace inside, unless memory is at fault, and again Appling sensed it. A fast ball followed that broke cleanly over the plate and it fooled the collegian completely; he never offered.

With the count three and two, Caldwell used the curve ball again. Appling took a quick hard swing and drove it deep into center field. That he was able to drive such a fine curve ball so far speaks well for his hitting power. A less powerful hitter would have lifted a foul on that ball.

It was a rough test and Appling came through in nice shape. Whatever Appling may lack in experience he makes up in coolness and determination. In no time he will have learned enough inside baseball to get in front of everything hit toward shortstop and few pitchers in this league will ever strike him out.

VINDICATED BY VISITORS.

Special attention of the sports writing lodge of the nation hereby is called to Ralph McGill's interview with European journalists who are here on a visit.

We in the sporting departments sometimes have been made to feel we were a great burden on the paper and were getting away with murder in way of space concessions. Some advertising solicitors and movie critics have looked down on us as just a necessary evil, and not so very necessary at that.

However, Mr. McGill finds that great European journals have caught up with us in matter of time and space devoted to sports and in some cases have outstripped us.

The article also is referred to the special attention of publishers everywhere. Nobody ever gets a chance to tell a publisher anything. The telling process is always vice versa. And how!

Mr. McGill should be decorated with some sort of award by the boys who struggle to get 31 columns of news into the 20 1-2 columns allotted them by the combined concessions of the business and editorial desks.

HANJARAS' HEGIRA.

George Hanjaras, descendant of old General Hanjaras, "the Saber of Greece," reached Lisbon May 15 on his triumphal return visit home, according to a postcard received at this desk today.

George, who has made good in the States through a restaurant on Alabama street that serves marvelous coffee, is going to knock the home folks cold with his grandeur.

George writes: "My dear friend: On my way to Greece, we stop at Lisbon. I have nice trip, lots of wine and beer. I am walking on climate. The only thing I miss is good black United Lunch Room coffee. Tell the boys hello."

George's use of climate for air probably reveals that the light wines and beer of his ship were slightly above one-half-of-one per cent.

Canadian Turf Ace Dies After Injury

TORONTO, Ont., May 29.—(AP)—Whale Oil, thoroughbred star of the Thorncliffe stable, which finished second to Aymond in the King's Plate and then won the breeders' stake at Woodbine, died today.

He was injured yesterday while undergoing final training for the Prince of Wales' plate. A change of riders was being made, when the horse plunged forward, struck the inside rail and turned a complete somersault. He broke three ribs and was injured internally.

McQuade-Giant Suit Reinstated

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—The appellate division of the supreme court, reversing a lower tribunal, today reinstated Magistrate Francis X. McQuade's suit against John J. McGraw and Charles A. Stoneham, of the New York Giants.

McQuade's action to force Stoneham and McGraw to vote their stock in the National Exhibition Company, owner of the baseball team, for his election as a director and his re-election to the treasurership he once held had been dismissed by the lower court.

HORSE GUARDS, BENNING WIN POLO CROWNS

Artillery and Fort Oglethorpe Bow in Title Tourney Here.

By Roy White.

Fort Benning and the Governor's Horse Guard polo teams were crowned champions of the fourth corps area Thursday afternoon in two brilliant games at Fort McPherson. Fort Benning rallied in the last chukker and defeated the Sixth Cavalry from Fort Oglethorpe, 8 to 7, for the regular army championship and the Governor's Horse Guard beat the 118th field artillery from Savannah, 9 to 5, to win the Georgia national guard and R. O. T. C. title.

There will be no polo games this afternoon. The consolation championship will be played at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon between University of Georgia and Fort Bragg. The Georgia championship will be played at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon between Fort Benning and the Governor's Horse Guards.

The two games Thursday afternoon were without a doubt the best played in the tournament. There was more excellent riding Thursday than before and it was due mainly to the brilliant ride of Major Lyman in the last chukker that enabled Fort Benning to win by one goal after time had been called.

Governor's Horse Guard started the afternoon off with two goals in quick succession on the Savannah team. P. D. Christian followed through two good drives for a goal and a few minutes later Lieutenant Moran stopped a sure Savannah goal and drove it in position for Christian to make another goal from long range. Two more goals were made in the second period, one a beautiful drive by Christian, his third of the day, and another by Lieutenant Moran. Moran's horse stopped a free shot by a Savannah player and he drove the ball out into the open. Christian followed by a good ride and cleared the way for Moran to make a goal.

Harper scored late in the second chukker for Savannah, after which Coleman made two in the third period. Savannah rallied and entered the final period one goal behind.

After gaining a lead of one goal, the Horse Guards failed to show any brilliant riding or driving but came back strong in the last chukker to score three goals in rapid-fire order. Lieutenant Moran made two and Christian one in the final stanza. The Horse Guards drove better in the final period than at any time during the game.

The play of Coleman was the outstanding feature for the Savannah team. He was ably assisted by the Harper, Zealy and Watkins.

Two well-balanced polo teams clashed in the nightcap and the spectators could ask for no better game. It was a game full of thrills and play was unusually close throughout.

After "sparring" around for an opening, Jacobs set up a perfect drive and "Big" Baker sent it through for a Benning goal. Oglethorpe missed a couple of tries and the chukker ended with no further scoring. Benning went two goals into the lead in the second period when Jacobs picked up one from the sidelines and followed it through. Major Allen and Captain Cheeves, tied the count at two-all just before the period ended.

Things picked up in the third period. Major Lyman made one good for Benning and Captain Cheeves retaliated with two good drives and a follow up. The Benning team worked the ball to scoring position and "Big" Baker sent it through with a neat backhand drive. Captain Ireland and Captain Cheeves scored goals for Oglethorpe with some beautiful drives.

In the fourth chukker it was all Benning as the Columbus players scored three more goals. "Big" Baker was the star of the period and made all three goals. A backhand slap made the first good and the others were made from short range on well placed knocks.

Oglethorpe rallied and scored one goal in the fifth when Captain Cheeves made good a drive after some beautiful riding from one end of the field to the other. He made another long ride but missed the try for goal by inches. Both teams had two chances on fouls and safeties but missed.

The sixth chukker produced some exciting play and great riding as well. Two Oglethorpe fouls gave Benning chances which were wide. A safety gave Benning another chance and Mayor Lyman's try hit the goal post and bounced wide. Another Oglethorpe safety followed and the fourth Benning free attempt went wild.

Captain Ireland scored a goal for Oglethorpe on a free try that tied the count with three minutes left to play. It was a 60-yard drive. After several minutes of fast and furious play, the timer's bugle blew but play continued as the ball was not knocked out of bounds. Major Lyman, of Benning, caught the ball near the side lines and by a beautiful ride and several neat drives sent the ball towards the goal. A few yards from the goal, he was ridden off and Jacobs followed close behind and knocked a short one through for the winning goal and the army championship.

Did He Make It?

He certainly did make it. J. T. (Bubber) Coleman, star of the Savannah polo team, is shown making a shot in his team's match at Fort McPherson Thursday. He swung his paint pony around, both front feet off the ground and leaned far over to send the ball along. This is just one of the thrills that makes polo a great sport to see.

RECORD ENTRY FILES FOR OPEN

U. S. G. A. Reports 1,170 Players on Lists at Present.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—A record-breaking entry of 1,170 players has been received for the 1930 American open golf championship by the United States Golf Association. They will compete June 16 in the twenty sectional qualifying tournaments. The 72-hole championship test will take place at the Interlachen Club, Minneapolis, July 10-11-12.

Because of the size of the entry, H. H. Ramsay, chairman of the championship committee of the U. S. G. A., announced it would take some time to separate the entries by district and allot the qualifying places. Approximately 160 will qualify altogether, the American players now abroad being exempt from the sectional tests, along with the first 30 finishers in the 1929 championship.

The largest previous entry was 1,064 in 1928. Last year 1,000 entries were filed.

Sports Taking World, Foreign Editors Say

By Ralph McGill.

There was a follow-up to the European successes in the last Olympic games which hasn't had much play in the papers.

And that was the space the newspapers of Europe started giving sports news, a decision reached, say the European journalists visiting in Atlanta, when it was seen that sports news meant circulation and the creation of a family of friendly readers for the papers carrying complete reports.

In hissing sibilants in formal, clipped, precise words and in hesitating phrases the visiting journalists revealed that that the larger papers in Europe are perhaps giving even more space to sports than are the American newspapers.

Erho Tiovola, of Finland, publisher of the largest newspaper in that country, is undoubtedly the perfect man so far as harassed sports editors are concerned.

"Sports," he exclaimed happily. "The most important news in the papers. I demand that my paper carry all it can get.

YOUTH INTERESTED.

"I tell my editors to get the young people interested in sports and they will read the paper and be faithful to it as long as they live if the sports news is presented to them as they like it. Sports bring more readers than anything else.

"I think Nurmi and our other great runners did for our track athletics what your own Bobby Jones has done for golf in this country. We will have greater runners for the next Olympics. The day I left I read of a young man of whom no one had heard before who had set a new record."

And American sports writers who think they have a great sports section on Sundays with six or eight pages should speak with Dr. Alfred Heerman, of the Frankfort Zietung, one of Germany's greatest papers.

"On Sunday nights," said the doctor calmly, "we get out a 16-page extra sports section with all the football results and all reports of other sports. On week days we carry three or four pages—whatever the sports justify.

"We have a little golf," he struggled. "Oh, my. I wish you spoke German so I might tell you. Much football, much fencing, much track and field sports.

Strib Offered Bout With Otto Von Porat

W. L. (Young) Stribling was offered a 10-round bout with Otto Von Porat, the battling Norwegian heavyweight, to take place in the Chicago stadium on June 16, it was learned last night in a long distance conversation with "Pa" Stribling, the Georgian's manager.

"Pa" stated that they would accept the offer provided it did not interfere with their plans for the Phil Scott bout scheduled in London on July 28. Stribling will receive $20,000 for the fight in Chicago if he accepts.

The Striblings plan to sail for England on June 28 to complete preparations for fight with Scott. W. L. has already started training at his south Georgia farm, near Ochlocknee.

Von Porat bounded back into the heavyweight limelight Wednesday night when he stopped Jack Gagnon in six rounds at Chicago. It was a slashing battle

Do You Ever Have Expensive Dates? Watch Poor Doug

(Editor's Note—We hesitated to print this because it will give the wives of Atlanta men a great talking point and will no doubt lead to many odious comparisons but here it is, the greatest move of old-fashioned gallantry since Sir Walter Raleigh tossed his new topcoat down in one of the street repair mud spots in London.

NEW YORK, May 28.—(UN) Douglas Fairbanks, acrobatic film star, arrived here today on the North German Lloyd liner Europa with a story about a peculiar telephone conversation he had several days ago with his wife, Mary Pickford.

Doug was in London, attending the Walker cup golf matches. He is so fond of golf that he decided he would like to stay on for the British open tournament, early in June. And knowing that Mary also likes golf tournaments, he hit upon the idea of giving her a buzz on the trans-Atlantic telephone. Accordingly he put in the call for Hollywood, and the conversation, to the best of his memory, went something like this:

"Hello Mary."

"Hello Doug."

"Say, Mary. I was just thinking that maybe you'd like to come over for the British open. How about it?"

"Sure, I'd love that."

"Well, then suppose you figure on getting over here about the first of June?"

"Not on your life, Doug. I'd rather you'd call for me and take me."

BOBBY DEFEATS JIM JOHNSTON IN GREAT MATCH

Quarter-Final Pairings Today

Pairings for the quarter-finals this morning:
Voigt vs. Sutton.
Jones vs. Fiddian.
Howell vs. Wethered.
Grant vs. Hartley.

By Frank H. King,

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 29. (AP)—In a grim 18-hole all-American golf battle between the open and amateur champions of the United States, Bobby Jones this afternoon succeeded in beating off a great rally by Jimmy Johnston to win at the last hole and remain in the hunt for the British amateur championship. Jones halved the home hole to win from Johnston, one up.

George Voigt, who like Jones, won two matches today, is the only other Walker cup player from the United States to enter the last eight of the 270 competitors who started the championship play Monday.

George Von Elm and Francis Ouimet were beaten in the morning's play, Von Elm in an upset which was one of the sensations of the day. The Hon. Michael Scott, 52-year-old player, member of a famous Northumberland golfing family, got ahead of the former American champion and was never caught although the Detroiter chased him to the 20th hole.

OUIMET PASSES.

Ouimet was a victim of a sturdier foe, Lister Hartley, who won another match in the afternoon and remains in the running.

Douglas Grant, another quarter-finalist, is a Californian but he has lived long in London.

If Jones and Voigt win their morning matches tomorrow they will meet in the semi-finals in the afternoon. Voigt today defeated William Campbell, four and two, in the fifth round, and W. L. Hope, two up in the sixth. Jones' victories today were over G. O. Watt, 7 and 6, and Johnston.

TWO VICTORIES.

Grant, too, scored two victories, the first over Kenneth Grieg and the second over Scott, conqueror of Von Elm. Grant and Scott are veterans and after their strenuous morning matches these two introduced a novel interval in the championship golf this afternoon. When their match was delayed by the surging gallery following Jones and Johnston, they stretched out on the grass near the seventh tee and went to sleep.

Golf gossip in St. Andrews tonight, and they talk of nothing else here, still centers, as it has all week, on Jones' chances of winning the title he covets most. He has had a tough fight so far and he faces more stiff opposition tomorrow. Eric Fiddian, boys' champion three years ago, is regarded as one of the best of the younger crop of British golfers.

If the open champion of America defeats the youngster he has Voigt to face, and the New Yorker, with his execution run-up shots, so essential at St. Andrews, has won hosts of admirers among Scottish critics. His stock went up today when he defeated Hope, a great match player, after losing the first three holes. Voigt, however, was not dismayed at his temporary disadvantage and shot three birdies at his opponent in succession to even matters.

Jones played effortless golf this morning but this afternoon, as was the case yesterday, he struggled for his figures particularly on the homeward route. When Jones went four holes up on Johnston with only five holes remaining, the gallery said "Nobody can give Jones a four-hole lead and have a chance to win," but Jimmy gave Bobby the battle of his life and brought the match all the way home.

Bobby Weathers Johnston's Rally.

Galleries which had been scattered over the course assembled in one group for the start of the match between Jones and Johnston.

HALVE FIRST.

With the wind at their backs, Jones and Johnston were on the 356-yard third hole with drives and chips, halving the hole in par 4s.

Jones and Johnston had to wait at the fourth tee while the crowds were cleared from the fairway. The Scottish interest in the all-American match was intense.

RECOVERY HELPS.

Jones' tee shot landed on the side of a steep mound among whin bushes, but Bobby sent the ball soaring to the green. Johnston, however, sent his second inside. Jones putted close from 60 feet. Jimmy had a 15-footer to win the hole but he missed and there was another half in 4s.

Jones' drive at the 5th left him another bad lie but he smashed an iron to within 25 feet of the cup. Johnston was a little outside and putted a foot past the pin. Jones' putt stopped on the lip of the cup. Jimmy started to sink his short one but Bobby reached down and caught the ball, conceding the half in birdie 4s.

The 6th brought another half in 4s. Both tee shots were off the line to left and Bobby again had the harder second shot to plan from a little clump of heather. He was short, on the green's edge. Jimmy hit a perfect iron

Roaring Motors Given Final Tryouts for Speed Classic Today

Thirty-Eight Cars Are Set for Start

By Mark H. Knight.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29.—(UN)—The world's greatest racing drivers will send about one-half million dollars' worth of speed creations whizzing around the Indianapolis speedway tomorrow in the 18th annual Memorial Day automobile race.

For five hours and some odd minutes the best of the 38 entrants will risk their necks roaring about the two and one-half mile brick oval to determine who shall wear motordom's most coveted crown for the next year.

More than 160,000 racing fans crowded the city tonight. Many of them started to trek to the speedway grounds, five miles from the heart of Indianapolis. Most rabid of the fans clicked through the turnstiles before sundown to be sure of vantage points. The gates remained open all night.

Din of merrymakers prevented sleep even for the thousands who had driven many hours and many hundreds of miles, with no place but the race grounds to get long deferred slumber.

Thirty-eight drivers and 38 mechanics will "pound the bricks" before what the management said would be "the largest crowd ever to witness a modern sporting event."

Experts said there was little chance of any of the drivers equalling the record of Peter De Paolo when he raced over the 500 miles in 1925 in a tiny, single-seater Duesenberg at 101.13 miles per hour.

Two-man cars are required this year for the first time since 1922. Motors approximating stock specifications are in many of them. Four, six, eight and 16-cylinder cars are entered. Some have front drives. Some look like sport roadsters. Others are tiny machines with just enough room for the mechanic to pump oil without getting in the way of the driver.

Most of the favorites in the betting are past winners. Among the prominent contenders for the $115,000 in cash prizes are De Paolo, Louis Meyer, Wilbur Shaw, Shorty Cantlon and Billy Arnold. The latter was the fastest qualifier in the trials.

Two famed Italian drivers, Baconi Borzacchini and Letterio Cucinotta, also are entered with cars of Italian manufacture.

FIRST ROW.

Billy Arnold, Chicago; Louie Meyer, South Gate, Cal.; William (Shorty) Cantlon, Detroit.

SECOND ROW.

THIRD ROW.

FOURTH ROW.

FIFTH ROW.

J. C. MacDonald, South Bend, Ind.; Joe Caccia, Philadelphia; Chester Miller, Detroit.

SEVENTH ROW.

Charles Moran, DePont, N. Y.; Tony Gulotta, Kansas City; Peter De Paolo, Los Angeles.

EIGHTH ROW.

NINTH ROW.

TENTH ROW.

ELEVENTH ROW.

TWELFTH ROW.

THIRTEENTH ROW.

BROOKLYN ROBINS WIN.

BROOKLYN, May 29.—The Brooklyn Robins regained their tie with the St. Louis Cardinals for first place in the National league today by defeating their closest rivals, the New York Giants, 4 to 1. The Cardinals were among the six idle clubs in the circuit.

Babe Herman and William Watson Clark as a combination proved too much for the Giants. Herman hit two home runs, one off Carl Hubbell and the other off Joe Heving, who relieved Hubbell in the eighth inning, and batted in three of the Robin runs. Clark allowed the Giants only six hits, one at a time, and was deprived of a shutout only by Andy Reese's homer in th fifth.

Barron Bats 5th Today; Player To Be Released

Red Barron will bat fifth in the Cracker lineup today, following Grimes, who will be moved into that position while Carlyle is out. Luke Appling will be at third as the Crackers and Lookouts play a double-header beginning at 2:15 o'clock. Both new players made fine showings Thursday.

Two changes in the Cracker squad are due today. The Crackers have a conference scheduled with Lee Meadows this morning. It is possible that one pitcher and another member of the squad will be cut loose. Hugh Starling, University of Alabama pitcher, is expected to be put on the list today. Milt Stock, on whom waivers were asked Wednesday, was unclaimed Thursday.

Red Barron is sure to be a fixture in the Cracker lineup and Appling is expected to stick in the infield. Their presence has already improved the team.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 29.—After Tampa had tied the score at 4-all in the first half of the ninth inning here today, Jacksonville turned a walk to Bourg and singles by Seremba and Long into another tally in the last half of the same frame to carry off the opening game of the series, 5 to 4.

Each team had a three-runn rally to its credit, the Tars shoving a trio of runners around in the third and the Smokers knotting the count on their next visit to the plate. The other Jacksonville run was accounted for in the fifth.

Stuart with a double and triple led the winning attack, while every local player grabbed one safety apiece. Sam Herman held Tampa to eight safeties, all singles, and after the bad fourth retired 13 men in a run until the visitors got to him again in the ninth. Then Guerra's single and Buskey's solid crack which bounded past Long in center field for three sacks forced the Tars to take their last turn at bat.

STARS GET SET TO TRY MARKS AT CAMBRIDGE

I. C. A. A. A. Battle Today Should See Fall of Records.

By Alan J. Gould.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 29.—(AP) If at least three world's records are not buffeted about in the intercollegiate A. A. A. championships starting tomorrow in the Harvard stadium, it will not be because of any lack of rivalry between the two squads of strong-armed and swift-legged youth from Stanford and Southern California.

The expected battle between the two Pacific coast universities for the team championships in this track and field classic, now 54 years old, likely will see the 100-yard, shot put and discus tossing records subjected to the severest pressure. Marks in the high jump and low hurdles also may be toppled if the boys are in top form and the conditions favorable.

WYCOFF CONCENTRATES.

Frank Wykoff, who has done the century in 9.4 on the coast without starting blocks, is concentrating all his efforts in this event, in which his main rivals will be Eddie Tolan, of Michigan, the new world's record holder at 9.5, and Hec Dyer, the Stanford star, who beat Wykoff in 9.6 at Los Angeles. The I. C. A. A. A. A. record for the century is 9.7. Dyer will be a favorite in the 220.

The east has little to offer against such speed. Neither Karl Wildermuth, of Georgetown, the defending champion, nor Jimmy Daley, of Holy Cross, have been up to their best this spring. They might be outclassed, even if they were in top form. Harvard's captain, Tom Mason, has only an outside chance to score.

Stanford's team prospects are built largely on the bulky shoulders of Eric Krenz and Harlow Rothert. These two weight tossing stars hope to celebrate their final eastern appearance as collegians by cracking a few records. Krenz, in the discus, and Rothert, in the shot put, not only have the meet records at their mercy but figure to menace the world's records in their specialties.

Krenz recently gained official credit for his world's mark of 163 feet 8 3-4 inches in the discus, made last year. He has tossed the platter four feet farther already this spring.

MIGHTY HEAVES.

Rothert has a more difficult job since the world's shotput mark was moved out to 52 feet 7 1-4 inches, the achievement of Germany's Emil Hirshfield. Nevertheless he has beaten 52 feet this spring and is primed for a few mighty heaves, with Krenz to keep him company.

Southern California's jumpers and hurdlers, relied upon to help the Trojans replace the Cardinals as team champions, may do some record-busting of their own. The Trojan high jumpers, Van Osdel and Stewart, are capable of 6 feet 5 inches or better. The low hurdlers, Carls and Payne, have touched record time and will be hard to beat. California has a star in Captain Al Pogolotti. Yale's captain, Sid Kieselhorst, winner of the 220-yard low hurdles for the past two years, is a doubtful performer, having just recovered from an operation for appendicitis.

The battle for team honors has two distinct aspects, with Southern California and Stanford fighting for first place, and the remainder of the field scrambling for third position. Pennsylvania, Cornell and Harvard will be joined by Michigan and California in the second-division struggle.

Michigan returns to the competition for the first time since 1919. The Wolverines won the Big Ten track and field championship last Saturday, but have sent only six athletes to Cambridge. Michigan State also has a half-dozen entries, with strength in the distance running events.

YANKEES DOWN NATS.

NEW YORK, May 28.—With George Pipgrass playing the leading role, the Yankees checked the winning streak of the Washington Senators today after seven straight victories. The score was 4 to 2. It was the second time the Yankees have beaten Washington in seven games this season. Pipgras pitched both games.

The "Great Dane" allowed nine hits, but kept them well scattered after the first inning when the Senators started off with three successive singles to score one run. It was his sixth victory in nine starts.

The Yankees took the lead in the second inning as Chapman doubled after Gehrig and Cooke had walked and never were seriously threatened. Ruth drove in the third Yankee run after Combs had tripled and scored the fourth on his double and a single by Hargrave.

Washington did not score again until two were out in the ninth inning. With two on base, Pipgras made a wild toss for an error and Bluege came home from third.

A'S WIN FOURTH STRAIGHT.

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—Mahaffey, the Athletics' pitcher from Portland, Ore., bested Milt Gaston in a twirling tangle here today, pitching the Mackmen to a 2-to-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

A two-base boot by Regan on Haas' grounder in the seventh inning paved the way for the winning run that was scored on Cochrane's two-base hit to right.

The only member of the Red Sox to pass second base was Oliver, who singled in the sixth, advanced on an infield out, and scored on a double by Durst. Today's win was the Athletics' fourth straight.

HERMAN STARS AS ROBINS TIE CARDS FOR LEAD

St. Louis Idle as Dodgers Beat Giants, 4-1; Nats' Streak Ended.

Brooklyn went into a tie for first place in the National league Thursday by defeating the New York Giants, 4-1, while the St. Louis Cardinals were idle.

Babe Herman led the Brooklyn attack with two home runs and a single in four times at bat. Bill Clark, Robins' southpaw, held the Giants to six hits, Andy Reese's home run being the only run made off him.

The Cubs-Reds game at Chicago was postponed out of respect for Hal Carlson, Chicago pitcher, who died Wednesday. The Phillies-Braves game at Boston was rained out.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

The Philadelphia Athletics nosed out the Boston Red Sox, 2-1, and gained a full game on Washington, reducing the Senators' lead to three games.

Regan's error on Haas' easy roller followed by Cochrane's double enabled the A's to score the winning run. Milton Gaston and Leroy Mahaffey, Philadelphia rookie, each allowed five hits.

No other games were played.

MAX STUDIES FIGHT PLANS IN WORKOUTS

By Benny Leonard,
Retired Undefeated Lightweight Champion.

SCHMELING'S TRAINING CAMP, ENDICOTT, N. Y., May 28.—Max Schmeling's trainer, Max Machon, I fear, does not agree with me that the German heavyweight needs more work.

The man who is to battle Jack Sharkey for the heavyweight championship of the world in the Yankee stadium on June 12 kept applying the brakes in his workout today, but at that he sparred seven rounds with three sparring partners. Schmeling took on Stanley Poreda for two rounds, George Neron for three and then battered Jack De Mave for the final two.

To me it looks as if Machon is thinking more of conserving the sparring partners until others can be secured than he is of letting his man take the bit in his teeth and get as much boxing as he can under his belt in the remaining time left for training.

IS STUDYING.

As I have pointed out in previous articles, the German is studying rather than fighting, although he does let himself go a little with De Mave. Neron is a big, husky fellow and I think Schmeling could cut loose with him, too, without doing either any harm.

I have spent much time with Schmeling in the last few days. We have talked of his plan of battle, of his training and of his golf. Max explained that he does not exert himself much in the golf games. He pointed out that of late it has not been hot here and the sun has had little chance to sap his energy.

"I trained considerably in Germany before I started for this country," Max explained, "so that when I arrived here I was practically fit, so far as physical condition is concerned.

"Remember, this is a 15-round fight, and I am used to traveling that distance. I am more used to long fights than Jack Sharkey is. When I do play golf you'll notice I don't do much other work. In golf I get a jaunt of about four or five miles, that's all, and we go along easily, resting now and then while waiting for the others to make their shots.

IMPROVES.

"Machon has been with me for some time and he understands just what I need. Don't you yourself think I have shown improvement?"

I had to admit that I do think he shows a great improvement.

Schmeling told me he plans to rest from training tomorrow. He is to go for a 60-mile ride to Sidney, N. Y., where he will be the guest of Captain Daniel Fox, of Troop C, state troopers. Captain Fox and his men are great friends of Schmeling. They are around the camp every day. They watch the German in his workouts and at rest. They all think Max is a cinch to win, but then this may be the sort of thought that is fathered by a wish.

"Benny, I know I punch well with my right hand," Max said, "and when you have something down pat, as you say here in America, you never lose it. For instance, you learn how to ride a bicycle and you become proficient at it. Then, as long as you live and are able you never lose the ability to ride a bicycle. You can't forget how to do it.

"Now my left hand is right here sticking on my shoulder and it's here to be used. So, knowing I am not proficient in its use, I am developing it. I think I am getting along quite well."

Schmeling is, as he says, doing very well with his left hand. The fellow is learning every day. He demonstrated the left on De Mave, but he did most of his real execution with the right. He showed he has not forgotten how to use his right hand when he shifted to his natural stance and let a couple go that were American beauties.

Sharkey Is Made A 7-to-5 Favorite

NEW YORK, May 29.—(UN) Jack Sharkey was quoted a 7-to-5 favorite today to defeat Max Schmeling in their 15-round world's championship heavyweight match at Yankee stadium June 12 by J. S. Fried & Co., Wall Street betting commissioners.

Several large sums to wager on Schmeling have been received from abroad, Fried & Co. reported. Many Schmeling backers are putting their money on the German to win by a knockout at odds of 1 to 2 1-2.

Against Hope, former Walker cup player, Voigt lost the first three holes, then shot three birdies in succession to take the next three holes and square the match. Hope won the eighth and was 1 up at the end of the first nine holes.

They halved the next three holes, and then Hope cracked badly, going two over par on both the 13th and 14th holes, Voigt taking the lead, 1 up. Hope steadied to halve the next three holes, but Voigt won the 18th to end the match, 2 up.

Summary of the play of Americans:

BOBBY DEFEATS JIM JOHNSTON IN GREAT MATCH

and the ball rolled 30 feet past the pin. Jones putted to within four feet but Johnston was six feet short. Each player holed his putt.

TWO HAVE FOURS.

Another half in 4s was scored at the 7th. Johnston pitched within 15 feet of the pin on one side and Jones about the same distance on the other. The putts for birdies would not go down.

Jones went two up at the 8th, where he placed his tee shot on the troublesome short hole. Johnston's tee shot landed in a jam of people around the green. Jimmy putted 10 feet past the pin while Jones lipped the cup. Jones took par 3 to Johnston's 4.

JOHNSTON WINS.

Johnston won his first hole of the match at the 9th, when he was down in 4 to 5 for Jones. Jones' drive was in a bunker and his second short of the green. Johnston was well on in two and easily scored his 4. This reduced Jones lead to one.

Cards:

Jones' tee shot was hole high at the 312-yard 10th, while Johnston's carried to the heather. Johnston conceded the hole after a pitch and two putts. "Great drive Bobby," said Jimmy.

The 11th was halved in 3s when both tee shots reached the green.

GOING UP.

Jones went four up over Johnston at the 13th where Jimmy's tee shot was in a bunker.

Johnston won the 14th with a birdie three to Jones' par four and Jones was three up with four to play. Johnston played a great approach after Jones had fluffed a chip shot completely. Jones dropped a 20-foot putt for his par while Johnston got an easy birdie.

Jones was bunkered before the green at the 15th and wound up with a six, his first hole of the day over five. Johnston was down in five after missing a putt.

Johnston holed a six-foot putt dangerously near a stymie at the 16th for a half in fours to keep the match alive.

RALLY CONTINUES.

Continuing his great rally, Johnston won the 17th with a birdie four to Jones' five and was only one down with a hole to play.

Rushing thousands stampeded around the dog-leg 17th to see the balls come sailing over the buildings projecting into the course. With great difficulty the fairways were cleared. All Bobby needed was a half to dispose of Jimmy then and there but timidity at this hole is as dangerous as boldness.

Jones, instead of playing bravely for the green as he did against Tolley yesterday, played short and found the big bunker directly between his ball and the flag. He played for safety far to the right of the pin.

Johnston, on the lower edge of the green in two and having everything to gain and nothing to lose by adventurous shots, rolled his ball, from more than 100 yards, to win within six feet of the cup. Jones was 50 feet away and took two putts while Johnston holed his to win the hole with a birdie four and send the match to the home green.

Johnston's drive at the 18th was short of the road across the fairway while Jones was over it. Both seconds reached the green, Jones in the far left-hand corner and Johnston inside. Jones' putt was six feet short while Johnston putted to within three feet of the cup. Jones sent his ball plump into the cup while the crowds gave the two Americans a rousing cheer for a great match.

How Bobby Beat Watt.

Bobby Jones, American open champion, went into the sixth round with an easy victory over G. O. Watt, of Broughty Ferry, 7 and 6.

Jones played easily and with machine-like seconds that left him little to do on the greens. Watt was always struggling for halves while Jones was putting for birdies.

Watt never won a hole from Jones. The Briton got halves at the second and third holes by sinking long putts but when Bobby applied pressure the home-bred was overwhelmed.

Jones ran a 15-yard approach putt dead to the first hole from Watt, 4 to 5. The wind was not nearly so strong as it was Wednesday.

The tenth was halved in par fours. Jones played the 11th perfectly to win with a 3. Bobby's tee shot straight from the blade of his mashie over the big Strath bunker stopped dead on the narrow strip of green where the flag waved. On the next hole Jones laid Watt a stymie which the Briton couldn't negotiate and the match ended.

Jones' lead mounted so rapidly that the players themselves didn't realize the match was finished at the 12th. They started toward the 13th tee, then realizing the stymie had given Jones the hole, Watt congratulated the Atlantan and both players crossed to the other side of the big green on which the sixth hole is located.

The cards:

Jones (out)..4 4 4 4 5 3 3 3 4—34
Watt (out) ..5 4 4 5 5 5 4 3 5—40

Kid Berg Defends Junior-Welter Title

NEWARK, N. J., May 29.—(UN) Jack (Kid) Berg, of England, successfully defended his junior-welterweight title by knocking out Al Delmont, of Newark, in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round bout, before 10,000 fans at Dreamland park tonight. Berg weighed 139 pounds, Delmont 136.

Berg outclassed the Newark contender from the start and never was in danger. He knocked Delmont down for a 9 count in the second and gave him a bad beating in the third. Delmont came out in bad shape for the fourth round and was sent to the floor for a 9 count early in the round. He struggled to his feet but Berg knocked him out with a hard left hook to the jaw.

Bobby Jones Is Hero To England's People

From golf to diplomacy is a step which may seem, at first glance, too incongruous for inclusion in one and the same article. Indeed, it is very much like calling on the sports writer to do a column on the treaty, or like asking the society editor to cover a ball game, but, nevertheless, your attention is called, unless it is already engaged in the same direction, to the activities of Mr. Bobby Jones, now engaged in the British amateur play.

Of course, Bobby is a golfer rather than a diplomat. His costume is the plus fours of the links rather than the cutaway of the conference table; his implements the mashie and the putter rather than pen and ink. His specialty is making shots, rather than an attempt to curtail such actions; yet do not limit his effectiveness to an extent evidenced only by a perennial grasp on the Walker cup.

To the British, you know, Bobby is almost as much a hero as he is to his native countrymen. They stampede after his matches, they write columns on his play, describing each shot in detail and marveling at his execution. The Prince of Wales plays golf with him, and the privilege is as much Wales' as it is Jones.'

How fortunate that this exponent of American golf and, consequently, America, is a fine, upstanding, admirable person such as we know the champion to be. It is only reasonable to suppose that, wherever he goes, he heightens the prestige with which Americans are regarded and does much, by his sustained non-professionalism, to dissipate the impression that we are a nation of money grabbers lacking in ideals. Four our part, we consider his worth commensurate with that of our leading ambassadors.

Jones Victor, Johnston Hero, Darwin Writes

By Bernard Darwin,
British Golf Expert.

(Written Exclusively for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 29.—(Special.)—The fourth morning of the British amateur golf championship saw the American forces attenuated to the extent of two more deaths.

Francis Ouimet went down before Lister Hartley, brother of Moe's conqueror. That was not wholly surprising, because Hartley is a strong young man and Ouimet all along has given the impression of being rather a tired man who is enjoying a pleasant holiday with old friends.

What was surprising was the defeat of Von Elm by Michael Scott, for Scott, although a grand golfer, is 52 years old. Scott's supreme quality is the power he retains unimpaired of hitting a low ball right through the wind. And before the match began he lamented that the wind, instead of blowing hard from the west as on Wednesday, was now no more than a gentle easterly breeze.

VETERAN IS GOOD.

Wind or no wind he played magnificently to get 18 holes in 72, nor could his strong young enemy gain anything on him in length. Scott made just one poor shot on the way out, and it cost him one hole. He was 2-up at the eighth, but only 1-up at the turn, as Von Elm holed a long one at the ninth.

Scott had the seventh in three. They halved the eighth in three. Scott had the tenth in three, and the excruciating 11th was halved in three. Forgive my saying "three" so often but this was a wonderful burst of brilliance by both men. Three halves followed and Scott was 2-up, with four to go.

He made a mess of the 15th, but holed two neck-savers at the next two holes. So age was dormie on youth and the last hole looked an easy four. Then Scott did the fatal thing, the one thing not to do. He was short, and in the well named "Valley of Sin" he took five and lost the hole and a heaven-sent chance, and out we went again with our hearts in our boots. We thought he could not do it after that, but we were wrong.

HOOKS SECOND.

The 19th was halved in four. At the 20th Von Elm hooked his second shot into the bunker under the green. Scott played a beauty just over the green. Von Elm played a brave explosion shot within four feet. Scott answered by laying the ball stone dead. We were all getting ready to rush forward when Von Elm dragged a short putt right across the hole. That was the end and a great triumph for a fine golfer. After that we were glad Scott had missed his second shot to the 18th. We should have lost a wonderful thrill if he had not. That match was the morning's story.

Bobby Jones simply trampled over a local player, G. O. Watt, seven and six. He began steadily and when he was 2-up after five holes he started to plaster his man all over with threes. That was the end.

VOIGT GOES GOOD.

Voigt beat Campbell, one of our luckless Walker cup men, by 3 and 2. I watched most of this match and Voigt played beautifully. He missed a short putt on the first, but played with clock-like accuracy ever after. Out in 36, he began the home stretch with three 3s in a row, and I watched no more.

Harrison Johnston didn't have much to beat, and did it in workmanlike style, so now two of the three American survivors, Jones and Johnston, had to cut each other's throats. There was a crowd to see the fun, and fun it was. The open champion of America won by a hole, but I think it was the amateur champion who was the hero of the match, for he pulled Bobby down from 4 up to 1 up, and gave him all the fight he wanted and a bit more of it.

Both men played beautifully accurate golf all the way out, but Johnston made two tiny venial slips, and, of course, lost two holes to the remorseless one. He got the ninth back when Bobby bunkered, but Bobby drove a vast hit to the tenth hole, winning it in 3, and he was 2 up again. At the 13th he was 4 up, and I think it is no shame to me to say that I thought it was all over and looked for a while at other players.

A GREAT HOLE.

When I got back all the fat was in the fire. Johnston had played a great 4 at the long hole and that was one hole retrieved. Bobby bunkered himself and made a mess of the 15th. He was down to 2.

Johnston holed a neck-saving putt at the 15th and played a superb 4 at the most fiendish of all, the 17th. And now Bobby was only dormie 1, and oh, my goodness! he was terribly short with his approach putt at the last. However, he steadied himself, had a good long look, and holed an 8-footer with a bend in it. He said afterward it had looked a mile long, and I dare say it did.

Voigt just beat Willie Hope by two holes. Hope won the first three and was on the fourth green in 2, while Voigt was just in the rough. Voigt holed a chip shot and Hope topped his next drive. Many other things happened, but that is the story in a nutshell.

If each can win one more match, Jones and Voigt will meet in the semi-final.

HERMAN TAKES TOP POSITION IN BIG SIX RACE

Robin Slugger Has Big Day Batting His Way To Lead.

Babe Herman batted his way back to the Big Six and National league leadership yesterday as he led the Robins to a victory over the Giants by getting two home runs and a single in four times at bat. The sudden spurt gave the Brooklyn Babe an average of .414. Sam Rice hit safely twice in five attempts and with a semi-official revision of the figures, which gave him two more times at bat, dropped to .410. The other National league members were idle while Al Simmons and Babe Ruth each dropped a point in the averages, getting one hit in three trips to the plate.

Babe's Admirers Halt Political Rally

TAMPA, Fla., May 29.—(AP)—Two boys, barefoot and grimy, perched on the edge of the speakers' stand at a political rally last night, engaged in heated conversation. Their debate became so loud that even the candidates were almost drowned out. One prospective legislator walked over to the youngsters and wanted to know the cause of the fuss.

"Aw," responded one lad, "this kid says Babe Ruth can't be a politician 'cause he can't talk like you fellows. I said he didn't have to 'cause he could break up any old meetin' with a baseball bat."

"Your candidate is elected," agreed the questioner, and there were no more interruptions on either side.

White, Shropshire Clash for Title

R. H. White, Jr., will play Tommy Shropshire, Jr., this afternoon on the Capital City course for the championship of the annual governing board trophy tournament. White defeated Hugh Nunnally, 7-6, Thursday afternoon.

Hop Owens, former southern single tennis champion, defeated G. H. Ferguson, 2-1, Thursday for the championship of the second flight. It was a close and hard-fought match, with Owens having the edge in the iron play.

N. D. Bachman, playing in a foresome Wednesday afternoon at Capital City with Dr. J. G. Riley and two visitors, Mr. Davis and Mr. Smith, shot a hole-in-one on the 9th green. It is a par 3 230-yard hole and Bachman used a driver.

BIG BILL TILDEN LONE AMERICAN IN NET SINGLES

Wilbur Coen Falls Before Italian; Women Survive at Auteuil.

AUTEUIL, France, May 29.—(UN)—William T. Tilden, United States tennis champion, advanced to the semi-final round of the French hard court championships today by defeating G. P. Hughes, English Davis cup player, in the men's singles, 6-1, 8-10, 7-5, 6-3.

Tilden thus remains the only American entry in the men's singles as Baron H. D. De Morpurgo, of Italy, defeated Wilbur F. Coen, Jr., of Kansas City, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1, in the fourth round.

Elizabeth Ryan, of California, won her third round match in the women's singles by eliminating Mlle, Barbier, French ranking player, 6-1, 6-2.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs have already reached the quarter-final round in the women's singles and will not play again until tomorrow.

GEORGIA BOYS IN NET MEET

Halverstadt, Atlanta, Loses to Johnston, of Jefferson at Davidson.

DAVIDSON, N. C., May 29.—Frontis W. Johnston, of Jefferson, Ga., senior at Davidson College, has been awarded a silver loving cup by the Davidson Athletic Association as premier tennis player among the 600 students in the institution. He defeated A. N. Halverstadt, of Atlanta, Ga., another senior, to win the cup, which was competed for by all members of the varsity and freshmen tennis teams and by any other student who desired to enter the tournament.

The fight between these two Georgia boys for supremacy on the tennis courts was a close one, five sets being necessary to decide the winner. Johnston started off by taking the first set, 6-3, but Halverstadt copped the next two, 6-4, 6-2. Johnston staged a rally to take the final two sets, 7-5, and 6-2, to win the cup. Johnson was captain of the tennis team of Davidson during the season recently ended. These two men represented Davidson this year as the doubles team.

SPORTS FIRST, EDITORS SAY

much water sports—we give our readers all of it.

"Sports are the international language," he said or got over to your perspiring reported who was cursing an inadequate recollection of three years spent in German classes.

GLAD MAX IS LIKED.

"I am pleased," said Herr Herrman, "that Max Schmeling (pronounced Schmaling, with a long a) is getting such a fine reception over here. We do not know what his chances are but we believe them good and it is gratifying to find that so many Americans like him."

"I like your American sport pages," said Erik Meller, of Denmark. "They are good sections and the sports are reported well. I have read them and I like the style. We do not have baseball in my country except in a few places where Americans gather, but we give sports good space."

George Meri, a tall young man from Estonia, said that his country had few sports but that his paper printed all the sports news possible.

WINTER SPORTS.

S. Konstad, of Norway, grew quite happy in telling of his great winter sports—the magnificent skiing races, the jumpers and the skaters.

"Fine, fine," he said. "Our people like sports and we are giving more and more attention and space to them. They bring readers."

To a city which was palpitatingly reaching for new editions to read about how Bobby Jones was coming along in the British amateur golf tournament, news that Holland had but two golf courses and that the game was practically unknown in Norway, Denmark and other countries in Europe, came as a distinct surprise.

HAVEN'T ROOM.

"It is not that the game is not a great one," said representatives of those countries and it is not that we do not know of your Bobby Jones but we haven't the room to play it."

All of which is a very great pity, and the gentlemen were assured, when one thinks of all the land that is going to waste in the land of he pitch shot and the home of the putt.

It was our great amount of land that had the gentlemen from Europe gasping. When told that Atlanta had 12 golf courses, innumerable miniature courses and that three more large courses were about ready to be opened, the gentleman from Holland looked pained but could do nothing at all about it. In all his country they have found room for but two.

Europe, however, has gone for sports and has just started, if the gentlemen didn't mislead me. They seem to have no inhibitions about giving space to it. Even Herr Baberadt, from Germany, who said that he didn't read the sport pages even in his own country, said that they were good business and that his paper gave them a good play.

It does look like the good old U. S. A. had best look to its few remaining chaplets of the jolly old laurel. The boys across the way have found out what the printed word will do and they are not sparing the linotypes.

American Legion Teams Will Play

American Legion league teams will go into action at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in the second series of games and many of the teams will make their debut into the leagues at that time. Managers are requested to leave the scores of all games not later than 3 p. m. at 66 North Broad street.

MEMORIAL DAY AT MONTFAUCON.

Where the poppies scramble around our graves, and the blue corn flowers lean;

Twelve long years have known our sleep, dreamless through all weather;
Where snow and sun to us are one as time moves on its way;
Who've now forgotten any dream from any summer day.

The blue corn flowers do the same, where fields of clover grow;
But where the apple orchards bloom when summer winds have found us,

Summer's back with its silver rains, back with its golden day,
But twenty thousand Yankee lads and Dixie lads are sleeping
Where snow and sun to us are one as time moves on its way.

We once cheered for Speaker, Cobb and Matty's matchless tosses,
Now we may not cheer again beneath our rain-wet crosses,

FIGHT DOPE.

Even they don't know.

With the great stuff put across by Sam Rice, Joe Judge and other old time team mates, Walter Johnson admits that he feels an itching and twitching in his right shoulder, which still carries a bale of stuff.

GEORGE ADE'S NEIGHBOR.

One of the reasons Washington has been leading the American league is an old neighbor of George Ade's. He was born 38 years ago in Morocco, Ind., which is near Brook, Ind., and he was christened Edgar Charles Rice. For one reason or another they dropped the Edgar Charles for Sam, which may or may not be an Indiana custom. At any rate, Sam Rice, who is now playing his sixteenth season with Washington, has been leading the league most of the spring, driving in a flock of Washington runs and cutting off a flock of rival tallies by his sprightly play in the field.

Sam is quite a golfer on the side, always around eighty, sometimes well under. I talked with him about the comparative forms of the two swings, golf and baseball, and he said they carried the same principles.

"In each game," he said, "you've got to be back of the ball to hit it. I mean your weight must be back to get the punch in. In each game you've got to be careful not to swing too soon. Many ball players make this mistake. Nearly all golfers do. They are thinking too much of the act of hitting and not the swing itself. You can take more time than you think you can take in a baseball swing.

"The same is true of a golf swing. In baseball I like to see a hitter willing to wait and take his time, not one who lunges at the ball ahead of time. In golf I like to see a fellow who isn't in any great hurry to hit. But I'm not so anxious to play against him, for he is generally steady and hard to beat.

"I felt I was growing stale a little while back so I begged off and got in a round of golf. As I recall it, I got three hits in the next ball game and have been pegging along ever since. I know working on the principle of the golf swing has helped my hitting. It has helped me to recognize and cure hitting faults quicker than I used to cure them. There are certain fundamentals that govern both games and any one who follows these fundamentals can't go so far wrong."

GOLF DOPE AT ST. ANDREWS.

Regardless of any outcome at St. Andrews there have been several interesting points to consider from the week's play. One is the large number of unknowns who have beaten better golfers—better golfers so far as past records and past performances go—if not better golfers for that one round. Golf in this respect is an entirely different game from tennis.

Another angle has been the consistent golf of four of America's leading stars—Jones, Johnston, Voigt and Von Elm.

At least the open champion of the United States and the amateur champion were able to clear the way for their meeting Thursday afternoon, which is proof enough of championship class, even over the shorter route.

Few appreciate the nerve-wracking uncertainty of an 18-hole match where greens are hard and keen, ice keen, with a raw wind blowing. These things all belong to golf but they also help to give the rabbits their chances against the tigers, which is perhaps just as well. Or even better. Not as a championship test, but as a strictly sporting proposition.

Outside of Jones and Johnston, the United States champions, Voigt and Von Elm were expected to go far and both proved their ranking abroad as they have proved it over here. Voigt is a much finer golfer than the country at large has figured him to be—a sound, straight hitting, hard fighting competitor with a fine style and a keen touch around fast greens.

ANNISTON RALLIES.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., May 29.—An eighth-inning rally started when Wilson, Huntsville third baseman, threw wild to first base and which ended with Anniston making three runs before the side could be retired, cost the Springers a good ball game here this afternoon, 5 to 4.

The score was tied at 2-all from the first through the seventh inning, when the Nobles got three runs and the locals two. The game was devoid of any thrilling moments and was marred by sprinkling rain after the sixth inning.

McSwain, Thompson and Patterson led the stick work for Huntsville, while Walker and Sarra, with 3 and 2 hits, respectively, led for the visitors. Catcher Goggans was injured by a foul ball in the ninth and was replaced by Oldfield.

CEDARTOWN, Ga., May 29.—Two Talladega pitchers failed to stop the hard-hitting Cedartown Braves and lost 13 to 5.

Ozburn was the star fielder, accepting 12 chances with only one error. Gault was wild but tightened in the pinches and let up after his club gave him an early lead. Cedartown pulled four fast double plays.

Police Are Seeking Missing School Boy

Shortly before midnight Thursday police received a call to search for Paul Trammell, 6-year-old schoolboy who had not been seen by his parents since early morning, and they had become alarmed when he failed to return from school.

The boy, the son of J. L. Trammell, Jr., of 904 Boulevard, N. E., is a student in the first grade at Jerome Jones school and though his playmates were questioned and the hospitals searched no trace has been seen of the lad since he left school.

ATLANTAN IS HELD IN SWINDLING PROBE

SPARTANBURG, S. C., May 29. (AP)—A man who gave his name as Ernest Vincent Renney, 27, of Atlanta, Ga., arrested here by detectives when he attempted to obtain money on an alleged forged advertising order, is believed by police to be identified with an organized band of swindlers operating throughout the southeast for the last three years.

Renney, who worked under several aliases, was arrested when he presented the order to the Taylor Coloquitte Company office here.

Authorities said he used fictitious names of publications to further the alleged advertising schemes. He has been turned over to Greenville county authorities who have warrants issued for him charging obtaining money under false pretenses.

It is the belief of police that a large number of individual firms in the southeast have been the victims of the swindle which has cost them thousands of dollars. While the investigation has not progressed far, officers said they learned today in addition to the local company the Southern Process Company and the Southern Weaving Company, both of Greenville, had been swindled out of large sums.

Record Is Seen In Temperature Of Grady Patient

A nine-month-old baby girl who died of bronchial pneumonia at Grady hospital shortly before midnight Thursday, is believed by physicians to have had the highest temperature ever recorded in Atlanta, at least. The child was Dorothy Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Williams, of 596 Gasper street.

The baby was taken to the hospital by the parents about 8:30 o'clock Thursday night. A thermometer that would register as high as 108 degrees was placed in the child's mouth but quickly extracted when the mercury passed the 108-degree mark.

A second thermometer that would register 110 degrees was brought in and the baby's temperature registered 109 and 2-5 degrees. Despite this high temperature, and the fact that the child was unconscious she continued to live.

At 11 o'clock the child's fever dropped to 107.2 degrees and physicians used oxygen in an attempt to prolong its life. However, death came just before midnight. She had been suffering from pneumonia about two weeks and three months ago had had an attack of whooping cough. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Navy Will Permit Wilkins To Use Sub

WASHINGTON, May 29—(AP)—Sir Hubert Wilkins has been informed that he may use the navy's old decommissioned submarine C-12 for his arctic expedition, if he makes application through the shipping board.

Assistant Secretary Jahncke of the navy said today he had written to Sloan Danenhower, Wilkins' representative, to that effect.

Wilkins and several members of his proposed expedition outlined to Jahncke recently their plans for converting the submarine into an underwater craft they believed would be capable of boring its way through the ice of the polar regions.

Piles Go Quick

No Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers have not yet learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study, discovered a real internal remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He prescribed it for 1,000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided Pile sufferers everywhere should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Jacobs' Pharmacy today. They always guarantee it to give you quick and lasting relief or money back.—(adv.)

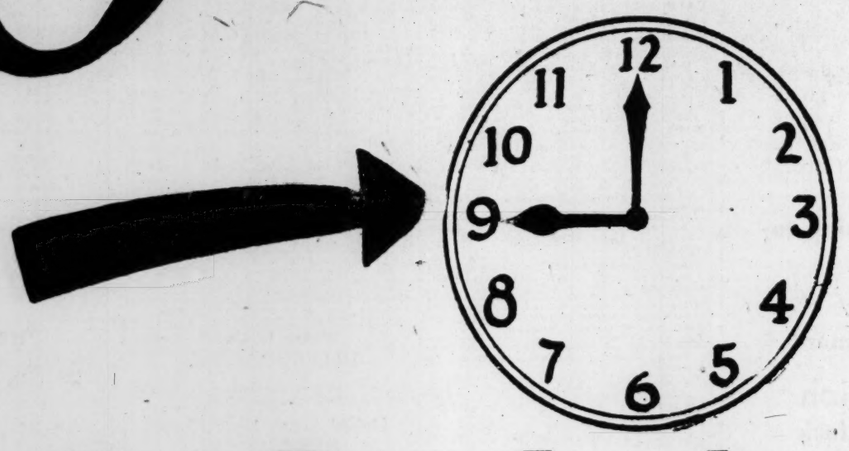

Decoration Day

Today the world offers its homage to the heroes of a historic struggle. These men from the office, factories and fields of the Civil War Days, teach us that great loyalty to a cause earns the undying tribute of all humanity. They teach us that a conception of loyal service is a vital essential of the man or the organization worthy of respect.

All subscriptions turned in personally by candidates tomorrow will be deposited in the ballot box and subscriptions received by mail, addressed to the campaign department, will be deposited in the ballot box, unopened. All candidates residing outside of Atlanta intending to mail their subscriptions and remittances are cautioned to be very careful to post them early enough so that the postmark of not later than 9 P. M., May 31, is obtained.

Final Rules and Instructions---Read Carefully

As a matter of caution and to guard against the possibility of misunderstanding during the closing days of the campaign, herewith are printed the final instructions which must be observed by candidates. Read every line carefully.

1—All contract subscriptions are received subject to verification and acceptance of The Atlanta Constitution and any contract subscription turned in and not accepted by The Constitution must be substituted with a bona-fide new acceptable subscription and no prize or commission will be given to the candidate until his or her subscriptions have been made good and accepted by The Constitution. Any cash in advance subscription turned in as New and verified as Old, must be substituted with a bona-fide NEW cash in advance subscription to The Constitution.

2—Check all receipts (ballots) carefully given you for covering subscriptions turned in. Pay particular attention to receipts covering remittances where "Second Payments" were included; also receipts covering cash payments on contracts and extensions on contracts. If you have any corrections to be made, notify the Campaign Manager in person or writing and return the receipts for proper correction. The Atlanta Constitution will not be responsible for errors, unless notification is given after which corrections will be made.

3—None of the official receipts (ballots) issued and given to candidates are to be returned to the Campaign Department, unless for corrections, these are your records and are to be held by you.

4—Under no conditions may a transfer of credits be effected between candidates. This is an absolute rule and will be strictly enforced.

6—Subscriptions may be turned in personally at the campaign headquarters in The Constitution Building or sent in by mail up to the closing hour of the campaign, 9 P. M., May 31, 1930.

7—On Saturday, May 31, the closing day of the campaign, all subscriptions and remittances turned in at the campaign headquarters should be placed in a sealed envelope and deposited in the locked and sealed Ballot Box at campaign headquarters which will be in charge of Ernst & Ernst, public accountants and auditors.

8—Subscriptions that are mailed must be addressed to The Atlanta Constitution Campaign Department, Atlanta, Georgia, and the envelope containing the subscriptions must show a postmark of having been mailed on or before 9 P M., May 31, 1930. Subscriptions that are mailed must reach the Campaign Department of The Constitution on or before 6 P. M., June 4, 1930. The Atlanta Constitution will not be responsible for any mail delayed, even though properly postmarked, which fails to arrive at the Campaign Department within the specified time. From now on subscriptions mailed should be sent "Special Delivery."

9—"Second Payments" must be so marked and amount of first payment given, and properly entered on Remittance Sheet. "Extensions" on contract subscriptions, "Cash Paid" on contracts and "Cash Turnd In" for extension on contracts must be properly marked and entered on the Contract Order Sheets and Remittance Sheets.

10—Cash must accompany all prepaid subscriptions. No sums of money will be accepted, the name of subscriber to follow later.

11—Subscriptions are verified and candidates are warned to be very careful in marking their prepaid subscriptions New or Old. The candidate is responsible for entry of subscriptions on remittance sheets. "Switching" or changing an old subscriber to a new one will only cause regret to the candidate, so be sure and enter your subscriptions properly.

12—Absolutely no subscription money will be refunded

HOW REGULAR PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED

To the candidate securing the highest total of credits during The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 Prize Campaign will be awarded the $3,120 PIERCE-ARROW SEDAN and $1,000 in Gold (First Grand Prize); to the second highest candidate in credit standing will be given the $2,835 FRANKLIN SEDAN and $500 in Gold (Second Grand Prize). These two awards will be made irrespective of the divisions or districts from which the winners may be entered.

After the two grand prize winners have been eliminated from further consideration, the three candidates highest in credit totals in the City Division (First Division) will be determined and to them will be given, in the order named, the $1,615 NASH SEDAN, the $1,180 CHRYSLER BROUGHAM and the $935 ESSEX COACH. In like manner the three candidates highest in credit standings in the Outside Division (Second Division) will be decided and to them will be awarded, in the following order, the $1,495 REO SEDAN, $1,295 MARMON-ROOSEVELT SEDAN and the $965 PONTIAC SEDAN. These division car awards will be made regardless of district boundaries in each division.

After the two grand prize winners and the six division prize winners of cars have been eliminated from further competition, next will be determined the three candidates highest in credit standing in each of the ten districts. To the leader in each district will be awarded one of the five $685 CHEVROLET COACHES or one of the five $608 FORD TUDOR SEDANS. The five $685 CHEVROLET COACHES will be given to the five highest of these ten candidates and the five $608 FORD TUDOR SEDANS will be given to the remaining five winners of district automobiles. The second highest candidate, in credit standing, in each district will be given a $174.50 ATWATER KENT RADIO, and the third highest candidate, in credit standing, in each district will be given a $146.50 ATWATER KENT RADIO.

No candidate can win more than one of the regular listed prizes. All candidates not winning a regular prize will be paid a cash commission of ten per cent on all new prepaid subscriptions and five per cent on all new contract subscriptions turned in by them, providing they remain active from time of entry and turn in at least $50 in new subscriptions.

ERNST & ERNST TO AUDIT RETURNS

The nationally known firm of Ernst & Ernst, public accountants, with offices in the Haas Building, Atlanta, will have charge of auditing the entire returns of The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 prize campaign and awarding the prizes. DANNY WATCHES CAROL.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

'Tis neither wise nor right to yearn
For that in which you've no concern.
—Carol the Meadow Lark.

Danny Meadow Mouse had something to think about. He was sure that the nest of Carol the Meadow Lark was somewhere in the neighborhood, but where he didn't know. Danny was interested. He knew that Mrs. Meadow Lark builds her nest on the ground. Carol had already told him that there were eggs in that nest. Now, Danny Meadow Mouse isn't above stealing an egg when he can do it in safety. He got to thinking of those eggs in that nest of Mrs.

He disappeared down in the grass just ahead.

Meadow Lark's. The more he thought of them, the more he wanted to sample them. So he began spending a great deal of time looking for that nest.

Now, as you know, Danny Meadow Mouse is a small person. Already the grass was quite tall and, of course, Danny couldn't see over it. This was a very great disadvantage. He could look up and see Carol in the air, but when Carol came down Danny never could see just where he dropped into the grass. It was much the same as it would be with you if you were in the Green Forest and saw Redtail the Hawk soaring overhead. As long as he remained up above you would be able to get glimpses of him through the tree tops, but the moment he descended you would lose sight of him. It was exactly that way with Danny Meadow Mouse.

However, Danny noticed that Carol most often disappeared in the grass in a certain direction. "Right over there is where that nest is," thought Danny, and began cutting a little path in that direction. Little by little that path grew and as he worked he could look up and see Carol. It didn't once occur to Danny that Carol looking down might see him.

Once as he stopped to rest he saw Carol with an insect in his bill. He disappeared down in the grass just ahead. Danny chuckled when he saw this. "He's taking that to feed Mrs. Meadow Lark," said Danny to himself. "Yes, sir, he's feeding Mrs. Meadow Lark on the nest. He's saving her the trouble of going to look for food. That nest must be only a little way ahead. I ought to find it pretty soon now."

A few moments later Danny heard the sound of wings and Carol flew up out of the grass from a point only a few feet away. Danny's eyes brightened. He was sure that he was just about to find that nest. If he found that nest, he would have eggs, for he would watch his chance to steal them when the nest was left unguarded for a moment. He knew exactly where Carol had flown up from.

"I'll be very careful now," thought Danny. "I'll be very, very careful. I don't want Mrs. Meadow Lark to see me. If she should see me, she would be suspicious."

So Danny worked very, very carefully until he came to the place from which Carol had flown. He knew he wasn't mistaken. He was positive that Carol had been right there. But, though he looked and looked, Danny found no nest. He found no trace of a nest. He sat still for a few minutes to think it over.

"It must be," thought Danny, "that Carol walked away from that nest before he flew. He wouldn't fly up directly from the nest for fear that some enemy might see him and so find the nest. But it cannot be very far away. A little patience is all I need.

He heard Carol singing up above. At the end of the song he saw Carol start down. At first he thought that Carol was going to alight right beside him. But he didn't. He passed right over Danny's head and alighted only a short distance away, a very short distance. Danny peeked between the grass-stems and caught a glimpse of Carol. "Now," thought Danny, "I'll find the nest."

Newspaper Rate Here Low in Comparison

Atlanta's newspapers give greater values in advertising space than any throughout the country, it was pointed out by Joel C. Harris, Jr., representative in this territory for the Kelly-Smith Advertising Agency, in an address at the Ad Club luncheon Thursday at the Piedmont hotel.

Mr. Harris' subject was "Newspaper Representation." He explained that he represented 24 newspapers in cities throughout the eastern half of the United States in his connection with the Kelly-Smith organization and that certainly none of these offered space so cheap in proportion as it was in Atlanta.

In view of the existing conditions Mr. Harris took the position that an increase in rates in Atlanta would be entirely reasonable. During the course of his talk he referred to the difference in local and national space rates, explaining briefly the cause for the latter being high.

Revised Electrical Code Gets Approval

A revised electrical code for Atlanta will go to council Monday with a favorable report of the electric lights committee of that body and will be referred to the ordinance committee for a public hearing.

The electrical body Thursday afternoon approved the measure, which it was declared was an attempt to modernize the present code. No major changes were included, according to Pat Hendricks, city electrician.

EMPLOYMENT AGENCY

Government To Open Office Next Week.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(Special.)—Officials of the department of labor announced today that the new special employment agency to be established at Atlanta for the benefit of World War veterans will be expected to start functioning next week, with offices in the federal building.

The Atlanta office will serve as headquarters for activities in the southeastern area. A number of similar offices will be located over the country, including another at Louisville, it was announced.

Only the special needs of unemployed World War veterans will be handled by the offices, which will be manned by veterans themselves. Ordinarily the employment agencies are located at district headquarters of the veterans' bureau in the several cities, but space was obtained in the federal building in Atlanta because of the inconvenient location of the veterans' bureau offices there.

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR No. 65

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Seeing that the sentries stood without advancing, and realizing that, handicapped as he was by the weight of the "she," he could put up but a poor battle, Taglat elected to risk a sudden break for liberty. Lowering his head, the ape charged straight for the two blacks who blocked the doorway. The impact of his mighty shoulders bowled them over upon their backs, and before they could scramble to their feet, the ape was gone, darting through the shadows toward the palisade.

The speed and strength of her rescurer filled Jane Clayton with wonder. Could it be that Tarzan had survived the bullet of the Arab? Who else in all the jungle could bear the weight of a grown woman as lightly as he who held her? She spoke his name; but there was no response. Still she did not give up hope. At the palisade the beast did not even hesitate. A single mighty leap carried it to the top, where it poised an instant before dropping to the ground upon the opposite side.

Now the girl was almost positive she was safe in the arms of her husband, and when the ape took to the trees and bore her swiftly into the jungle, as Tarzan had done at other times in the past, belief became conviction. In a little moonlit glade, a mile or so from the camp of the raiders, her rescurer halted and dropped her to the ground. His roughness surprised her, but still she had no doubts. Again she called him by name—and received the greatest shock of her life.

At the instant she spoke, the ape, fretting under the restraint of the unaccustomed garments of the Tarmangani, tore the burnoose from him, revealing to the eyes of the horror-struck woman the hideous face and hairy form of a gaint anthropoid. With a piteous wail of terror, Jane Clayton swooned, while, from the concealment of a nearby bush, Numa the lion, eyed the pair hungrily and licked his chops. Slowly the king of beasts wormed his way closer to its intended prey.

Constitution Prize Campaign Will End Saturday at 9 P. M.

Rushing through the last hours of a furious race for supremacy, while time is ticking off the precious minutes, candidates in The Atlanta Constitution's great $25,000 prize campaign tomorrow night will wind up the greatest gift event in the history of this newspaper.

Into most every home in this section has spread the news that the golden horn of plenty is about to be tipped over, shedding its riches broadcast. And the hurry and scramble to come under its beneficence is precipitating a veritable storm of credits.

List of Prizes.

The first grand prize is a new $3,120 Pierce Arrow sedan and $1,000 in gold. The second grand prize is a $2,835 Franklin sedan and $500 in gold. Other automobiles to be given are as follows: Nash sedan, value $1,615; $1,495 Reo sport sedan, $1,295 Marmon Roosevelt sedan, $1,180 Chrysler brougham, $965 Pontiac sedan, $935 Essex coach, five $685 Chevrolet coaches and five $608 Ford tudor sedans. There are also ten $174.50 Atwater Kent radios and ten $146.50 Atwater Kent radios to be awarded. And all who remain active throughout the campaign, and not winning a prize, will receive cash commissions.

Work without rest is the portion that candidates have picked out for themselves during these final days of the campaign, for the extreme uncertainty as to just how many credits each candidate may have makes it urgent that everything possible be done to make sure of victory. Predictions, of course, are being made, but the ultimate outcome is something that cannot be forecast.

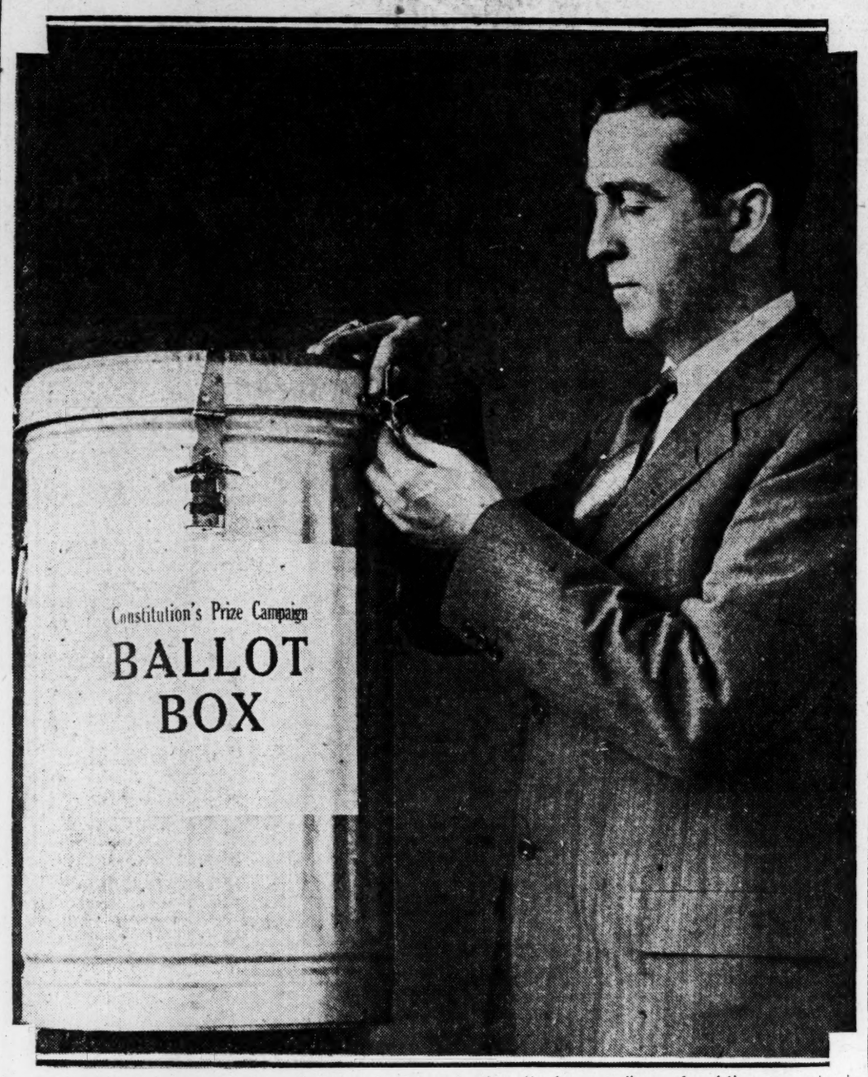

Ballot Box Sealed.

Everything is in readiness for the finish. A ballot box, locked and sealed is waiting to receive the final subscriptions. The nationally known firm of Ernst & Ernst, public accountants and auditors, will have charge of the ballot box and auditing the entire returns of the campaign and announcing the winners.

The end is in the hands of candidates and their friends. Persons who have been watching the campaign with interest—who have friends among the candidates they would like to help win a prize—must do it now.

To candidates let it be said that the last hours are fraught with uncertainties. Work, fight, to the last ditch.

Contest Ballot Box Locked and Sealed

D. R. Paige, representative of Ernst & Ernst, nationally known firm of public accountants and auditors, who will have charge of auditing the returns in The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 prize campaign, is shown sealing the ballot box in which candidates will deposit their final subscriptions Saturday.

New Orleans Still Mistress of South

NEW ORLEANS, May 29.—(AP)—New Orleans retained its place as the largest city of the south today by a report of the district census supervisor giving it a population of approximately 451,634.

The census meant an increase during the last ten years of 64,415 or 16.6 per cent as the 1920 population stood at 387,219.

The increase was gained without any additional territory being incorporated but included the Algiers suburb across the Mississippi river. Other thickly populated areas in Jefferson and St. Bernard parishes just outside the city limits were not included.

K. of New Haven Will Hop Off Today

HARTFORD, Conn., May 29.—(AP) The "K of New Haven," her motors tuned up and a new generator installed, was all ready to hop off tonight on her non-stop refueling flight to Buenos Aires, and then at the last minute she was wheeled back into her hangar.

The three men who are to guide her on her 7,700-mile journey decided it would not be best to start in the dusk, because no refueling contacts could be made in the dark and they would have had to cruise between New Haven and Bridgeport until dawn.

The backers of the expedition, who had given several ultimata as to time limits—and who, in fact, had set today and then 2 p. m. as the last moment for a start if they were to put up the money—relented and fixed 6 a. m., tomorrow (E. S. T.), as the deadline.

REV. HUGH T. KERR NAMED MODERATOR

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 29.—(AP) The Rev. Hugh Thompson Kerr, of Pittsburgh, an eminent sponsor of mission work in the Presbyterian church, today defeated Dr. Henry B. Foster, of Philadelphia, the author of that denomination's minister pension plan for the right to lead the general assembly as moderator of the Presbyterian church in the United States during the coming year.

The fundamentalist candidate, Dr. Samuel G. Craig, of Princeton, N. J., withdrew. During the day the field had been narrowed down to these three men and when nominating speeches were called for late in the afternoon Dr. Craig's sponsors did not respond.

The Pittsburgh presbytery has requested the assembly to investigate what it termed the "portrayal of vulgarity, indecency and the technique of crime . . . in the advertising programs of the modern picture theaters."

Another overture from the West German Synod asked the assembly to protest against "widespread unscientific cigaret advertising;" "the commercializing and detrimental effect of Sunday baseball," and "the opening of theaters on the Lord's Day for commercial purposes."

UNITED PRESBYTERIANS DISCUSS MERGERS.

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 29.—(AP)—Widely divergent views on the proposed merger of five Presbyterian denominations were aired at the seventy-second general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church of North America today.

The assembly heard its ministers and elders praise and condemn the recommendation that the unification overtures be continued as urged by Dr. W. J. Reid, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the inter-denominational committee which has had the matter under consideration.

It heard S. S. White, of the Allegheny presbytery, blame a reported decrease in the church membership during the past year on talk of uniting with the south, the Dutch Reformed and the German Reformed Presbyterian churches.

PRESBYTERIANS CLOSE VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 29.—(AP)—Southern Presbyterians today traveled toward their homes in 17 states following adjournment here late yesterday of their seventieth general assembly.

A compromise of the old controversial question of union with other branches, periodically recurrent in the church for many years marked the 1930 convention. Facing apparent defeat, its opponents were able to push through a resolution delaying settlement of the question.

Under its provisions negotiations will be continued for the next 12 months with other Presbyterian bodies in the country on the subject of organic union, to be reported at the 1931 general assembly when it meets the fourth Thursday in May at the School of the Ozarks, Hollister, Mo. Dr. Thomas W. Currie, Austin, Texas, assembly moderator, is chairman of the committee.

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman and the Federal Council of Churches of Christ were denounced yesterday before the assembly by leaders who unsuccessfully sought to have the Southern Presbyterian church withdraw from the council.

Dr. C. R. Nisbet, of Charlotte, N. C., and Dr. George Summey, of Austin, Texas, joined the criticism of Dr. Cadman as radio minister of the federal council, but urged maintenance of relations with the council. Several delegates alleged the radio minister preached religious views at variance with the principles of the Southern Presbyterian church.

The Rev. S. H. Chester, Montreat, N. C., was retired at his own request as a representative of the church in the federal council, and Dr. E. W. McCorkle, Ashland, Ky., was elected in his place.

Dr. W. L. Lingle, Davidson, N. C., was elected a member of the council executive committee.

Alabama, W. R. Dobyns, Birmingham; Appalachia, R. F. Campbell, Asheville, N. C.; Arkansas, E. B. Tucker, Batesville. Florida, J. A. McClure, St. Petersburg; Georgia, W. M. Everett, Atlanta; Kentucky, H. H. Sweets, Louisville; Louisiana, George Summey, Austin, Texas; Mississippi, J. B. Hutton, Jackson; Missouri, J. M. Alexander, Columbia, N. C.; R. R. Lacy, Jr., Richmond, Va.; Oklahoma, Christ Matheson, Shawnee; Snedicor Memorial, I. C. H. Champney, Montgomery, Ala.; South Carolina, Robert A. Lapsley, Jr., Columbia; Tennessee, J. I. Vance, Nashville; Texas, W. M. Anderson, Dallas; Virginia, Harris E. Kirk, Baltimore; West Virginia, Ernest Thompson, Charleston.

Police Guard U. S. School in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, May 29.—(AP)—At the request of the American school authorities the police department today assigned two police detectives to guard the school.

The Y. M. C. A. physical director this forenoon canceled a track meet with the American school, saying his athletes did not wish to meet the American school, on account of bad feeling.

The action followed confiscation from American school students by the Mexican government of several hundred geography and grammar textbooks in which reference made to Mexico was considered by the authorities to be derogatory.

The Mexican authorities, carrying a written order from the department of the interior, appeared at the American school on Tuesday and took away the books, which were the property of individual students and had been in use several years.

Baby Feared Carried Away by Black Bear

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., May 29.—(AP)—The two-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Geske, homesteaders west of here, is believed to have been carried away from the cabin yesterday by a black bear.

The bear was seen about the home in the afternoon, and a little while later the mother hastened to neighbors hunting for the baby, which had wandered into the yard to play.

Home Brew Explosions Thought Gun Battle

MIAMI, Fla., May 29.—(AP)—City Detective John McLendon made two trips to a Miami home today to investigate telephone reports by a woman that a gun battle was in progress there.

Other neighbors had heard no shots, they said.

Detective McLendon sniffed about the garage. In addition, he saw bottles scattered about.

MURDER VICTIM'S BODY VANISHES AFTER CRIME

Chicago Police Find One Gunner But Can Find No Body.

CHICAGO, May 29.—(AP)—Police today found themselves with evidence of a gang murder—but no body of a victim.

They held also one of the suspected slayers whose sullen silence threw no light on the affair and a doubtful clue to the victim's identity.

Finding a small sedan in an Edgewater distillery, where the supposed killing took place, led to the theory the victim—tentatively believed to be Harry Greenfield—was killed while in his own car and his body then transferred to another to be carried to one of gangland's many spots of disposal.

Three boys, who said they witnessed the shooting, gave a different version. They said they saw several men leap from a purple-striped sedan and fire many shots at a man who fled at sight of them. The boys ran for a policeman and returned with one in time to see the death car starting away, supposedly with the victim's body inside. The boys said his head was almost shot away.

The policeman grabbed one man from the running board. He carried a golf bag in which was concealed a shot gun, one barrel fired, and in his pocket an automatic pistol. He gave his name as Sam Hunt, 27, and denied any part in the shooting.

The small sedan found by police carried an identification card bearing Greenfield's name and a west side address. The windshield was shattered at the address revealed he was not and empty shells were found. Check known. An automobile dealer, who said Greenfield paid cash for the car, furnished another address which was checked with the same result.

Police today were seeking Mike Allegretti, James Hines, Ralph Pierce and Clyde Bridges who, records revealed, had been arrested on previous occasions with Hunt. Officials believe Allegretti to be the real manager of the Cotton Club, the Cicero cabaret reputedly owned by Ralph Capone.

Detectives suggested that the indictment yesterday by a federal grand jury of Ralph Capone under the Jones law may have provided a motive for the gun attack, the victim possibly being someone believed to have given information involving Capone in liquor law violations.

Whether the victim of the gunmen was killed in the alley attack, police had no way of knowing; but they were certain that if the man was alive when taken into the car, he later was killed.

A new sedan, windshield shattered and cartridges strewn about the floor, was found in an alley behind a church in the neighborhood where the shooting occurred. An identification card in a pocket of the car gave the name of Harry Greenfield. The police thought he might be the victim and owner of the car.

The police later said the victim probably was shot in his own car and dragged to his assailants' automobile for his last ride.
